

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE.

E. ROSEWATER, Editor.

PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION: Daily Bee (without Sunday), One Year $6.00...

OFFICES: Omaha: The Bee Building, South Omaha: City Hall Building, Twenty-fifth and N streets.

CORRESPONDENCE: Communications relating to news and editorial matter should be addressed: Omaha Bee, Editorial Department.

REMITTANCES: Remit by draft, express or postal order, payable to The Bee Publishing Company.

STATEMENT OF CIRCULATION: State of Nebraska, Douglas County, The Bee Publishing Company, being duly sworn, says that...

Table with 3 columns: Rank, Circulation, and Amount. Total circulation 792,635.

Parties leaving for summer: Parties leaving the city for the summer may have the Bee sent to them regularly by notifying The Bee Business Office...

Peru has declared for sound money. Nebraska will follow suit in November.

The Missouri spirit has spread over Europe so that the Chinaman will be forced to show the powers if he expects them to believe the ministers in Peking are alive.

Council Bluffs seems to be encountering as much trouble over its new high school building as Omaha.

The prohibition candidates for president and vice president have been notified of their nomination.

All the population schedules of the Omaha census have gone on to Washington, but there is a pronounced suspicion abroad that they will look disappointing when they come back.

When Colonel Roosevelt wrote that book on the "Winning of the West" he was not aware how much service he was rendering the editorial scissors wielders of the popocratic organs.

Secretary Edgerton says Towne is the only one who can say whether or not the superannuated fall to the Bryan kite is to withdraw.

Fusion politicians who are attempting to dispose of promises of reform to the voters of this state are asked to discount them at a minimum rate.

Complete fusion seems to have been effected in Kansas on the state ticket over very much the same plan that it was brought about in Nebraska.

The Russians have announced that immediately it is known the ministers in Peking have been murdered the coast cities are to be shelled.

It has not been such a long time since the fusionists resented being called populists, but now that the founders of the party are willing to accept the name, they claim it for their own.

Colonel Bryan has just renewed his acquaintance and swapped reminiscences with his old-time education teacher.

The flour trust has been forced to reorganize by scaling down its stock and bonds.

There is a more tangled mess of inconsistencies here than there is in the land, when a matter of fact but for the present era of prosperity the concern would have been unable to survive the first interest day.

NO ADVANCE ON PEKIN.

Still no advance on Peking. Still no response by the powers to the appeal of the legations besieged in the Chinese capital for relief.

Meanwhile doubt remains regarding the fate of the foreign ministers and the belief continues strong that the Chinese government is not acting in good faith.

The impression in some quarters that the Chinese government is seeking to gain time in order to more fully prepare for war is not without reason.

The Chinese minister at Washington, an able man who is undoubtedly acting in good faith, regards this view as groundless.

Without their consent: "The only movement to govern people without their consent," remarks the Indianapolis Journal.

Formidable foes of Bryanism: Irrigation in Nebraska, at a cost of $1 an acre, has been the bane of the state.

Stephen A. Douglas, in his joint debate with Abraham Lincoln at Freeport, Ill., on June 15, 1858, expressed his views on the question of expansion in a manner which should engage the attention of democrats.

Nominations to burn: Many perplexities are confronting Universal Candidate Bryan.

Few parallels for the prosperity shown by railway receipts: Our Bryanite contemporary, the Louisville Courier-Journal, has just published the very interesting story of the Union Pacific railroad.

Democracy cannot see why it is that men who do not endorse the republican policy in its entirety can refuse to vote with them.

The promoters of the fake county fair gotten up for the purpose of raiding the county treasury will try to take advantage of the musical festival and the Ak-Sar-Ben demonstrations to draw business to their hippodrome horse races.

The threat that the ministers in Peking will be held as hostages against any advance on Peking by the powers will tend to improve the chances of a peaceful settlement of pending difficulties.

OUR CONSTITUTION IN CHINA.

How it came to be translated and taken home for study. The relation of the United States to the responsible government of China is, in some respects, different from that of any other nation.

Democrats of New Orleans are again at work showing their consideration for the negro by raiding the negro district in quest of a lynching bee.

Quite a number of offices are to be filled in Iowa this fall and Fred White has not decided yet for which one of them he will be beaten.

Assuming that the valued New York Mail and Express is correct in saying that Alged, Bryan and Croker form the A B C of the democratic party, it may be taken for granted that the D E F is defeat.

It is a sad day for the anti-imperialists when they see the president preparing for constitutional government and freedom in Cuba.

After noting that the largest democratic losses were in those localities where Mr. Bryan did the most speaking in 1896, republicans are not unwilling that he should go about Indiana as much as his engagements elsewhere will permit.

Admiral Dewey is naturally tired of politics, and does not receive with favor the mention of his name as the presidential candidate of those who can vote for neither McKinley nor Bryan.

The tax on the workman's dinner pail is not a subject of democratic discussion this year. Even the time-serving politicians can remember the work of lightning the dinner pail burden was overdone during the last democratic administration.

The democratic legislature of North Carolina passed a Goebel election law which puts the counting of the votes in the control of the electors.

Formidable foes of Bryanism: Irrigation in Nebraska, at a cost of $1 an acre, has been the bane of the state.

Stephen A. Douglas, in his joint debate with Abraham Lincoln at Freeport, Ill., on June 15, 1858, expressed his views on the question of expansion in a manner which should engage the attention of democrats.

Nominations to burn: Many perplexities are confronting Universal Candidate Bryan.

Few parallels for the prosperity shown by railway receipts: Our Bryanite contemporary, the Louisville Courier-Journal, has just published the very interesting story of the Union Pacific railroad.

Democracy cannot see why it is that men who do not endorse the republican policy in its entirety can refuse to vote with them.

OUR CONSTITUTION IN CHINA.

How it came to be translated and taken home for study. The relation of the United States to the responsible government of China is, in some respects, different from that of any other nation.

Democrats of New Orleans are again at work showing their consideration for the negro by raiding the negro district in quest of a lynching bee.

Quite a number of offices are to be filled in Iowa this fall and Fred White has not decided yet for which one of them he will be beaten.

Assuming that the valued New York Mail and Express is correct in saying that Alged, Bryan and Croker form the A B C of the democratic party, it may be taken for granted that the D E F is defeat.

It is a sad day for the anti-imperialists when they see the president preparing for constitutional government and freedom in Cuba.

After noting that the largest democratic losses were in those localities where Mr. Bryan did the most speaking in 1896, republicans are not unwilling that he should go about Indiana as much as his engagements elsewhere will permit.

Admiral Dewey is naturally tired of politics, and does not receive with favor the mention of his name as the presidential candidate of those who can vote for neither McKinley nor Bryan.

The tax on the workman's dinner pail is not a subject of democratic discussion this year. Even the time-serving politicians can remember the work of lightning the dinner pail burden was overdone during the last democratic administration.

The democratic legislature of North Carolina passed a Goebel election law which puts the counting of the votes in the control of the electors.

Formidable foes of Bryanism: Irrigation in Nebraska, at a cost of $1 an acre, has been the bane of the state.

Stephen A. Douglas, in his joint debate with Abraham Lincoln at Freeport, Ill., on June 15, 1858, expressed his views on the question of expansion in a manner which should engage the attention of democrats.

Nominations to burn: Many perplexities are confronting Universal Candidate Bryan.

Few parallels for the prosperity shown by railway receipts: Our Bryanite contemporary, the Louisville Courier-Journal, has just published the very interesting story of the Union Pacific railroad.

Democracy cannot see why it is that men who do not endorse the republican policy in its entirety can refuse to vote with them.

OUR CONSTITUTION IN CHINA.

How it came to be translated and taken home for study. The relation of the United States to the responsible government of China is, in some respects, different from that of any other nation.

Democrats of New Orleans are again at work showing their consideration for the negro by raiding the negro district in quest of a lynching bee.

Quite a number of offices are to be filled in Iowa this fall and Fred White has not decided yet for which one of them he will be beaten.

Assuming that the valued New York Mail and Express is correct in saying that Alged, Bryan and Croker form the A B C of the democratic party, it may be taken for granted that the D E F is defeat.

It is a sad day for the anti-imperialists when they see the president preparing for constitutional government and freedom in Cuba.

After noting that the largest democratic losses were in those localities where Mr. Bryan did the most speaking in 1896, republicans are not unwilling that he should go about Indiana as much as his engagements elsewhere will permit.

Admiral Dewey is naturally tired of politics, and does not receive with favor the mention of his name as the presidential candidate of those who can vote for neither McKinley nor Bryan.

The tax on the workman's dinner pail is not a subject of democratic discussion this year. Even the time-serving politicians can remember the work of lightning the dinner pail burden was overdone during the last democratic administration.

The democratic legislature of North Carolina passed a Goebel election law which puts the counting of the votes in the control of the electors.

Formidable foes of Bryanism: Irrigation in Nebraska, at a cost of $1 an acre, has been the bane of the state.

Stephen A. Douglas, in his joint debate with Abraham Lincoln at Freeport, Ill., on June 15, 1858, expressed his views on the question of expansion in a manner which should engage the attention of democrats.

Nominations to burn: Many perplexities are confronting Universal Candidate Bryan.

Few parallels for the prosperity shown by railway receipts: Our Bryanite contemporary, the Louisville Courier-Journal, has just published the very interesting story of the Union Pacific railroad.

Democracy cannot see why it is that men who do not endorse the republican policy in its entirety can refuse to vote with them.

BRYAN AS A PACIF PRODUCE.

Without Congress He Could Do Much to Injure Credit of Country. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Some of the gold democratic renegades who are supporting Bryan—but, happily, the Bryanite has many more of his kind—were pretending that his election would make no difference to the money situation.

This sort of a "scare" is it needless to tell intelligent persons, would be a pretty serious thing for the United States.

Out of the conversation grew a project to translate the constitution of the United States into the Chinese language.

A Bryanite "scare" would be disastrous for the country. The moment the secretary of the treasury started to pay out silver to meet the government's current demands a wave of apprehension might sweep over the country.

Our opportunities at the present crisis are unique. Every European government, distrusted by all the high officials at Peking—by those friendly to foreign inventions as well as by those who hate and despise the foreigner and all his works.

Travelers who take no interest in the religious operations of the churches at home are not likely to furnish impartial and trustworthy accounts of the Christian work done by the missionaries in the foreign countries the visit. People see what they go to see.

Senator Caffery's unvarying summer outfit is a suit of linen hosepant, a Panama hat and a green umbrella.

Ex-Secretary of the Navy William C. Whitney is as expert an automobile as he is a horseman and delights in running one of his own automobiles.

The Archduke Francis Ferdinand, Austrian heir presumptive, is one of the best shots in Europe. He is credited with having killed over 400 head of game in an hour and a half not long ago.

General Diaz, on learning of his re-election as president of Mexico, said: "I must repeat what I said some months ago. Neither my age nor my capabilities qualify me to continue ruling the country."

Prof. Thomas J. Norton of the University of Cincinnati, who was recently appointed to establish a United States consulate at Harport, Turkey, will have the honor of representing this country at its furthest inland consulate.

Colonel John W. Geary, the last alcalde and the first mayor of San Francisco, has been invited to take part in the semi-annual admission day celebration.

Work has been begun in Baltimore on the silver service for Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley to be made from the silver casket captured on the Spanish cruiser Orialba.

BITS OF CHINESE GOSSIP.

There is a saying that a Chinese soldier is "eleven-tenths thief." Chinese regiments are recruited in the same manner as British regiments.

The Chinese empire includes one-twelfth of the land surface of the world and one-fourth of the world's population.

One of the best known American consuls in China is Rev. Samuel L. Gracey, D. D., who is now in Peking.

Princess Sheng, the director of telegraphs of the Chinese empire, has played a somewhat conspicuous part in the communications by cable between Peking and the powers.

Without claiming infallible practice for foreign missions there is abundant proof that the progress of the world in science, art, literature, commerce and philanthropy is due in addition to the spiritual and religious influence on personal character of the most competent authorities.

Without claiming infallible practice for foreign missions there is abundant proof that the progress of the world in science, art, literature, commerce and philanthropy is due in addition to the spiritual and religious influence on personal character of the most competent authorities.

Without claiming infallible practice for foreign missions there is abundant proof that the progress of the world in science, art, literature, commerce and philanthropy is due in addition to the spiritual and religious influence on personal character of the most competent authorities.

Without claiming infallible practice for foreign missions there is abundant proof that the progress of the world in science, art, literature, commerce and philanthropy is due in addition to the spiritual and religious influence on personal character of the most competent authorities.

Without claiming infallible practice for foreign missions there is abundant proof that the progress of the world in science, art, literature, commerce and philanthropy is due in addition to the spiritual and religious influence on personal character of the most competent authorities.

Without claiming infallible practice for foreign missions there is abundant proof that the progress of the world in science, art, literature, commerce and philanthropy is due in addition to the spiritual and religious influence on personal character of the most competent authorities.

Without claiming infallible practice for foreign missions there is abundant proof that the progress of the world in science, art, literature, commerce and philanthropy is due in addition to the spiritual and religious influence on personal character of the most competent authorities.

Without claiming infallible practice for foreign missions there is abundant proof that the progress of the world in science, art, literature, commerce and philanthropy is due in addition to the spiritual and religious influence on personal character of the most competent authorities.

Without claiming infallible practice for foreign missions there is abundant proof that the progress of the world in science, art, literature, commerce and philanthropy is due in addition to the spiritual and religious influence on personal character of the most competent authorities.

Without claiming infallible practice for foreign missions there is abundant proof that the progress of the world in science, art, literature, commerce and philanthropy is due in addition to the spiritual and religious influence on personal character of the most competent authorities.