denced both by the receipt of Mr. Conger's message and the transmission of the edict. is very gratifying, but is not in entire accordance with the original demands of the president in his reply to the appeal for mediation. The president in his original communication to the emperor of China laid down three conditions precedent to any action looking to negotiations for the settlement of the difficulties between China and the powers. These conditions, in the president's own words, were as follows:

I most solemnly urge upon your majesty's government to give public assurance whether the foreign ministers are alive, and if so, in what condition. To put the respresentatives of the powers in immediate and free communication with their respective governments and to re-move all danger to their lives and property. To place the imperial authorities of China with the relief expedition so that co-opera-tion may be secured between them for the thirty French and ten Italian marines. tion may be secured between them for the liberation of the legations and the protec-tion of foreigners by the restoration of order.

These three demands were practically reit grated in the dispatch which Secretary Hay sent to Consul Goodnow at Shanghai on August 1 for submission to Earl Li Hung Chang. The authorities consider that th opening of communication with Minister Conger, therefore, only partially complies prepare to proceed to Shanghai. with the president's demands. With the legations still under fire, the Chinese government cannot be said to have removed "all dangers to their lives and liberty" and, moreover, so far as known here, the the Chinese craft from the creek surroundimperial authorities of China have made ing the artificial island of Sha Mien and no efforts to communicate and co-operate Canton. The Chinese protest against such with the relief expedition.

Hope That China May Yield.

The new demand upon the Chinese government is for square-toed compliance with these conditions. There is hope, growing out of the fact that the Chinese government has yielded partially, that when confronted with the firm position taken by the United States it will be sufficiently impressed to make complete acquiescence. This government's determination, it is hoped, will show the Chinese government that the United States is not to be triffed with and will bring the shifting. evasive authorities in Pekin to a full realization of the situation and the consequences of refusal.

Minister Wu early in the day brought to the State department the imperial edict removing restrictions from free communica tion with the ministers. He was plainly perturbed over Minister Conger's report that the legationers were under fire, but still contended that his government was acting in good faith, and protested against a misrepresentation of the situation. He pointed out the fact that the absence of artillery fire might indicate that there were no regular troops engaged in the assault and that the and assigns Jung Lu to select efficient rifle fire spoken of by Mr. Conger simply might be the snapping of disgruntled irreg ulars, who were engaged in guerrilla tac tics.

Cables from the Front.

Two dispatches were received during the day, one from Admiral Remey and the other from General Chaffee. Both related to the fighting at Peitsang. Admiral Remey's dispatch stated specifically that the Americans were not engaged, and General Chaffee's dispatch explained how it was that they were practically out of it. They occupied the rear of the turning column.

Owing to the limited ground of operation. which he mentions, it is probable that the Americans could not be brought into the thick of the fighting, and they thus escaped without casualties. The fact that the American troops did not have an oppor tunity to distinguish themselves was some thing of a disappointment to the officials at the War department, but, knowing General Chaffee as they do, they are confiden that if his men were not engaged it was because it was physically impossible to bring them into action. The continued

Richardson Tells Bryan.

Senator James K. Jones, chairman of the democratic national committee, was introduced by Mayor Taggart as presiding officer of the occasion. Senator Jones in a brief speech introduced Congressman James D. Richardson of Tennessee. Congressman Richardson was received with wild cheers as he mounted the stand to officially notify Mr. Bryan of the fact that he had been selected as presidential nomince of the democratic convention at Kansas City. Mr. Richardson said:

Richardson said: Mr. Bryan: On the 124th anniversary of the birth of this republic there assembled in Kansus City the most intensely Ameri-can convention that ever came together in its history. This great body was made up of men from every state and territory in the union. They came from their respective districts filled with unfelgned enthusiasm for the inspiring cause which brought them together. Their 7,000,000 constituents had empowered them to frame a platform of principles and select a candidate for presi-dent and vice president of the United States in what they conceived to be the supremest political crisis that ever came to our country. These delegates all realized that the republic is in peril. They feit that the duty was theirs to take such action as would rescare the state from the guilf of imperialism into which it has been plunged and thus preserve for themselves and posterity unimpaired the priceless blessings of free government and civil liberity. You see before you today a com-mittee of delegates from that convention and for whom I speak, upon which is rep-rescated each state and territory, whose dity it is to convex to you in formal manner the notification that the august assembly I have mentioned, acting for its members, their constituents and for all who love and chertish liberty everywhere, with no dissenting volce, chose you as the candidate for president and adopted a with no dissenting voice, chose you as the candidate for president and adopted a platform of principles upon which the campaign we now are inaugurating shall be conducted.

campaign we now are inaugurating shall be conducted. The declaration of party principles enunciated I now have the honor to pre-sent to you. Here the duties of our com-mittee might with propriety end, but I beg indulgence for a few moments. To you years ago you led the party in the most brilliant contest it has ever ex-prienced. You then failed to win the goal, the presidency, but you did more, you won the respect and admiration of your political foes and the ardent love and devotion of your followers. That contest was made by you against stupendous odds, in the faces of a hostile press, and with unhappy division in your ranks. I congratulate you and the country that all these unfortunate wantonly assailed, and when partisan were said of you and your party. But you and they survived them all and were per-haps stronger for them. We trust this conduct the will be conducted in a manner worthy of the great dignity which attaches to the two most exalted offices at stake.
