An institution of Highest Order. Absolutely Thorough.

We wish it understood by the public that able right to teach the Gregg system as any other school in this city, notwithstanding the absurd statements of a competitor to the contrary.

We have not a competitor whose rights, moral or legal, shall ever be infringed upon by this institution. But for an institution to claim an exclusive right to stitution to claim an exclusive right to teach the Gregg system of shorthand, which has been published and given to the world by the author, is not only un-educational and unprofessional, but in educational and unprofessional, but in plain violation of the rights of other in-stitutions.

We have taught the Gregg system in the past and teach it now, and will teach it in the future; and the students of this system are given every attention by an instructor who teaches it exclusively and whose ability as expert writer of the sys-tem has been demonstrated in a public tem has been demonstrated in a public
