Gentlemen:—

Complying with your request, I made a thorough examination of the powder which I took, in the forenoon of August 28th, 1900, from a barrel, standing in the freight depot on Webster street; this barrel came from the Preservaline Manufacturing Company, was marked "Preservaline" and addressed to you; it was opened, to all appearances, for the first time, by the railroad clerk, in the presence of Mr. Le Roy Corliass and myself and I removed from it a quantity sufficient for an analysis.

I found it to be a washing powder, containing, besides soap, only such ingredients as are known to answer the purpose of washing and cleaning, but NONE of the substances that are used for the preservation of food, e. g., no borax, no boracic acid, no salicylic acid, no benzoic acid, no sulphites and no bisulphites.

Signed, CARL DUMMER, Chemist.

Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before me this 7th day of September, 1900, by Carl Dummer.

FLOAT NO. 15—"ICELAND."

In the stormy vastness of the frozen north, where the Ice Trust ventures not and shirt waists are unknown.

FLOAT NO. 16—"MADEIRA."

The land of the ruddy grape. Surmounting the float is the god Bacchus; at the sides the tendrils and leaves of the vine, ornamented with the arms of Portugal.

FLOAT NO. 17—"THE ISLAND OF ROBINSON CRUSOE."

Dear to every childish heart. Robinson Crusoe, in his traditional suit of skins, is here seen giving his faithful man, Friday, a bland homily on the "Consent of the governed."

FLOAT NO. 18—"HAWAII."

Pele, the Goddess of Fire. Above towers the volcano of Kilauea in active eruption. Clustered in profusion are the tropic bounties of Uncle Sam's new possession.

The people of Omaha are getting to be very fastidious about the style of vehicle they drive. The past year has brought out many of the newest eastern designs and none have proven more popular than the Depot or Station wagon for summer and winter driving. The above cut shows one of these wagons, and the owner of it is well able to own 12 other styles if he so desires. It was bought in Omaha from one of our popular carriage builders who says if the name is mentioned people will think this is an ad. The firm, however, is only a block from where this paper is printed.
