

MANY PUPILS IN SCHOOL

Enrollment Shows Considerable Increase Over that of Last Year.

SEVERAL BUILDINGS OVERCROWDED

Commercial Course Proves to Be Popular with Large Number of Students—Cade's Begins Their Drills.

The number of pupils in the Omaha public schools for the week just ended is 1,412 in excess of the enrollment during the first week of school in 1897.

Although the attendance is greater at all buildings than it was last year, the increase is more marked at the Lake school and the High school than elsewhere.

There are about 100 more pupils at the High school than attended the first week of last year. Many of those entered the new commercial course which has been instituted, the enrollment of beginners in that department being 112.

Nearly 200 pupils had either failed to select their work before the opening or desired to change to the commercial course.
