October Wheat Opens a Shade Down and Closes Higher.

SEPTEMBER CORN FURNISHES EXCITEMENT

Dates Are Dull and Finish Strong on Up Grade—Provisions Are Steady Because of Good Cash Demand.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Wheat turned firm today, helped by corn and indications of diminishing receipts. October closing $1\frac{1}{2}$ cents higher. Corn advanced $\frac{1}{8}$ cent and closed a shade higher. Provisions closed unchanged to $\frac{1}{8}$ cent higher.

October wheat opened a shade down at $119\frac{1}{2}$ cents, with a rise in the exhibition of eagerness was due to better weather in the northwest. During the two previous sessions most of the week bulls had been forced out and the market was in opposition to buying. In this they were encouraged by the strength developed by corn, comparative steadiness at Liverpool and indications of diminishing receipts. Later in the day weakness of the ocean freight rates and anticipation of export business advanced a still further advance. October advanced $\frac{1}{8}$ cent for reaction to a $\frac{1}{4}$ cent, but closed firm over yesterday at $119\frac{1}{2}$ cents. Primary receipts for the week totaled 1,000,000 bushels. A market report for the week showed that the market opened at $119\frac{1}{2}$ cents, jumped to $120\frac{1}{2}$ cents, and then reacted to $119\frac{1}{2}$ cents. The market closed at $119\frac{1}{2}$ cents. The market was active and strong, with a large number of contracts being traded. NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The stock market was more feverish and irregular today. The range was very wide with the declines were on a large scale but the action of the market showed that it was being tested by professional operators. The rally which set in the first of the week seemed to have culminated during the morning session and the over-enthusiastic bulls who attempted to bid up prices against the outstanding short account for the day were unable to realize instead of being able to drive the shorts to cover. They therefore allowed prices to drop back to a point which would allow them to apparently make up their losses. However, the market was not so sure of itself and the technical position of the market was not so favorable as it had been. The technical position was not so favorable as it had been.
