UNIQUE PIECE OF MONEY

A. K. Rhoades of Omaha the Owner of a Sixty-Dollar Bill.

HAS HAD IT FOR FORTY-THREE YEARS

Only One Other Like It Known to Be in Existence and that One is Located in Spokane.

The most unique piece of legal tender in the city, outside of the Hyron Reed collection, is a $60 bill, in the possession of A. K. Rhoades, 222 South 14th street. Mr. Rhoades brought the bill with him when he left Maine for the west in his early youth and it has been treasured among the family archives for forty-three years. It would probably have remained far from the public eye had it not been for the fact that a Spokane paper that a resident of that city possessed the only $60 bill in existence. Mr. Rhoades wishes Omaha to have the credit of a similar possession. The bill was issued during the first session of the continental congress, in 1775, and is a document of peculiar appearance. The paper is of a faded yellow material and is coarse and heavy. It is cut almost square, four inches by three. The promise to pay is worded as follows: "The bearer is entitled to receive sixty Spanish milled dollars or an equal sum in gold or silver, according to a resolution of congress of the 14th January, 1775." On one side is an engraving of the earth, with the motto "Deus regnat, Euxine Terra" (The Lord reigns, let the earth rejoice). On the reverse of the bill are sketches of two leaves, resembling a mint leaf and a sprig of pine, with the printer's signature, "Hall & Sellers, 1775." The Hyron Reed collection contains an $50 bill and several samples of continental currency of other denominations, but has no duplicate of Mr. Rhoades' treasure. Neither does the rich library on numismatics in the continental congress, in 1775, say regarding the history or value of the document. The bill bears every evidence of being genuine, however, and is undoubtedly worth far more than its face value. Mr. Rhoades values the bit of paper very highly, both as a curio and as a keepsake, and has never made any effort to ascertain its commercial worth. Otto Flecht of the Cour d'Alene is said to have been offered $1,000 for his specimen spoken of by the Spokane paper, but preferred not to part with it. He submitted the currency to the Treasury department and after an examination it was reported that the bill was legal; such an issue is known to have been made in the year mentioned. The official signature inscribed in ink is that of George Bond.

TRATTLE OF THE YOUNGSTERS.

"Tommy, what do you want to take to school for luncheon?" "Oh, ma, gim me b'long sausage an' watermelon."

Kind Stranger—My little man, do you not get dreadfully tanned in the summer?" "Little Johnny—Naw. Paw licks me in summer, but de teacher tans me every day in de winter."

Little Girl—Papa, what is powder?" "Father—It is something people get blown up with."

Little Girl—Is that what makes you avoid mamma so when she puts it on her face?"

"Maw, I guess I don't have to cut any kintin 'til winter," ventured little Willie.

"Guess again, son."

"Well, anyway, I heard paw tellin' Mr. Blake that he bought $25 worth of chips the other night and I thought that ought to last quite a spell."

The creation was being explained to a miss of half-past six. After listening intently she started her instructor with the comment:

"Hubb! I hope you don't think you can fool me that way! What did god stand on while he was doing it?"

"I wouldn't do that, Mabel," said the maiden aunt reproachfully to the little 12-year-old girl who was trying to climb a tree.

"Hubb!" replied the little girl, just conquering the lower branches. "You'd look funny if you cried it, auntie, and you couldn't do it if you did!"

Floesie is 6 years old.

"Mamma," she asked one day, "if I get married will I have a husband like papa?" "Yes," replied the mother, with an amused smile.

"And if I don't get married will I have to be an old maid like Aunt Kate?" "Yes, Floesie."

"Mamma," she said, after a short pause, "it's a tough world for us women, ain't it?"

CAMERA SAVES LITIGATION

City's Legal Department Making Extensive Use of Photographs.

EXPENSIVE DAMAGE SUITS AVOIDED

Hundreds of Pictures of Defective Sidewalks and of Streets Where Grades Have Been Changed on File.

Ten years ago the legal department of the city of Omaha adopted the plan of having photographs taken of all defective sidewalks upon which persons claimed to be injured, or property located on streets where the grades were changed and of buildings which city authorities ordered torn down. These photographs have been valuable for use in damage cases and in the opinion of City Attorney Council have saved the city vast sums of money.

As soon as it is reported to the legal department that some person has been injured on a defective sidewalk the city engineer sends one of his assistants to take photographs of the walk and of all surrounding subjects. These photographs are filed. In case suit is brought against the city for personal injuries they can be introduced as evidence. In most cases, however, the photographs are a preventive of litigation. More than 100 photographs of streets and walks where persons have asserted they were injured are filed in the office of the city engineer and the city attorney.

"One of the most interesting cases the city has had in which photographs played a leading part was one in which damages were asked of the city," said Attorney Council. "The plaintiff has property at the corner of two streets which lies low and in case of heavy rains a good deal of water passes over the lot. He set up the claim that on account of the city's negligence his property was damaged by floods to the extent of $10,000. On the stand he testified that refuse was deposited on his lots to a depth of several feet and that his trees and shrubs were ruined."

"Careful photographs had been taken of the property. After the plaintiff had finished his testimony these were introduced and were an absolute denial of his statements concerning the damages done. The photographs showed the exposed roots of trees and the grass plots which looked as though they had never been covered with water and certainly bore no traces of the rubbish which had been mentioned on the witness stand. The case was carried to the supreme court and the decision for the city was sustained. I am confident that the photographs won the suit."

Old Viaduct Photographed.

Before the old sixteenth street viaduct was torn away photographs were taken of all the abutting property and are on file in the attorney's office. It was rumored that some property holders would claim that they suffered on account of the new structure, but the photographs have headed off all such suits, as they show that the old viaduct is a great improvement on the old one, in that it is more open and has enhanced the value of abutting property.

When ground was being broken for the new Burlington station it was found that it would be necessary to grade an alley adjoining a building of the Kingman Implement company so that a driveway could be made to the new station. The Kingman company objected and threatened to sue the city for damaging the foundation of its building. Before the city allowed the grading to be done photographs were taken of the building. These showed that there were cracks in the wall. Additional photographs were taken after the earth was removed from the foundation and showed that to all appearances the foundation was not damaged. Suit for damages was threatened against the city, but it was delayed and last year the building was destroyed by fire. Mr. Council says that if the city had not prepared to prove that the walls of this building were in bad condition before the grading it is probable that the city would have been compelled to pay damages.

Verdict Based on Pictures.

In the case of McCloud against Omaha the city was sued for $1,500 damages said to have been caused by grading a street in front of a residence on Thirty-fifth street, near Leavenworth. When the case came to trial photographs were introduced which showed all the adjoining streets and made it clear that the property in question was situated upon a knoll and that the street was reduced to the only practical grade. The pictures brought out the real condition of the street before the court more effectively than could have been done by descriptions and the result was a verdict for the city.

Several years ago some men were injured by driving into an excavation on Cumming street. Red lights were hung on danger fences to warn drivers, but the men did not heed these and are supposed to have been under the influence of liquor. Views of the excavation were taken which proved that the story told by the plaintiffs could not have been true and as a result a long and expensive suit was avoided by compromise.

After an old building has been condemned by the city and torn down in the case of the city and might get verdict for large sums in many cases were the city not fortified by photographs which show the exact condition of the dangerous structures the city sees fit to remove.

Many photographs are taken by the engineering department of unfinished paving bridges in the course of construction and other public improvements. These are called progress pictures and are used for many purposes. They are dated and filed away in an indexed case for reference in frequently has inquiries from guaranty bond companies concerning the progress of the work of contractors and a photograph is the most satisfactory answer that can be given.

SCUTTLED ON THE GRIDDLE

Army Officer from Manila Pays His Respects to Flag Furlers.

NATION'S HONOR MUST BE SUSTAINED

Policy of the Government in the Philippines Warmly Commended—Prosperity at Home, Honor and Integrity Abroad.

An army officer, a first lieutenant, who has served actively in the field in the Philippines and who is now home in this city on sick leave, called at The Bee office yesterday.

"I have come," the lieutenant said, "to help redeem Nebraska from the grasp of the false doctrines of democratic-populism. I came to Nebraska in 1888 and it has been my legal residence ever since and I am thankful for a chance to vote the straight republican ticket next year in Omaha November 6 next. I may be partially disabled for life from my service in the Philippines, but if I am I shall not begrudge such a misfortune if the American flag can be kept supreme in those faraway possessions of ours until the Filipinos are capable of self-government, and not surrendered now, as Bryan proposes, to a coterie of Tagalog politicians who began the insurrection to get the loot and spoils of war of Manila and vicinity. The Filipinos are 99 1/2 per cent. destitute of the American occupation and of learning our institutions of government, and after a few years of instruction from us they will be capable of autonomy under our protection. Who can ever, in fairness, accuse President McKinley of imperialism after his high-minded, noble letter accepting his renunciation for the presidency? His administration stands for promises fulfilled, as opposed to the frightful forecasts of the chief apostle of democratic-populism, dread disaster and dissolution, which fortunately have in this beloved state of Nebraska and elsewhere failed of fulfillment.

A Common-Sense Problem.

"Nebraskans surely ought to be influenced to vote for the republican party, under whose auspices so much prosperity has been brought to this state. After all this voting is a common-sense matter, with the weight in favor of the republican principles. A man wants to promote whatever benefits him and his family the most. I can see that farmers are more prosperous than in 1886 and also more so than in 1898, when I left for the Philippines. A man would be ill-treating himself and family to vote for a change of national administration to take the place of the national prosperity every one is experiencing in this state.

"I know personally that the rebel Filipino leaders place great hope in the election of Bryan and drag out the insurrection by guerrilla warfare in the Luzon mountains and jungles with the hope of our surrendering to them if the democrats, etc., win the national election next month.

"It makes me blood hot to hear the false prophets of populism talk about our blue soldiers. Never was a greater slander uttered.

"I would like to see these cowardly, un-

American un-patriots do some of the work of these same soldiers. I have risked my life many times to help honor the flag and I feel intensely that every word I utter un-patriots say about militarism and imperialism is untrue and manufactured for want of a better issue.

"I don't think the trusts will be put down very quickly with Tammany, Croker, Senator Jones of the Cotton trust, Richard Croker, is an ore which threatens to ruin corrupting the campaign, as they are doing.

"To the populists who think that Senator Hanna dominates the republican party, I would say that the blackmailing king of the New York Vining trust, Richard Croker, is an ore which threatens to ruin corrupting the campaign, as they are doing.

"The lieutenant submitted a certificate from an acting army surgeon in which it is stated that the lieutenant's present trouble is facial paralysis, the result of a facial fracture entering a burning building to attempt to save a crippled Filipino woman at the risk of his life.

The new coats, with flat, spade-shaped, eagle-wing or postilion backs, are the very best models for women inclined to stoutness. By the shaping of their curved cut-aways fronts all superfluous fabric is removed just below the waist, and the general shape is suitable with these jackets are built little if needed.

Omaha Proof

Mrs. F. B. Brown, of 501 William street, says: "For six or eight months I had more or less trouble with my back. I told my husband that I thought my kidneys were the cause and when I saw Doane's Kidney Pills advertised in the drug store, corner 14th and Douglas streets, they did the work for my case, and the symptoms which had bothered me soon disappeared. I can recommend Doane's Kidney Pills as a valuable kidney medicine."
