CHAMPIONS THE REAL THING

Brooklyn Shows Pittsburg the Difference Just to Be Friendly.

TROPHY SERIES IS SOON DECIDED

Three Out of Four Games and the Punch Bowl Go to the Credit of Brooklyn, McGinnity Winning Two.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 18.—The agony is over. Brooklyn is champion of the base ball world, the owner of the beautiful $500 Chronicle-Telegraph trophy cup and carries away one-half the gate receipts of the four games necessary to decide their supremacy over Pittsburg. The champions demonstrated in the series that they were deserving of the league pennant by playing better ball in every way than their opponents, who finished second in the race. Only in one game of the four played did Pittsburg look to be in the same class as Brooklyn. That game was played yesterday, and the victory so encouraged the Pittsburg players and the local fans that the 2,335 people who attended the game today really expected to see the victory repeated. The Pittsburg men went at their work today with great determination, and every point was worked to the limit by both sides up to the fourth inning, when three hits and a fumble by Leever netted three runs to Brooklyn. After that the locals seemed to lose their snap, and, while they played hard to win, it was conceded by the spectators that the home team was outclassed. Waddell was put in the box as a forlorn hope, but the handicap was too great. McGinnity won his second game in the series by keeping the hits well scattered and by receiving the finest kind of support. Lave Cross was effective in making hits, in getting into the way of numerous balls speeding toward left field and making wonderful fast throws to Jennings. The Chronicle-Telegraph cup will be presented to the Brooklyns at the Alvin theater tomorrow night by Major Diehl. Score:

Wording of Lipton's Challenge.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Misapprehension having arisen over the wording of Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge, Sir Thomas asks the Associated Press to say the challenge provides for five completed races, and not three, as might be inferred from the wording. In fact, it is exactly the same as the conditions of last year, unless, as was the case the last year, the result can be achieved in three races.

Commenting on the chances of Shamrock II, the Yachting World says:

"At least we have the satisfaction of knowing that those who will control the boat have more experience than was available last time."

The paper believes Watson will build the boat with Clyde workmanship and the assistance of W. G. Jameson proves nothing will be left undone to improve her chances.

WEIGHT TWO POUNDS SHORT

Alard Scheck Finishes First in Fordham Handicap, but Is Disqualified by Judges.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Alard Scheck won the Fordham highweight handicap at Morris Park today a neck before the Belle of Troy, and was disqualified, as his jockey, Burns, was two pounds under weight. The horse was heavily placed from 8 to 6 to 1 and his owner, John F. Schorr, figured up that the disqualification cost him just $15,000 outside of the stake.

It was an unfortunate occurrence, as Alard Scheck showed himself a high class colt, as he was giving weight to everything in the race. The event was at seven furlongs and eight horses faced the starter, with Vulcain favorite. It was a pretty race, Lady Uncas, Musette and Belle of Lexington making the running heads apart to the stretch, when the trailers closed and the whole field came down the stretch like a lot of cavalry. At the last pole Alard Scheck and Belle of Troy drew away and fought it out to the wire. Charentus was third, three lengths back, a head before Kinniklinnic.

The Ramapo handicap was the other fixture, and Killashandra made all the running and won cleverly from Gonfalon and First Whip, who finished heads apart in that order.

The balance of the racing was interesting. The Amazon won the first race easily from Alsike. Little Daisy, played by a few for a killing, won the second, ridden out from Fleetwing. Asquith took the fifth, Turner scoring his second win of the day, and Banquet beat the odds on favorite Intrusive, three lengths in the last race, which was a two-horse affair. The weather was clear and bright, the track fast and the attendance large. Summary:

First race, mile, selling: The Amazon, 101 (Shaw), even, won; Alsike, 102 (Brennan), 12 to 1 and 3 to 1, second; Armor, 92 (E. Hewitt), 30 to 1, third. Time: 1:41¾. Brise, Sparrow Wing, Pupil, Excelsis and Dr. Nembula also ran.

Second race, six furlongs: Little Daisy, 107 (Mitchell), 8 to 1, won; Fleetwing, 107 (McCue), 8 to 5 and 4 to 5, second; Aleyone, 11, 107 (Odom), 7 to 2, third. Time: 1:13. Lone Fisherman, Hollowwood, Sunro and Margaret Hoffman also ran.

Third race, Ramapo handicap, one and one-eighth miles: Killashandra, 120 (Turner) 3 to 5, won; Gonfalon, 119 (Bullman), 5 to 1 and even, second; First Whip, 109 (R. Williams), 50 to 1 and 6 to 1, third. Time: 1:57½. Greenlock also ran.

Fourth race, Fordham highweight, seven furlongs: Belle of Troy, 117 (Mitchell), 20 to 1, won; Charentus, 109 (R. Williams), 10 to 1 and 3 to 1, second; Kinniklinnic, 103 (McCue), 4 to 1, third. Time: 1:28½. Vulcain, Lady Uncas, Belle of Lexington and Musette also ran. Alard Scheck finished first, but was disqualified for being two pounds under weight.

Fifth race, one mile: Asquith, 111 (Turner), 3 to 1, won; The Chamberlain, 111 (Bullman), 5 to 10, second; Harry McCoun, 111 (McCue), 5 to 1, third. Time: 1:43. Radford and Fairy Tale also ran.

Sixth race, mile and a quarter: Ranger, 102 (T. Burns), 8 to 5, won; Intrusive, 121 (Bullman), 11 to 20, second. Time: 2:06¾. Only two starters.

SECOND OF DEBATES

monstrance of the people was pigeonholed by the president. Nebraska was included in the Louisiana territory and it never gave its consent to be ruled by carpetbag governors and judges sent here from the states.

Taxes Were Collected.

"Were we taxed?" asked a man.

"Yes, and if the taxes were not paid our property was sold," replied Mr. Rosewater.

The speaker then quoted from a decision of Judge Cooley, which said that the constitution is for the government of states and not for the territories. The benefits of the bill of rights have been offered to the people of the Philippine islands, the same as to the people of the territory of Nebraska. Scores of supreme court judges had held that territories were not under the constitution, but were under the control of congress until admitted as states. In the District of Columbia there are 300,000 people, who are deprived of self-government. They are governed by a commission appointed by the president, without their will or consent. The Mormon rebellion in Utah was cited as another instance in substantiation of the same proposition. He said the president was powerless to pursue any other course than the one now being followed in the islands.

On resuming the argument, Mr. Hitchcock said he was amazed to hear that the president could not pull down the flag, saying that McKinley had done this in Alaska. He briefly referred to his opponent's argument concerning the District of Columbia, his only reply being that the people who went there usually went there by their own consent. He dismissed the argument on the Louisiana territory by saying that the Philippine islands would never be legitimate part of the United States. The speaker refused to answer a question as to Kentucky. Taking up the Sulu treaty Mr. Hitchcock pictured a condition of slavery and polygamy existing under the protection of the United States.

Sulu Treaty is Explained.

Mr. Rosewater again asked his opponent to answer his question concerning the "conspiracy of the money power," but received no response. He then took up the Sulu treaty and emphasized its provisions against slavery and added that the constitution prohibited slavery in the states or any country subject to its control.

Concerning Mr. Hitchcock's charge that the flag had been pulled down from United States territory in Alaska Mr. Rosewater said that the flag was removed only from land that was conceded by the boundary commission to be British territory. He next spoke of the treaty of Paris and said that it could not have been ratified without the support of democrats and populists, calling attention to the fact that Senator Allen cast a deciding vote. When ratified the treaty became a law of the land. He asked why Bryan tried to have it ratified.

Mr. Hitchcock defended Bryan by saying that he wanted the treaty ratified so the people would be free to do with the Filipinos what they did with the Cubans. He read a quotation from Senator Mason regarding the Alaskan boundary and concerning the Sulu treaty again advanced the assumption that the government had recognized slavery and polygamy. He read a portion of the treaty, but said he did not have time to read all of it. The speaker then appealed for the suffrages of the Germans by saying that militarism was the blight of Germany. He predicted the destruction of the government if McKinley is elected and added that if any republican wanted to save the republic he should vote with the populists and democrats.

"They'll never do it," came from the audience in response to the speaker's last question.

Not a New Cry at All.

Mr. Rosewater said the same cry of imperialism was advanced during the administration of Abraham Lincoln, both by newspapers and orators. He quoted an editorial which appeared in the Omaha Nebraskan, from which the World-Herald is an outgrowth. This editorial denounced in the bitterest terms the policy of Lincoln's administration.

While Mr. Hitchcock was speaking a man in the audience asked: "What are you doing in North Carolina?" and the speaker responded by saying that if the imputation that the negroes were disfranchised in that state were true, it meant that there were great problems to be solved at home.

During the remainder of the debate the trust question received the most attention. Mr. Rosewater recited what the republican party had done towards legislating against trusts and mentioned particularly the defeat by democratic influence of the constitutional amendment offered in the last session of congress. He said he had attended every anti-trust conference, and had always been a strong opponent of monopolistic combinations. He asserted that under the present defective anti-trust laws if a monopoly was driven out of Nebraska it could start up in Iowa and send its products back into the state, forcing the purchaser to pay an increased price to cover transportation. The constitutional amendment was designed to overcome that defect in the legislation.

Mr. Hitchcock defended the defeat of the amendment by saying that it was merely political buncombe introduced purposely only a few days before adjournment. The remedy offered by the democrats, he said, is the repeal of the tariff law.

If the Democrats Were Sincere.

Replying to Mr. Hitchcock, Mr. Rosewater asked why, if the democrats were sincere in their opposition to trusts and believed the amendment a good thing, they did not introduce the amendment themselves earlier in the session. Mr. Hitchcock made no reply to this, but defended Boss Croker's ice trust on the ground that it existed in "Rough Rider" Roosevelt's state and if it was not a good thing he would destroy it.

Mr. Hitchcock then took a new line of argument and asked Mr. Rosewater why, as a member of the committee on resolutions of the republican national convention, he did not have adopted a resolution expressing sympathy for the Boers. Mr. Rosewater in response to this question said that such a resolution was not adopted because the republican convention was not made up of demagogues.

"All the sympathy the republican convention could express for the Boers would not relieve them or restore their liberty," he said.

In closing the debate Mr. Rosewater again referred to the unanswered question concerning the "conspiracy of the money power."

TRIAL TELLS ON FERRILL

Man Charged with Killing Lane Loses His Air of Self-Confidence.

MARYSVILLE, O., Oct. 18.—When court opened today the demeanor of Rosalyn Ferrill, on trial on the charge of murdering Express Messenger Lane, was perceptibly changed. From the self-confident air that has characterized his actions in the court room he appeared broken and there was a decided drooping of the eyelids. The first witness was Charles Ausburg, the employe of the Adams Express at the Union station. His testimony related entirely to the discovery of the body of Lane. Prosecutor Robinson then called Mrs. Louisa Lane, widow of the messenger. She was dressed in deep mourning. Behind her her father-in-law carried her 18-months-old child. Ferrill glanced up as she passed. Mrs. Lane testified as to her marriage and described the clothing her husband wore at the time of his death.

Chief of Police Tetlock of Columbus was next called to testify regarding Ferrill's confession. The defense objected on the ground that it was made under duress.

Chief Tyler was not permitted to recite Ferrill's confession, but Detective O'Neill did so later, subject to a ruling to be made later as to whether it should go to the jury.

Superintendent Curtis of the Adams Express company testified as to Ferrill's connection with the company, and identified several articles belonging to the dead messenger. Detective O'Neill was on the stand when a recess was taken.

This afternoon the court heard arguments on the admission of Ferrell's confession and then decided that it should go to the jury.

NEW RATION TO BE TRIED

Troop of Cavalry on the March to Be Made Subject of Scientific Experiment.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 18.—Captain Fountain and Captain Foster of the Emergency Ration board of the War department, who have been in Kansas City for several weeks preparing the ration for an actual test, will leave for Fort Reno, I. T., early next week, probably Monday. They will start from Reno with a troop of cavalry made up of men from Fort Reno and Fort Sill and make marching expeditions during which the men will live wholly on the emergency ration, which has been prepared at a packing company's plant here.

The ration is put up in an elliptical can eight inches long. Each day's food weighs a pound and each can contains three cakes of sweet chocolate and three cakes of a food preparation composed of a meat and grain compound. The compound, which tastes not unlike parched corn with a slight flavor of meat, is very palatable. It can be eaten uncooked, made into a porridge or a soup, or it can be made into a mush and then fried.

Each can contains small packages of salt and pepper. The effect of the food on the men will be carefully noted. They will be weighed every day and their condition closely observed by a physician. The test will probably last two or three weeks and then the board will report to the War department the result of the test.

MISS GAST MAKING A RECORD

Face of the Girl Cyclist Plainly Shows the Terrible Strain She is Undergoing.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—With her face showing plainly the terrible strain she is undergoing, Marguerite Gast, the girl cyclist, who is trying to establish a record for 3,000 miles on the Valley Stream, L. I., course, completed her 2,473th mile at 11 o'clock today. She had then been eleven days, twenty-two hours and thirty minutes in the saddle. She had sprinkled red pepper in her stockings that the pain might keep her awake. Save for a rest between 11:20 last night and 3:05 a. m. today, Miss Gast rode continually for fifteen hours. By Saturday she hopes to complete 3,000 miles. No one has yet established a record for more than 2,000 miles.

Miss Gast rounded up the twenty-sixth century at 7 p. m. today. All obstacles toward the completion of the 3,000-mile journey have been overcome so far by the little woman, who expects to finish Saturday evening.

Lindseed Oil Takes Big Jump.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Manufacturers in every line in which linseed oil figures as an important raw material were in a flurry all over the country this afternoon and they kept the telegraph and telephone lines warm in their frantic attempts to secure themselves against a record breaking market fluctuation. At both branches of the American Linseed Oil company they marked up the price of linseed oil to 70 cents, or the highest figure known since the infancy of the industry. Before noon the price was 66 cents. This advance of 10 cents per gallon is the largest single price fluctuation ever known in linseed oil and is about the equivalent of a 40 or 50 cent per bushel advance in the price of wheat.

Flaxseed is now selling at $1.82, or an advance during the last ten days of 35 cents per bushel.

Registration in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—It is estimated that Chicago's registration figures may suffer a cutting down of less than 3,500 by the final revision to be made by the Board of Election Commissioners on Saturday. With the deduction of the 1,500 women who registered and all others counted out because of lack of qualification the total of legal men voters after revision probably will be over 400,000. In 1896 the total men's registration after revision was 373,981.
