(Copyright, 1900, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, Oct. 27 .- (New York World Cablegram - Special Telegram.)-William O'Brien, member of Parliament for Cork city, now wields a power in Ireland as great as Parnell wielded. He started the United Irish League twelve months ago, and today eighty-one members of the league have been returned to Parliament. He has given this statement embodying his interpretation of the meaning and effect of the victory he has achieved:

"The general election has realized the wildest hopes of the most sanguine men. It found us with the country half organized and with an election fund ridiculously inadequate. We had to make head against a confederacy of the most formidable and unnatural kind, bent upon prepetrating the disorganization of the country, bankrupting the general election fund and taking advantage of the hurlyburly and chaos of a general election to drive another wedge of dissension into the heart of the Irish The United Irish League had party. against it an array of influences, selfish, anti-national, corrupt, that to all human peeming there was no resisting.
