cereals there is no way by which an intelligent estimate can be made of the production. In corn, wheat, oats and rye the conditions warrant the assertion that the statistics are as accurate as in other states. The assessors are supposed to col lect the acreage of all kinds of crops, bu scarcely make a pretense of doing so. The statistics on other grains are presented, not with any claim to their accuracy or completeness, but simply as a basis of opinion and general information. The table only accounts for fifty-six countles on barley and fifty-four on potatoes, while on flax and hay the showing is lamentably weak. The totals given on these in the statement at the head of the column are made from an estimate of the missing counties. It is also reasonably certain that the acreage returns from the countles reporting are much beow the correct totals.

On hay, which is one of the greatest crops n the state in point of value, no intelligent ica can be formed of either the acreage or imount cut. Single counties in the westrn part of the state have almost as much hay land as the total returned by the ascasors for the entire state. Another thing which defeats any effort to compute the mount of hay is the fact that in the westin counties large areas of the best of hay land are not touched by the mower in "r" "ary years when the crop is good.

Hen and Cow Overlooked.

Two of the greatest sources of revenue in state are the hen and the cow, but as to their number or the value of their product absolutely no reliable data exist on which to base an estimate, except that ose who are in the best position to know ay the butter, eggs and poultry exceed in value any crop raised in the state with the single exception of corn. The dairy and poultry industries have been developed if the owners of the land had any idea it could be disposed of. The only difference is that locally, the price will be higher on account of the source of supply being on the verage further from Omaha. Potatoes are the only crop which amounts to considerable proportions in which the yield is below the average. The extremely hot weather of the midsummer, followed by heavy and continuous rains, is responsible for this. The acreage is about the same as usual, but both quantity and quality are below the normal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 .- Two colored prisoners, in an attempt to escape from the prison attached to the Seventh district court, in West Fifty-fourth street, today killed Hugh McGovern, 51 years old, and probably fatally injured George Wilson 59 years old, a "trusty," who had evidently tried to aid McGovern. One of the prisoners, Arthur Flanegan, escaped; the other,

Frank Emerson, fell into the yard adjoining the prison and was instantly killed.

Corn is the King.

Corn has always been king in Nebraska and it is just as far in the lead this year N The total, 241,935,527, is slightly below that of last year, but has been exceeded only twice before. The crop is of the Pawnee very best quality in all parts of the state 1 except a few counties, where the yield was Pierce small and the grain light on account of dry, Polk ... hot weather. The average yield per are Richards'n is 30.1, against 34.5 in 1899. There is an Rock increased acreage, however, which accounts Sarpy for the slight falling off in the totals.

The value of the crop in money is more than any ever raised in the state. If converted into beef, pork and mutton the increase in value will be still more marked. The conditions are extremely favorable for thus enhancing the value of the crop. Geographically Nebraska has a great advantage over other great corn-producing states. The western portion of our own state and the great ranges of the states to the west can furnish the feeders to consume the corn and they can be put into the feed lot more economically than in states further

There are some legitimate reasons for Wheat was a little above the average ear in acreage. Last year both the acreage and yield were light owing to the damage to winter wheat, which resulted in the lowing up of many fields. The yield per entirely. acro is 14.6, against 11.4 in 1899, 17.9 in 1598 and 17.6 in 1897. The crop is above the average, though not up to 1898, when, with a large acreage and heavy yield, it amounted to $1,981,200 bushels. With the exception of very limited sections the quality of the grain is good. Almost universally the quality was reported good at harvest time, but wet weather in some sections damaged it a little while the grain was in shock. These are of limited area,
