subject of coast defense is the one considered in the annual report of General J. M. Wilson, chief of engineers. Generally speaking, he reports most gratifying progress in the execution of the various projects during the last fiscal year. Because the report included the fiscal year only, the subject of the destruction of the Galveston de-

Some points of interest treated by General Wilson are as follows: The torpedo system has been under careful study by expert officers in the light of the experience gained during the Spanish-American war, but so far only minor changes have been proposed. . Up to the present thirty localities have been selected for defense on the coast. No formal projects were added to the list during the past year, but preliminary projects have been framed for the defense of the entrance to Chesapeake bay and the defense of several other localities is under consideration.
