is being watched with interest by people in all parts of the state. It is the prosecution of two men on the charge of stealing brass journal plates from freight cars on road. The detectives believe they have conclusive evidence that Charles Roosevelt and John E. Veach are guilty of the offense mentioned. At any rate, the arrest of the pair is the result of more than a year's persistent work on the part of detectives in the employment of the railroad and members of the local police department. Incidentally the secret agents of other roads have helped in the hunt, they in turn having been assisted by constables and sheriffs in numerous other Nebraska cities and
