BIG DEFAUCATION ALLEGED.

German National Bank of Newport, Ky., Touched for $105,000.

COMPTROLLER WIRES TO CLOSE ITS DOORS.

Examined Tucker, Who Discovered Big Deficit, Now in Charge—Assistant Cashier Brown to Be Pursued and Arrested.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 19.—The experts who have been working today with Receiver Tucker on the books of the German National bank at Newport, Ky., place the shortage of Frank M. Brown, the missing assistant cashier and individual bookkeeper, at $105,000.

According to reports from those who were with Brown when he left last Tuesday night he had less than $500 with him. Brown's salary was only $1,500 a year. Cases are now cited where he spent more than that amount in one day. His bond was for $100,000, and it is good for as far as it goes.

United States District Attorney Hill will arrive from Louisville tomorrow, when it is said criminal proceedings will be begun. The federal detectives have certain persons under surveillance and the report is tonight that arrests that will follow on the arrival of District Attorney Hill.

During the run on the German National bank last Saturday $200,000 was secured in Cincinnati to bridge over the trouble. This was returned today and Receiver Tucker had other moneys and papers also transferred to Cincinnati. Brown's system required a wonderful memory. The experts say he carried in his head the figures that enabled him to call off correctly a lot of false entries in a way that threw off the track the clerks who were doing the "checking" with him.

A depositor would put in $2,100. Brown would enter the proper amount of the deposit in one book and enter it as $100 in another. He would take the difference, $2,000, himself. Then, when it came to checking up, he would handle one of the books. Another clerk would check and Brown would call off. Instead of calling off $100, which appeared as the entry in the book, he would call it as $2,100, thus making it correspond with the book in the hands of the other clerk.

He also, it is alleged, worked it in another way. A depositor would draw out $100. Brown would make the drawing out in one book and enter $3,100 in another. When the depositor had his account checked up the figures were taken from the book in which the correct entry had been made. When the bank officials looked to see what amount was due to the depositor they were given their information from the books which showed that $2,100 had been withdrawn. Brown had memorized all the individual accounts and the experts find no private marks of any kind on the books. The general ledger was kept separate and balanced with the cash, while the individual ledger, it is alleged, was fixed to suit Brown's purposes, the former being the one that the bank officials examined.

Bank Closed by Comptroller's Order. "This bank is closed by order of the controller of the currency."
(Signed) O. J. TUCKER, "National Bank Examiner."

The foregoing notice appeared on the doors of the state building of the German National bank of Newport, Ky., prior to the time for opening today. The salient facts of the report of the bank examiner are set forth in this issue, and the purpose of the notice was to warn depositors that any good could be accomplished by attempting to get money from the bank today.

National Bank Examiner O. P. Tucker, who is in charge, in an interview today said that the alleged defalcation was first discovered by him until 10 o'clock on Saturday night, that both he and the bank's own experts had been unable to find any-thing wrong until that time. The discovery was made in a comparison of Brown's individual ledger with the cashier department. Here, he said, it was found that Brown had been forging balances from day to day until the total of $192,000 had been withdrawn from the funds of the bank. The examiner further said that the matter of criminal proceedings had been referred to United States District Attorney Hill of Louisville, who would cause a warrant for Brown's arrest to be issued. The examiner himself had not taken this step because he knew that the bank would have a hearing on the matter, and that the only bond which the bank holds is that of Paris C. Brown, the father of the assistant cashier, who is a well known river man and president of the Consolidated Boat Store company. This bond is an open one, and the examiner said that he would be satisfied to cover any shortage of the bank. It is said that though Paris C. Brown has voluntarily offered his entire property to meet the obligation, not more than $20,000 can be realized from this source. The examiner stated that he probably would be named as temporary receiver, but the appointment of a permanent receiver was in the hands of the comptroller of the currency. The stock, he says, is of no value, as a double liability assessment must be made. Depositors may receive a dividend as soon as the comptroller of the currency will authorize it, but this may be weeks and even months. The depositors will be notified of the amounts of their credits and they will be required to make proof of their claims. Bank Examiner Tucker said he would employ a full force of clerks to arrange the business of the bank and make every effort to collect all the debts due the bank and in every way discover the bank's exact condition and the extent to which it could be liquidated. He also stated that he had a positive statement as to the extent of the liabilities, which appeared to be $192,000. The bank was the depository of nine building associations and of the adjoining corporations of Bellevue, Dayton and other towns, as well as of about 1,300 individuals and firms.

Temporary Receiver Named. WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Comptroller of the Currency James has appointed O. P. Tucker, national bank examiner, temporary receiver of the German National bank of Newport, Ky. Mr. Tucker telegraphed the comptroller that he had taken charge owing to the discovery of a defalcation amounting to about $192,000 and thereupon the comptroller appointed him temporary receiver. The officials here consider it astonishing that a defalcation amounting to more than the reserve of the bank could have remained undiscovered for any length of time, but they attribute it to no explanation, as Mr. Tucker has not yet furnished any details. The last examination of the bank was made in May last. The following is a statement of the condition of the bank as shown by its assets reported to the comptroller of the currency under date of September 5, 1900: Liabilities: Capital stock, $100,000; surplus and undivided profits, $59,830.47; circulation, $25,000; due to other banks, $15,178.45; deposits, $24,900.27; borrowed money, $100,000; total, $234,909.27. Resources: Loans and discounts, $512,451.34; United States bonds on secure circulation, $25,000; premium on bonds, $1,021.25; banking house, furniture

PUTS UP BOLD BLUFF.

The force of his bluff is such that it is believed that the duke will be deceived.

SENSATIONAL ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE.

Ceremony Performed in London Last Week and Parents of Neither Notified Until Newspapers Discover the Fact.

(Copyright, 1900, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, Nov. 17.—(New York World Telegram.—Special Telegram.)—London society shrugged its shoulders today on hearing that the duke of Manchester had secretly married Miss Helena Zimmerman, a Cincinnati heiress. There was a cynical sigh of pity for the bride, accompanied by the remark: "Perhaps it may turn out better than people think. The unexpected always happens."

The dowry of Miss Zimmerman was estimated at £100,000. The duke of Manchester had taken a wife when she first heard of it this morning. She said the report must have been set afoot by a certain person who devotedly hoped the marriage would secure and she manifested extreme displeasure at the mere thought of her son making a duchess of Miss Zimmerman. Then to satisfy herself she went to Marylebone parish church, where, to her amazement and chagrin, she saw the record of the marriage, a copy of which is cabled to the world.

One of the witnesses of the marriage, Ernest Cavan Lambert, a nephew of the earl of Cavan, was seen today by the correspondent at his chambers, Princess manor, Pall Mall, and said: "Monday a week Manchester came to me and said: 'I am going to marry Helena Zimmerman on Wednesday. It is the license and I want you to act as best man. It will be quite private.'"

"The whole thing went through very quickly and quietly. After the ceremony we drove to Prince's restaurant and had lunch. I was the only one left there, and the duke and duchess there with Miss Evans and the arrangement was that the duchess was to go to Paris that afternoon, while the duke, having to attend to some business here, intended leaving for Ireland at the end of the week. Whether the marriage was carried out or not I can't say, as I have not seen either of them since I left them at Prince's restaurant."

"This separation immediately after the ceremony was rather strange," I ventured to say. "Well," responded Lambert, "it seems that they decided to separate until they have a public marriage in America, which the duchess considers essential."

"Can they be married again in America?" I asked. "I'm not a lawyer, but they have been advised that they can get married to each other any number of times; there's no law against it."

"Then the duchess is not with the duke at Tandragee?" "I don't know she is in Paris and has telegraphed from Manchester which you have shown me implies that she is not there, I think."

"How long was the engagement?" "There was talk about it before, but the engagement was only arranged week before last in Dublin. I was asked to be best man because I introduced Manchester to Miss Zimmerman two years ago at Dinar." "Is not her father opposed to the wedding?"

"Well, I don't think he is really opposed to it," Lambert answered, "he has been disgusted by so many contradictory reports. That's my view. However, it's a good thing and will come out all right."

Miss Edie Evans is Responsible. Lambert is a typical young man about town, smart, clean shaven and perfectly groomed. He spoke of the affair in a most off-hand manner, but at the same time clearly implying that the match was none of his making. The prime mover in the affair was Miss Edie Evans, the bride's aunt on her mother's side, and well known as a newspaper writer in Paris.

DEATH RECORD.

Dies on His Way Home.

DAVID CITY, Neb., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—Word was received here this morning that Charles B. Jacobs of Company F, Thirty-ninth volunteer infantry, died enroute from Manila to San Francisco. Mr. Jacobs was 25 years old and a son of Daniel Jacobs of this city. He enlisted Nov. 20, 1898, and was with his regiment in September, 1899. Mr. Jacobs informs The Bee correspondent that he received a letter from his son in September stating that he had been sick, but was getting better and would be out with his company at the end of the month. He had been ordered shipped to this city which probably arrived the last of this week.

Wait Mason's Only Son. BEAUFORT, N. C., Nov. 19.—(Special Telegram.)—Adam Foss Mason, the 7-year-old son of Wait Mason, the well known newspaper writer, died this morning of malignant diphtheria. Adam was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Mason and was a bright and lovable little fellow, liked by all who knew him. The funeral services, which were of a private nature, were held at the house. There was a profusion of flowers, among which were two large floral offerings by sympathizing newspaper men.

Cass County Pioneer. ATLANTIC, Ia., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—A. J. Scott, one of the pioneers of Cass county, died at his home in this city this morning after an illness covering a period of several years. He was 81 years old and a well known and most respected citizen. He came to the county before the days of the railroad and settled southeast of town. Two years ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis which affected his right side and he was unable to walk. He was taken to Clarinda, but brought home about a month ago.

Victims of Blackhawk War. BOONE, Ia., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—William Allen, a soldier of the Blackhawk war, died here Saturday and was buried yesterday. The funeral was attended by the comrades of W. C. Crook and J. W. Miller posts, Grand Army of the Republic and the members of the Relief corps and many citizens. He had been almost blind for several years.

Fire Last Night. A one-story frame dwelling at Forty-fourth and Howard streets was damaged by fire last night. The building was taken down by fire and the fire was believed to have been a incendiary origin. The barn in the rear of 100 South thirty-third street was destroyed by an incendiary fire Monday night. A horse and harness valued at $5,000 owned by Lake Pluektstein and a fine horse and harness belonging to Louis Cooney and said to be worth $2,000 were also destroyed by the flames. A third horse was taken from the barn by an unknown man and has not been seen since. Mike McDonald, owner of the barn, valued it at $250. No insurance was carried.

Marriage Licenses. Permits to marry were issued to the following parties: Name and Residence. Age. Albert E. Johnson, Omaha, 29. Katherine R. J. Dornell, Omaha, 20. William H. Brubaker, Omaha, 29.
