Justice Brown in Handing Down Majority Opinion Says No Other Vegetable Has Contributed So Much to Comfort of Mankind.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 .- The United States supreme court today rendered an opinion in the case of William R. Austin against the State of Tennessee, involving he validity of the state law regulating the sale of cigarettes. The law is attacked as an infringement of the rights of congress to regulate interstate commerce. The Tennessee supreme court upheld the law and today's decision sustained that opinion, though not without disapproval of some of the positions taken, and then upon a very narrow margin, four of the nine members joining in a dissenting opinion and another member of the court (Justice White) placing his assent upon grounds different from those announced by Justice Brown, who handed down the opinion

With this view Justice Brown took issue and he delivered quite a dissertation upon the subject. Whatever is an object of barter and sale is, he said, an article of commerce and must be so recognized. Tobacco has been such an article for 400 years. It had been made the subject of taxation, and, indeed, had become more widely scattered than any other vegetable. LARGER AND FASTER BOATS TO BE BUILT

Efforts of Great Northern to Acquire a Part of the Carrying Trade to and from the Orient Excite New Enterprise.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 19 .- A special to the Times from Tacoma, Wash.,

The Canadian Pacific Railread company is preparing to give battle to James J. Hill and his allied transpacific steamship interests. It is planned to forestall the steamship service of the Great Northern to Yokohama and Hong Kong by shortening the time with the present line of express steamers and eventually to supplant these with a new line of ships.

The Canadian Pacific steamers do not now actually call at the port of Victoria, approaching no nearer to that city than the quarantine station, ten miles distant. Mails and passengers for Victoria are landed from the quarantine sation by a lighter. All quarantine station, ten miles distant. Mails and passengers for Victoria are landed from the quarantine sation by a lighter. All this is unsatisfactory to the people of Victoria, necessitating delays and occupies time without proving of great financial advantage to the Canadian Pacific. As it does not at all satisfy the Victorians, they give no freight or passenger traffic to the Empresses which can conveniently be placed with any other transpacific line. As soon as the new line of the Great Northern steamers is placed on the Oriental run, as Victoria will be a regular port of call, every Victorian passenger and every pound of freight controlled in that city will, beyond doubt, go to the American line. This will afford the Empresses an additional reason for adopting the northern route. This will cause them to be run from Vancouver up the guif of Georgia and directly through Queen Charlotte sound, from whence they will run out into the Pacific, making the start thus far on the trip as quickly as if they were running down to Victoria and being thirty-five miles farther on their route in the same time. Another day would thus be cut off the running time to Yokohama.

It has been reported on several occasions

It has been reported on several occasions that the Empresses will be put on the run between Vancouver and Australian ports to replace the Aorangi and sister boats, while new and very fast steamers will be built for the Oriental trade. Some such arrangement as this will in all probability eventually be adopted.

After negotiations with the premier and other members of the cabinet the Canadian Pacific report announces its decision to take its export traffic to the port of St. John during the coming winter. BOSTON, Nov. 19.—The decision of the Canadian Pacific railroad not to transfer its export grain traffic to Boston, was not unexpected in this city. The issue has been a semi-political one, in some parts of Canada, particularly in St. John, where both sides in the recent elections used the export traffic in their own interest. The Intercolonial road, which is owned by the government, is a competitor of the Canadian Pacific from Montreal eastward, and it has traffic arrangements with the Grand Trunk, which the Canadian Pacific officials last three years the Canadian Pacific road has done an immense business in hauling grain to St. John, but nearly all of the cars have been returned to Montreal empty. which partially offset what otherwise would about ten months or longer ago.

have been unusual earnings. The road claimed that the Intercolonial should have transferred some of its through westbound freight to it instead of routing it over the Grand Trunk. The minister of railways, Mr. Blair, was blamed for these conditions and during the election the Canadian Pacific management threatened to transfer the grain traffic to Boston, but it is thought that this threat was used considerably as a means of inducing Blair to grant the desired concession.
