

TRINITY LOOKS BACKWARD

Thirteenth Anniversary of Its Birthday is Fittingly Celebrated.

RECORD OF WHICH IN MAY BE PROUD

From a Small Beginning It Has Grown to One of Omaha's Largest and Most Influential Churches.

Thirteen years ago yesterday twenty-five charter members of the Trinity Episcopal church met in a little hall at the corner of Twenty-fourth and Binney streets, and, with the assistance of Rev. Alfred H. Henry, formed a society which has since grown to be one of the largest and most influential Methodist Episcopal congregations in the city. In a short time the charter membership increased and the band of faithful workers began the erection of the magnificent church building at the corner of Twenty-first and Binney streets.

J. W. Robinson succeeded Mr. Henry as pastor of the church. Then W. K. Beans assumed the pastorate and was followed by Dr. P. H. Sanderson. Dr. J. W. Jennings, who is at present presiding elder in this district, was the next pastor. When Dr. Jennings resigned to assume his new duties, H. H. Marshall came to the church and was succeeded by D. K. Tindall, the present minister.

Today Trinity congregation numbers 250 members and has an average Sunday school attendance of almost 200. Flourishing Zion's League and Junior League organizations are maintained. The church has increased ten-fold and the entire day yesterday was devoted to thanking the Lord for the prosperity with which He has blessed the congregation.

The rally-day services began at 10 o'clock with an old-fashioned class in which all the members of the congregation took part. Half an hour later the regular preaching service was held. "Thanksgiving" was the theme of Rev. Tindall's sermon. After showing the growth of Trinity from a small beginning to the large congregation which Trinity church has developed, the preacher urged his congregation to return thanks to the Lord after the manner of the Puritan fathers.

MRS. BOWSER IS IN BUFFALO

Queen of the Squatters Will Stay Through Pan-American Exposition.

IS BUILDING ANOTHER SOD HOUSE THERE

Katzenbockers and Stuyvesants to Be Beguiled with Flapjacks and Gingerbread Served in Nebraska.

Mrs. L. Bowser, the queen of the squatters, who fenced in her sod house on the Bluff tract last spring and declared herself mistress of all she surveyed, has appeared anew on the Buffalo exposition grounds. Mrs. Bowser has begun the erection of her second sod house out of turf, which she insists was brought from Newport, Neb., for the purpose. Many years ago Mrs. Bowser journeyed to the frontier, staking out her claim on the spot now occupied by Newport. Owing to the absence of timber, sod houses were the only homes of the frontiersmen and as such Mrs. Bowser proposes to exemplify the rude dwellings at Buffalo as she did at Omaha during the two expositions.

Mrs. Bowser was one of the romantic and spectacular figures of the Omaha expositions. Early in her sod house beyond the Horticultural building attracted attention and the founder of Newport had many guests. These she served with real western ginger bread, flapjacks and molasses, coffee and other delicacies so tasty and crisp that the visitors ate and drank again.

The hostess was arrayed in a starched wrapper, fresh each day from the laundry, and made herself agreeable. She pointed out that the rag carpet quilt was the identical one which had sheltered her parents in their wind-swept prairie home. There were also in the room old-fashioned chairs and a bed which had served in the time of Mrs. Bowser's forebears.

So Mrs. Bowser amassed the 10-cent pieces and had acquired a comfortable reserve fund when the gates closed for the last time. During the winter Mrs. Bowser squatted sturdily on the Bluff tract and was warm and snug in her sod house, even as in her father's time, until the coming of spring.

Where Mrs. Bowser Erred. At this point Mrs. Bowser erred. She determined to stack up her enticing piles of flapjacks during the second exposition. She laid in stores of molasses and cornmeal and set down to await the coming of the guests. But during the summer months the sod house drew few visitors. It was out of the beaten path. The flapjacks went soggy and Mrs. Bowser's reserve fund slowly ebbed away. For the second season she was largely a stand-off and Mrs. Bowser noted the scarcity of her two-bit pieces with no high regard for the public's latter day taste in flapjacks.

When winter came Mrs. Bowser closed her sod shutters and the second exposition. She entrenched herself in a trench of barbed wire and declared herself a belligerent. This declaration was not an empty boast, for Mrs. Bowser weighs 200 pounds and had a frontier rearing. Several agents representing the owners, J. M. Woolworth and the A. J. Poppert estate, called upon Mrs. Bowser with hostile intent, looked once and went away.

The Amazon declared that she had lived in undisturbed possession of the premises for several years and had reclaimed the plot from a jungle into a habitable piece of ground. She believed that a full and proper title was thereby vested in her. The matter was taken to the county court, where the law refused to see any merit in Mrs. Bowser's claim. The widow was ordered to leave and was finally dispossessed.

Temple Farm, the second exposition. Nothing daunted by the smiles of buffets of fate, Mrs. Bowser has transferred her activity to Buffalo and will sell flapjacks, it is said, in a sod house made exclusively of Nebraska turf. She has made a favorite impression upon the Buffalo press, which speaks of her as follows:

To the sod houses is due most of the credit for making the habitation of early Nebraska and adjoining country possible. The building reared by Mrs. Bowser at Buffalo will be made completely of sod brought from the swamps of Newport, Neb., with the exception of the doors and window casings, which, as in the original Nebraska houses of this description, will be made of the cheapest and roughest wood. Three carloads of the sod are now in Buffalo and will be transferred to the exposition grounds at once. Mrs. Bowser is a Nebraska native, having emigrated to the place where Newport now stands many years ago. She lived in a sod house during the greater part of her residence in that state and will model the exhibit after her first home in Nebraska.

The structure will be one story high, divided into three rooms. Improved curtains, such as were used in the early Nebraska sod houses, will be on the windows. The sods of which the house will be built are about two feet square and 4 in. thick. Mrs. Bowser, an experienced builder of sod houses, will construct the exhibit.

Mrs. Bowser is enthusiastic over the exhibit and says that her previous successes can be taken as a criterion. The sod house will find favor in the eyes of the visitors to the Pan-American. Mrs. Bowser described the country from which she came and says that most people have a great mistaken idea of Nebraska. She is quite well acquainted with the state. She never seems to consider the sods which run through them, said she. Now takes for instance our little town of Newport. When my husband and I first settled there, the town was not more than a living hut within miles of us. We built a sod house, which was necessary, owing to the shortness of the winter, and in two weeks there were within sight of us thirty similar abodes.

Mrs. T. Briddleman of Parshalville, Mich., was troubled with salt rheum for thirteen years and had tried a number of doctors without relief. After two or three applications of Banner Salve, her hands became better and in a short time she was entirely cured. Myers-Dillon Drug Co., Omaha; Dillon's drug store, South Omaha.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Remember the Poor of Our City.

During the reorganization of the Associated Charities donations of clothing and provisions will be thankfully received at the Dean Gardner Memorial Parish house, corner of Eighteenth and Capitol avenue, on Tuesday and Wednesday next. Telephone 1253 or drop a postal card to the Associated Charities, 113 north Eighteenth street, and a wagon will call.

Announcements of the Theaters.

Charles E. Blaney's new comedy drama, "Across the Pacific," will be seen at Boyd's theater tonight and tomorrow night. The play has many sensational scenes and in the cast are Harry Clay Blaney, Robert Galliard, Leslie Matthews, J. P. Tucker, O'Keefe Hills, Frank Sanford, Johnnie Williams, John Carlyle, Misses Pearl Seward, Virginia Sonnee, the miners' quartet, the Rough Riders' band and others, aggregating, with the supernumeraries, about 100 people. Two carloads of special scenery are carried by the company.

Monday Night

At the Den the Ak-Sar-Ben boys are going to have a jollification meeting. There will be a nice spread, good cigars, music and speeches—a general good time. On this occasion Superintendent Renze has chained the goat in the basement.

Three in a Wrangle.

Sven Lindquist, a young baker, had a dispute last night near Fifteenth and Dodge streets with Maude Rodmond, 20-year-old girl. The girl, who had stolen from him, and the result was the arrest of both. To get even Lindquist took a costly automobile coat which the Redmond woman wore and was running off with him when she sent a friend, J. C. Elder, a colored barber, with the $2 to get back the coat. The latter opened negotiations by offering Lindquist $1, which he promptly refused and still hung on to the coat. While the three were engaged in a loud wrangle Patrolman Lacey came along and arrested them for disorderly conduct.

HAYDEN BROS. SELLING THE MOST CLOTHING IN OMAHA.

As the Eye Falls
on this newspaper it may chance to rest accidentally and unwillingly on this advertisement. Perhaps you quickly turn to other parts of the paper, as if the news about the things to wear as fresh every morning as other news of current events—was not worthy of your attention.
If you ever take a hand or give a thought to the spendings of your home, it is well worth while to stop where you can be informed of what is going on.

Men's Overcoats and Suits are going on here by the hundreds—you'll see them going on if you care to visit our Clothing Department. This store is a perpetual exhibition of ready-to-wear garments for man or woman—boy or girl.
The advertisement simply mentions the new things that come in from day to day, location and movements. What the timetable is to the railroad advertisement, this schedule of goods and ideas is to the mercantile business.

REASONS FOR GIVING THANKS.

Men Should Be Grateful to God, for Everything is His.

Rev. Newton M. Mann told the worshippers at Unity church Sunday morning some of the things for which they should be thankful and some of the reasons why praise should be given the Creator for the blessings He has showered upon His people. Rev. Mann agreed that all good things come from God. "The notion needs ever to be corrected," he said, "that a good is not of God if it comes to us through our fellow creatures. The Divine One is manifest in and through the highest and particularly through men and the best things they do. God was in Christ for the purpose of reconciling the world unto Himself. So God has been in every faithful child from the beginning. The true and good of every age and race, and the high and noble, have been His ministers, His representatives, His sons, in whom the world might see some of the brightness of His glory."
"All is of God. What is there in what we call the gifts of nature—air, sunshine, fruits and flowers? Man is but a part and product of the earth as is the grub or tree. We are of the natural world no less than the birds, the bees and the trees. What my fellows have done for me is no less a provision of Providence than the air. I breathe it." While the most obvious reasons for gratitude lie in what God has furnished us through our fellow creatures there are other things to be considered. Nature herself, has been very kind to us. We are here because she has encouraged us to be here. The earth feeds us generously and the things we wish for our bodily comfort and convenience are supplied in abundance.
"We should thank God for the fruits of the earth, for the garnered harvest, for all the good things the year has brought, for the power to see the good and enjoy it, for the power to perceive Him though beyond reach of our minds to see Him as He is."

CELEBRATE FEAST OF ST. CECILIA.

Solemn Ceremonies Held in Memory of the Roman Maiden.

The feast of St. Cecilia was celebrated Sunday morning at St. Cecilia's Catholic church at Walnut Hill, with solemn ceremonies. Georgia's second mass was sung by the choir, assisted by Miss Anna Rusch and Mr. James Rusch, while Miss Taggart, the organist, was assisted by Harry Cartan. At the offertory the "Ave Maria" was sung by Mrs. Moriarty.
Father D. W. Moriarty of South Omaha was the celebrant of the mass, assisted by Father D. P. Harrington, dean; Paul John Devane, subdeacon, and Father A. M. Colaneri, master of ceremonies. The sermon was delivered by Father Richard F. Corcoran, S. J., who brought to his hearers lessons from the life of the noble Roman virgin, whose virtues were commemorated upon this day.
