RIGHTS OF DECREPIT HOUSES New Ordinance Giving City Right to Destroy Ancient Buildings

Put to the Test.

On December 15 a case in which Mrs. Mary O'Gorman seeks to prevent the city building inspector from tearing down some dilaridated houses in Ramcat alley will be brought to trial and the new ordinance for the destruction of buildings will be tested in court. Several years ago some houses located on the block south of the court house and belonging to Thomas Murray were destroyed under the old ordinance. The owner of the property afterward collected damages from the city. This case was tried, however, before there was any provision in the city charter for the destruction of dangerous buildings.

In the present city charter it is stated specifically that buildings may be con den ned and torn down which are worth less than 50 per cent of the price of new buildings of the same kind. It is provided that buildings which have been damaged by decay may be torn down as well as those which have been burned, and the method of
