The house was finally transforred to Mrs. Hellman, After Mr. Hellman's death David Adler & Sons set up the claim that when they sold $5,000 worth of goods to the deceased he listed his home among his assets, and Isaac Myers, the salesman who sold the goods to Mr. Hellman, testified to this effect on the stand Adlers won the case, and the higher court sustained the action of the district court.

a mortgage on Mr. Hellman's home, but in court they testified that he refused to encumber the house and said that it belonged to his wife. It was on Myers' testimony that the case hinged, and since that time he is said to have admitted that he testified falsely and is now anxious to go on the stand and swear that Hellman did not list the property in question among his assets. It is for the purpose of introducing this testimony that Mrs. Hellman seeks to delay the sale and secure a rehearing.
