might be surprised with the great variety in which lamp chimneys are made. Lamps are made in these days in very great varicty by many makers, sud of course there are made chimneys suifeble for all of them. There is one American lamp chimney maker who, counting sizes and styles, produces 600 varieties. Among the great variety of chimneys made there are some that are of common use everywhere, and then there are some that are specially suited to demands in this or that part of the country and are not in demand in ther parts. "Lamp chimneys are not only made in far greater variety than formerly, to fit perfeetly every sort of lamp, but they are also made better than ever. In fact lamp chimneys have advanced with everything else. But enormous and increasing as the production is, the demand scarcely keeps pace a with the increase in population, this being especially true of cities in which gas is more and more used, and here in New York, for instance, by users through slot gas machines, which have some influence on the sale of lamp chimneys. Still the number of lamps used here is enormous. There

Council those produced here, the eastern chimneys being made chiefly for the local trade and for export. "We import a few lamp chimneys of the cheapest and of the best grades, the cheap chimney from Germany and the costlier from France, but these imports cut only a small figure in the total consumption and we export lamp chimneys in great quantities. We send very few to Europe, though we do sell them some of our lest chimneys. But outside of Europe we sell lamp chimneys everywhere. We come into competition in some parts of the world with the Germans, who make chimneys very cheaply, but our exports are increasing are we send chimneys, as I said, everywhere-to of Mexico, the West Indies, South America, South Africa, China-in fact to all lands in which lamps are used, all around the

HANDY WITH HIS DUKES. Crowded Train. An exciting episode occurred in a city line train of the Kings county "L" at 6 o'clock the other night, reports the Brooklyn Citizen. The train was leaving the bridge shortly after 6 o'clock with the usual rush. The cars were crowded, as is the regular order, and just as the gates were about to be closed several men made a rush for the train and succeeded in getting aboard of it.

the blow and then, suddenly realizing that

"You hit me without cause; now defend yourself." Then the speaker shot forth his right arn and the big man went down. He arose in a minute and rushed at his antagonist, apparently to annihilate him. When he arrived at reaching distance he received another left-handed book, which placed him

"hors du combat." He was down and out. In a moment the car was alive with excitement. Several passengers who were evidently friends of the vanquished man went at his victim with clenched fists, but the latter, while only a little man, was of the As fast as these men came within reaching distance they went down with well delivered blows.
