Senator Edgar of Gage Has a New Primary Election Bill.

Method of Making Up the Party Ticket Varies Widely from the Convention Plan in Vogue for So Many Years.

LINCOLN, Jan. 17 .- (Special.) -- Senator Edgar of Gage county introduced a bill today which provides for primary elections for the selection and nation of candidates in metropolitan cities and cities of the first and second class, prescribing rules and regulations for the conduct of such elections and penalties for

The act provides that three weeks preceding any election, except special elections, at which officers for any city in this state are to be elected a primary election shall be held in the several election districts of the city, which shall be known as the primary election for the purpose of choosing candidates for all elective city officers, judges, elective members of school, park and library boards, and all other officers which are to be chosen by electors of such city at the ensuing election, the act being applicable only to metropolitan and cities of the first and second class and shall apply only to such officers as are balloted for wholly within the confines of such cities.

Eleven Days' Advance Notice. The nominations of candidates for such offices shall be made in accordance with the provisions of this act and not otherwise, except by petition in accordance with the general election law of the state. It is required that a candidate at least eleven days before the primary election day shall appear before the county clerk with an affidavit to the effect that it is his bona fide intention to run for the nomination of any specified office and shall at that time present a petition containing the names of at least 5 per cent of the total vote of the party with which he affiliates, for the same position, at the last general election, each name on the petition to be a qualified voter and upon the payment to the city clerk of $10 for any office other than that of councilman, judge or elective member of school, park or library boards, who shall pay $5, the city clerk shall place his name upon the primary election ticket of his banquet by the local department. This soparty. The fees are to be paid into the cial feature will close the convention, which city treasury by the clerk.

The bill provides that the city clerk shall have ballots prepared for each party and that only printed ballots shall be cast at primary elections. A provision is also made for the printing of sample ballots. canvassing board at such primary elections suing year at their castle hall last night shall consist of the city clerk, city attorney. city treasurer, water commissioner and president of the city council, which shall meet at 10 o'clock a. m. of the second day after the election and proceed to open and publicly canvass the returns. The parties having been found to have received the highest number of votes shall be declared to an address on Pythianism by Attorney the candidates of the political party on which ticket their names were printed. The of this lodge, after which refreshments bill also provides for ties, contests, etc., and if passed will result in quite a change from the present system.

Recognizing Young Soldiers.

A bill was introduced today by O'Neill of Lancaster amending an act entitled, "Soldiers and Sailors," which provides that assessors furnish the county clerk with a list of soldiers of the war of 1812, the Mexican war and war of the rebellion, so as to include those who participated in the war with Spain and the Philippine insurrection. Miss Tillie Bank, chaplain; Miss Minnie These names are furnished by the county Respect, picket; Mrs. Frank Johnson, sencierks to the secretary of state, who has a tinel; Miss Virginia Zajicek, organist; Mrs.

License Fees for Peddlers.

A bill will be introduced in the senate tomorrow by Senator Arends of Otoe county, providing for the licensing of peddlers. The bill provides that peddlers plying their vocations outside of the limits of a city or town within any county in the state shall pay, for the use of said county, an annual tax of $25; those with a vehicle drawn by one animal, $50; those with two or less than four animals, $75; those with four or more animals, $100, but the board of county commissioners of any county may remit the tax where it is shown that the nature, but not to apply to parties selling their own work or productions either by themselves or employes, nor to persons selling fruit, produce, trees or plants exclusively. The measure provides that a certificate of license shall be issued to any such peddler by the county clerk, upon the presentation of a receipt showing the payment of the proper tax to the county treasurer, and such certificate or license shall be good only in the county where issued fey; lieutenant commander, David Campand shall not authorize peddling in cities and towns.

The bill is one intended to do away with Itinerant peddlers throughout the state and is for the protection of the retail made to pass a similar bill two years ago, but owing to objectionable clauses which t contained it was defeated. Senator Arends thinks he has eliminated the objectionable features and is confident of the passage of the bill, which has the support of the retailers throughout the entire Rhea, Accused of Murder, Untroubled by Possible Penalty Awaiting Him.

OTHER TWO PRISONERS LESS EASY thirty-three hours in summer.

Darrell Scems Particularly Worried and Officers Believe Him a Vovice -Armstrong and Williams' Places Not Yet Abandoned.

FREMONT, Neb., Jan. 17 .- (Special.)-William Rhea, the leader of the three men held for the murder of Herman Zahn, is rapidly recovering from the effects of his wounds and by the time his trial comes up in February will be well again. The two wounds in his leg still trouble him and have to be dressed every day or two. The

During the day the three prisoners are kept together in a large steel cage, so that they can take a little exercise under the watchful eye of a guard. At night each is locked up separately in his cell, the walls of which are of solid steel, with only a small opening in the doors. Rhea hobbles across the corridor to the cage and around the cage on a crutch. He talks and laughs about every-day occurrences, apparently untroubled by the possibility that his life will be his penalty if convicted.

The confinement and anxiety is beginning o tell on the other two. The officers are of the opinion that Darrell is a recent acquisition to the gang and that the Zahn murder is the first crime in which he has been implicated with them. Their theory is that he was placed outside to watch and when, probably getting rattled on account of the length of time they were in the saloon after Zahn was shot, he walked into the building Gardner became suspicious of him and ordered him to throw up his hands. The rendezvous of the gang at the Armstrong and Williams places has not been entirely abandoned since the shooting, but fewer strange men have been seen around row. there than before and no cases of petty thieving have been heard of in that section

The cash register, which Rhea failed to open, was taken to Omaha last week and opened. It contained about $85. The officers have succeeded in locating Herman Zahn's watch, which was taken from him by Rhea immediately after the shooting. Burton says he is confident of an acquittal, while the other two will express no opinion on their chances.

Value of Irrigation.

Every feet of water that runs to waste means the loss of an acre of feed to the stock industry and is just as much a loss to the wealth of the country as though it were cattle and sheep and not water that to the wealth of the country as though it were cattle and sheep and not water that was going to waste.

If people generally, and especially those interested in the stock industry, reslized the enormous value of the water that is annually wasted in the west and would connect it in their minds with something practical, would estimate the number of acres it would irrigate and the number of cattle or sheep it would produce, the indifference with which we now watch this great resource running to waste would have an end.

The building of the great irrigation works necessary to utilize these waters would create and develop all other industries side by side with agriculture and stock growing, would bring about the opening of new mines, the construction of new railroads, the building of new cities.

Everyone familiar with the west knows that the utilization of the water is impossible without the building of great storage reservoirs and large main-line canals which are beyond the sphere of individual or corporate enterprise. This being so, our national government, owning, as it does, the whole western half of the United States must do what the British government has done in India and what the Egyptian government is now doing in Egypt. It must build these reservoirs and main-line canals so that the water shall be brought within reach of those who will utilize it to transform the desert into fertile fields and pastures.

Work of Agricultural Colleges.

Work of Agricultural Colleges.

Prof. F. D. Linfield of Utah spoke of "The Work of Agricultural Colleges," He said:
With the beginning of the new century the agricultural colleges were never better equipped to serve the farmer. A great variety of courses are provided to suit his convenience and the whole field, in the best schools, is covered by specialists. Threemonth courses, six-month courses, one-year, two-year, three-year and four-year courses are offered and provision is made for general work in agriculture, in agronomy, in animal industry, in horticulture and in dairying. That the farmer is responding to these provisions is shown by the increasing numbers of young men who are seeking information at these properly equipped colleges.

From a national standpoint the achievements of the past in agricultural development have been marvelous. It has been a development of our great national resources. The achievements of the present century will be no less great and even more marvelous. The development will be an increase in the quantity and quality of the crops, not in an increase of acres, and, contrary to much of the work of the past, the farmer's income will not be at the expense of his farm—his capital—but the farm as well as the farmer will be enriched, and, with increased efficiency, passed on to future generations.
