"There's nothing takes the boneliness and the bitternesss out of life like a baby," wrots Mark Twain years ago. A dramatist whose name closely resembles that of the celebrated humorist evidently recognized the domestic truth contained in those lines when he wrote that sparkling farce, "Whose Baby Are You?" that makes its first appearance at the Dohany theater tonight. The effervescent plot of this piece revolves around an innocent baby who causes complications and ludierous situations enough to puzzle the most subtle mind. From the rise of the curtain till its final fail a series of funny incidents follow each other in such rapid succession that there is not a dull moment in the entire evenings entertainment. In spite of the somewhat rag-time suggestion of its title it is really a farce of a high order, at times approaching the standard of refined comedy.

NONPAREIL'S EXTRA NOT A PUBLICATION

Special Edition, Issued for Purpose of Publishing Amendment to Franchise Ordinance, Held to Be Not Legally Sufficient.

DES MOINES, Jan. 19 .- (Special.)-The lowa supreme court today affirmed in full the rulings of Judge Thornell in the Omaha & Council Blaffs Bridge and Railway case from Pottawattamie county, in which an action had been brought to test the validity of an ordinance passed September 20, 1897, amending the franchise ordinance passed the previous year. The court holds that an ordinance is not in force until after it has been published in accordance with law and that the publication of the ordinance in the signed by the mayor, being the last day on The special edition was got out especially nance and it was not of general circulation The publication was made on that day because a new code went into effect the next day in Iowa. The court also upheld the ruling of Judge Thornell that the clause in the ordinance requiring the company to Remnante keep on sale tickets at a reduced price in Council Bluffs for sale to residents of Coun-

The court also passed on an interesting railroad damage case from Decatur county. in which a verdict for $405 had been rendered by a jury against the Burlington railroad because one Bowsher had been ejected from a train for refusing to pay the 10 cents extra fare exacted from persons who pay on the train. The principles laid down by the lower court are in the main upheld but the reversal was made on minor points. not affecting any general principle of damages. Some prejudicial testimony was admitted on cross-examination of the company's witnesses, but the chief cause of reversal was that in the judgment was included an item of $50 for doctor's fees for services performed, when in fact there was no evidence that the services were worth that sum or that any such sum had in fact
