addressed to the city engineers:
Dear Sir-It is the intention of the city council of this city to pave certain streets in the Fourth ward in this city this year with either brick or asphaltum. Although the aldermen are a unit for the paving they are evenly divided as regards the kind. We have at present about eight miles of brick paving, some of which was put down tweive years ago, but having no asphalt paving up to the present time its durability under local conditions is questioned.

If you would kindly answer the questions below we would consider it a favor:
What effect on asphalt has the ordinary street filth if allowed to remain?

What effect on asphalt has standing pools of water?

With the accession of Edward VI, who was king from 1547 to 1553, the still comparatively small party in sympathy with continental Protestant ism came into power, and there followed the publication of a Book of Common Prayer in 1549, by which all the ordinary parish to the English tongue and its character-
