HOUSE HEARS CAUCUS NEWS

Speaker Sears Creates a Mild Sensation by an Absent-Minded Announcement of the Meeting

LINCOLN, Feb. 12 .- (Special.) -- Resolutions on the death of Judge Samuel Maxwell were introduced in the house this morning by Representative Loomis of Dodge county, but at his request were laid over for consideration Friday afternoon that being the time of the funeral. After the roll call at the opening of the session this morning Speaker Sears interrupted the regular order of business to make an announcement relative to the caucus. "I desire the indulgence of the members for a few moments," said he, "to fulfill a duty that devolves upon me as speaker of this body and as a member of the major- ralgia. ity party. It is to say that there will be republican caucus held for organization and nomination of two United States sena-Andrew R. Oleson and seventy-one other republican members. All republican mempers are invited to attend."

Representative Sprecher, the fusion member from Colfax county, misunderstood the speaker's last remark and arose to inquire whether all members of the legislature and delicious that I enjoyed my Postum would be admitted. To this Speaker Sears absent-mindedly replied: "The sergeant-at-arms will furnish the stipulated number of tickets to all members, irrespective of politics." There was a momentary silence in the hall and then other fusionists arose to ask for information. A republican advanced to the speaker's desk during the temporary excitemade. Mr. Sears was reminded that while lay simply in the withdrawal of the poisor he was evidently thinking of the joint ses- and the addition to my diet of a nourishing sion when he spoke, his remark really ap- healthgiving, liquid food, Postum. plied to the republican caucus. Immediately the speaker's grave countenance gave way

"I have nothing further to say relative to admission to the caucus." In Memory of Maxwell. Following are the resolutions on the leath of Judge Maxwell introduced by Rep-of supplies for all public institutions and the executive department, and to provide a board of control therefor.

Senator McCargar's bill to prohibit malicious prosecutions provides that if any person shall maliciously and without probable cause attempt to cause an indictment to be found or other prosecution for any crime or misdemeanor, to be commenced against any person, or if two or more persons shall conapire together for that purpose, the person ro sought to be indicted or otherwise prosecuted, being innocent, such persons so offending shall be fined not mere than $1,000, to which may be added imprisonment in the county isil not more than s.x months nor less than thirty days.

The governor of Hawaii issued his proclamation for the election in due form. Before that time three separate parties had held their nominating conventions and placed their respective candidates for delegates to congress in the field to be voted for. After a campaign accompanied with the usual American campaign speaking torchlight processions and parading of bands, in which the voting population very generally participated, and in which George D. Gear, who files the petition, herein, stumped the islands, urging the people to vote for a delegate to congress to represent the Hawaiian people, the election was held, resulting in a majority for Robert W. Wilcox. All the election officers of Hawaii acted in good faith, as did the electors, and they were generally registered and voted at the election, and the inspiration to question the matter of election came after the result had been announced.

Mr. Knox's motion to expunge the letter from the permanent record was then adopted without division. Mr. Tawney of Minnesota, chairman of the special committee on the St. Louis exosition, then tried to get up the exposition bill, but Mr. Cannon, chairman of the appropriations committee, declined to allow it to come up until the pending appropriation bills were out of the way and accordingly the house went into committee of the whole and took up the consideration of the army appropriation bill.

McClellan Compares Costs. Mr. McClellan of New York made an interesting statement as to the total cost of our military establishment, which he said was $128,799,760. To this must be added, he said, $154,052,094 for the cost of past wars, pensions, etc., bringing the total up to $282.851.854. The cost of each soldier. not counting pensions, etc., therefore, would be $1,288; including pensions, $2,828. The ship Lancaster left La Guayra today for cost of the German soldier, including pen-Santa Lucia. The Dixie left Santa Lucia sions and expenses of past wars, he said, was only $227, and of the French soldiers, also including pensions and the expense of the Franco-Prussian war, was $232. Before the end of the year, he said, our military establishment would cost over $300,000,-000. This grand total did not include the

> At the conclusion of the general debate an amendment was adopted, on motion of Mr. Fitzgerald of Massachusetts, to give the equivalent of two months' extra pay to all soldiers of the volunteer and regular stablishment who served beyond the limits of the United States.

Mr. Fitzgerald of Massachusetts offered an amendment, which was agreed to, providing that $35 shall be paid to the nearest of kin of any enlisted man and $75 to the nearest of kin of any officer who may be upon the delivery of the body to the family of the deceased. The bill was passed and consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill begun. Mr. Cannon, in charge of the bill, made in exceedingly brief explanation, confining his remarks practically to answering ques-tions asked of him. The bill carried $59,-705,264, being $10,889,017 less than the estimates and $5,748.041 less than the current

The bill was then laid aside for the day. The senate amendments to the naval appropriation bill were disagreed to and onference was asked for. Mr. Foss, chairman of the naval committee, agreed that the house should have an opportunity to vote upon the senate's increase in the number of ships to be built before concurring in the senate amendment. WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 .- At the end of the morning hour the unfinished businessthe ship subsidy bill-was laid before the Mr. Proctor asked that the subsidy bill be laid aside informally in order that the appropriation bill might be continued. Mr. Jones of Arkansas objected. On motion of Mr. Proctor the senate then, without division, decided to proceed with the agricultural bill.

Some discussion was precipitated over the section of the bill relating to meat inspection. Mr. Pettigrew called attention to the paragraph relating to "live horses and the carcasses and products thereof" and inquired if the United States was packing and shipping abroad horse meat. Mr. Money, a member of the committee on agriculture, replied that horse meat was being shipped abroad to the Scandinavian countries. Mr. Pettigrew insisted upon knowing whether the horse meat was exported under a brand showing that it was home is in Bowling Green, Mo.

The following are extracts from Mr. Young's response:

Mr. Lincoln had the fellowship and hospitality of the pioneer, the most earnest and sincere style of welcome, something that may have passed away with the frontier which is no more. He had the courage of the dark and bloody ground which gave him birth, the strength and foritude of the great trees of Indiana which his boyhood knew, the breadth of character and limitless, soul typified by the prairies of Illinois which gave him to the nation. Born in 1809, his life covered the experimental and formative stage of the republic, anothting and sealing the end of the great epoch with his blood.

Statesmanship is politics governed by common sense applied to war. Mr. Lincoin was a statesman and a general.

The world has wondered where he got his strength, physical and mental, for the great duties that came upon him. The world has forgotten the quiet life of the first twenty-two years of his existence, when he was taking on strength for any conflict that might come. While dreaming in the fields he was becoming a storage battery for any future emergency.

The qualities that drew criticism in life are the qualities that immortalize him in death; these are the qualities of tenderness and sympathy, which are thought not to be parts of a strong sympathetic nature had been educated by removing from the home of, his childhood to a home in the wilderness in Indiana, where he mourned the death of his mother. been educated by removing from the home of his childhood to a home in the wilderness in Indiana, where he mourned the death of his mother. Another long march and removal took him to Illinois, where the hand of sorrow was again iaid upon him in the death of Ann Rutledge, his first sweetheart. Then came the struggle for knowledge, a brief experience in the Black Hawk war and his entrance upon politics. The chastening rod of the twenty-five years of his life made the qualities of Lincoln that the world today remembers, poets sing about and concerning which college essays will be concerned until time is no more. Lincoln was born right and there was no evil in him. History does not relate that he had hatred or that he ever bore malice. Yet he was strong and manily, and it was no evidence that he did not recognize indignities because he did not recognize indignities because he did not recognize indignities because he did not resent them. From his youth up he resented a wrong by the strong to the weak, and when he saw a black woman whipped in New Orleans he made a vow that sometime he would alt the institution of slavery and hit it hard. Even when he was the associate of the Clary Grove gang his sense of justice caused him to champion the weak and defenseless. He was a reformer by nature, but thoroughly practical always. After serving one term in congress he decided to retire from public life and would never have returned except for the repeal of the Missouri compromise, which practically gave slavery the right of way through all the territories. These conditions brought him back to public life and from 18% to 1809 he practically devoted his entire time to organizing the republican party for its great battle against slavery.
