When the bill was considered by provisions being as follows: the judiciary committee only four of the members were present, two of whom wanted the bill postponed, whereupon the author submitted to a report of this kind being made, thinking that the senate would stand by him in his motion to non-concur and that the bill by a vote of the senate would be placed on general file.

In the discussion Senator Martin made an eloquent plea in behalf of his measure. "The necessity of such a bill is apparent," said the senator from Richardson. "and I trust that this will not be made a political measure. Every senator on this floor knows that the clerk of the supreme court is receiving too much money, and the fees which will be paid into this office during the life of the commission created by this legislature will be something enormous. I do not think it will fall below $20,000 peryear, and the clerk himself has admitted that they 'might run as high as $12,000." Senator Owens said the bill was a good one, and he hoped to see it placed on gen-

"This tirade by the member from Douglas is out of order," said Senator Owens. "It is no tirade," retorted Ransom, "and if the senator from Dawson is so thickbraded and dull that he cannot understand my remarks be had better sit down." Senator Owens was on his feet in an in-

"I appeal to the president for protection from such language and ff the president and senate do not see fit to give me this protection, I feel that I am fully able to protect myself. I have been among rowdies before and know how to do it."

Senator Ransom took exception to being termed a rowdy and asked that the secretary make a record of the gentleman's remarks. stating that he intended bringing him up for such language. The objectionable remarks of both members were placed on the record as soon as order had been restored Senator Currie spoke in flavor of the bill and to show that it was not a partisan measure he produced a bill for a simi-lar purpose which had been introduced in the house two years ago, when the clerk of the supreme court was Mr. Campbell, a republican. The record of the bill showed that it had passed the house, which had a republican majority, and had been recommended for passage in the senate, but it had met the fate of many other good measures which reach the senate late in the session and had been crowded out in the rush. If such a bill was considered a good one at that time there were many more reasons why it should be considered so now, right on the eve of the appointment commission which would bring the total of fees up to several times what they are at present. Senator Martin again took the floor and.

REIMBURSE LINCOLN CHURCH House Takes Favorable Action on Bill

to Pay for Site of German

Evangelical Building. LINCOLN, March 2 .- (Special.) - In comnittee of the whole the house this afternoon took favorable action on a bill in-troduced by Warner of Lancaster to reimburse the German Evangelical church of this city for money expended for its church building site. The measure pro-vides for an appropriation of $500, with interest for fifteen years, the principal representing the amount that was paid by the church for its building lot at Foureenth and G streets. Representative Warner found cause for the introduction of this bill in a law that was enacted in 1869, when the state captol was removed from Omaha to Lincoln. This law provided for the donation of land for church buildings in Lincoln to any church or religious organization that would hold regular services every Sabbath day The land occupied by all of the churches in the central portion of the city was donated by the state under this act, which in later years was repealed. The German Evangelical church paid for its land in 1885 and, following the example of other this building will be used for lodge purchurches, it asked the state to reimburse

t for the money expended. In committee of the whole the following mersures were recommended for passage Senate file 116, by Pitney, to prevent the spread of contagious diseases: house roll 266, by Fuller, to exempt from taxation school grounds while playing.

Carriages had been provided for the party and one or two automobiles were pressed into service for the benefit of those who has never enjoyed a ride on these modern vehioles, and, escorted by fifty men of the Nebrasks Republican association, the procession moved up Pennsylvania avenue viewed by thousands in honor of Nebraska.

The rooms of the gubernatorial party were handsomely decorated and it looked for all the world like a section of the Antelope state set down in the heart of the capital city of the nation when Governor Dietrich and his staff met the resident Nebraskens in the lobby of Washington's swell hotel.

Following the arrival of the distinguished party, luncheon was served in the main room of the botel, covers being laid for thirty guests. During the course of the uncheen Governor Dietrich noticed General Dan Sickles sitting at a small table in the cafe and at once proposed his health, to which the femous democrat who could not join Mr. Bryan in his philosophy of reconstruction responded most happily.
