Lord Sax bury Proposes Committee to Examine Declaration Demanded of the King.

LONDON, March 19 .- In the House of Lords today Lord Salisbury, referring to the question raised by the "no-popery oath" taken by the king, said he must regret very much that language of such indecent violence had been placed in the king's anti-Roman Catholic oath, but if is was modified or repealed a great many people, perfectly sincere though not very wise, would say that such action meant supporting transsubstantiation. He proposed in behalf of the government that a committee be appointed to consider the declaration required of the sovereign on his accession and whether its language be modified advantageously without diminishing its efficiency as security for the maintenance of the Protestant succession. The matter will be considered Thursday.

Deliberating a Fake.

The story put into circulation about Governor Dietrich having arranged to make recess appointments to the two senatorial vacancies immediately after adjournment of the legislature in case of no election and that he had discussed the subject with the republican leaders during his recent trip to the inauguration at Washington, although bearing the earmarks of a fake on its very face, has precipitated considerable discussion. When brought to his attention by an inquiry Governor Dietrich said That is the first I have ever heard of such a thing and certainly I have not talked about it to anyone, either here or at Washington. Those being the facts, of course I could not have selected anybody to be appointed should I find that duty devolving upon me. This much I will say, however, that I do not think Nebraska ought to go unrepresented in the United States senate. whether the vacancy is created by the death of a senator or by the death of the legisinture." Whether or not the complexion of the national senate has changed sufficiently to justify the assumption that credentials by appointment by the governor would be recognized and the precedent in the Quay case reversed, the general feeling is that the legislature ought to elect, because appointments at best could be for only two years and the contest would have to be all fought over again. In the meantime the question

Two or three new caucus calls put in an appearance today, but none of them seemed to make much headway. Late in the afternoon, however, it was announced that what is known as the Wilkinson call had received CHICAGO, March 18 .- A special meeting more than the necessary forty-five signaof the Transcontinental Passenger associa- tures and that a caucus would be held under it at the Lindell tonight. #### Terms of the Caucus. The present caucus under what is known as the Wilkinson call is the outgrowth of the original causus, requiring a simultaneous ballot. When an effort was made last week, Thursday, to reduce by resolution the number necessary to select in the old caucus it was done because it had been demonstrated that fifty was too high a number for any candidate to reach. The next day a new cancus call was started with forty-six to nominate, but was withdrawn when the suggestions of the national ommittee officers were communicated to the members. This was followed by still a different call, with forty-eight to nominate, with the North Platte candidate to be nominated first, but this did not suit the South Platte candidates.
