3781 Five gored Petticost.

The foundation skirt or long petticoat that can be worn as a slip beneath unlined skirts is a necessity that every woman knows and feels. While it is always possible to make it exactly like the outer skirt the comfort and advantage of a model apecially designed for the purpose, that can beome interchangeable when desired, will be recognized at a glance. The admirable example illustrated is designed with direct reference to the needs of the season and is suited to both silk and lawn, which latter material is admirable as a foundation for organdles, batistes, Swiss muslins and all similar fabrics, but as shown is of taffeta E. with narrow frill and ruches of the same.

The skirt is cut in five gores and is fitted smoothly and snugly about the hips. while the fullness at the back is laid in an inverted plait. The flounce is circular and is seamed to the lower edge, while it, in turn, is trimmed with a blas frill two and a half inches wide, edged and finished with a tiny ruche, and is headed by a similar ruche that is slightly wider than those upon the frill. The upper edge of the skirt is simply faced or narrowly bound and so insures a perfect fit about the waist. A placket is formed in the center back seam and the closing made invisibly with hooks and eyes, but gathers may be substituted and the top ompleted with a straight belt if so preferred.

To cut this skirt for a woman of medium size Sia yards of material 21 inches wide or 6 yards 32 inches wide will be required. The pattern No. 2781 is cut in sizes for
