bill. About thirty measures await consideration and it is not likely that an adjournment will be taken before late tomorrow afternoon or evening. Votes of thanks were extended this morning to the speaker, chaplain, postmaster and other attaches.

Senator Joseph H. Millard made his acknowledgments to the legislature this morning of the honor conferred upon him yesterday. The new senator came down from Omaha on the morning train in company with Edward Rosewater, Frank P. Hamblin, R. E. Bach, J. G. Hamilton and M. W. Wells. The paucity of the arrangements to receive the senator and his party from the depot to the state house was certainly an exemplification of democratic simplicity. The stern was too severe to admit of taking a street car and the only thing in shape of a carriage available was an archaic affair, drawn by one roan and one white horse.

Into this Senator Millard and his companions bundled, and were driven at the best speed the team could make, to the capitol. Here their presence was made known and the committee named by Lieutenant Governor Savage at the joint session yesterday, which, by the way, comprised only senators, the house not being represented, met the party. They stopped at the governor's office to pay their respects to Senator Dietrich and then were escorted to representative hall, where the members gathered informally to receive him.

Mr. Millard's entrance was loudly cheered. He was presented by the committee that had been appointed and introduced to you yesterday afternoon. It is to be recalled that he had voted in the seventeenth session of the Nebraska legislature for the man he now presented as the choice of the twenty-seventh session. Senator Millard was again greeted with applause as he said:

Gentlemen, I am not here with the expectation of making any speech. I should have come here and paid my respects to you yesterday afternoon, but I was detained at home by reason of matters that I do not very well leave. I do not want you to understand that it was intended to be a discourtesy to you in any way, as I certainly would have foregone anything I had at home should I have known in advance that you expected me here, but a gentleman here told me by telephone the session would last until tonight, that you had been here a long time and would rather rest last night and see me this morning. On the strength of that I concluded to defer my visit and come here today as, very many of you are strangers to me, and let you have a look at the man you were kind enough to vote for yesterday.

I think it is fair to say that I have not been an active candidate for this office. I have a number of friends here who have been such for years and for whom I have the highest regards and most friendly feeling. It is a very great honor and I appreciate it most heartily, and while I am not experienced in political affairs I certainly will do my best to serve you and serve the state. If it is unnecessary to detain you, you have been here a long time and I think I will make no further remarks except to thank you for your kindness.

At his conclusion Mr. Meiklejohn, who yesterday had refused to respond to repeated calls, finally screwed up courage enough to come forward, making a characteristic speech about patriotism being higher than personal ambition. The joint conference then adjourned, the senatorial party returning to Omaha.

BEATRICE VISION OF WEALTH

Councilman J. S. Rutherford Joins Relatives in an Effort to Acquire a Fortune.

BEATRICE, Neb., March 29.—(Special Telegram.)—Councilman J. S. Rutherford, democratic candidate for mayor on the citizens' ticket, believes he will soon be wealthy. Mr. Rutherford claims to be one of seventy-five heirs to land in the heart of New York City, valued at $60,000,000.

The property was owned at an early day by Gideon Mercer, who rented it on a ninety-nine-year lease in 1778. A few years later the Vanderbilts attempted to sell some of the property, but when the title was looked up by the prospective purchaser it was discovered that the Vanderbilts could not give a clear title. The case was taken to the supreme court, which rendered a decision that the heirs of Gideon Mercer were the rightful owners.

The eastern heirs at once employed H. P. Mast of Springfield, O., to look after their claims at a recompense of 10 per cent of what he collected. It is said Mast compromised the matter for $500,000, and the heirs are now seeking to set aside the compromise.

This property was willed by Gideon Mercer to John Mercer, who at his death willed it to John Mercer of the fourth generation, in trust for his heirs, and at the age of 21 years he was to divide the property among all of his heirs. The property undivided of by Mast is said to consist of the following: One thousand one hundred acres of land in Virginia valued at $1,000,000; 2,100 acres in New Jersey, three acres in Jersey City, a small tract in New York City, one of seven acres of solid business blocks and one of three and two-fifths acres, which it is said will sell the hammer at $18,000,000; another of two and three-fifths acres in New York City, and fifteen acres on Long Island, running into Brooklyn; bonds and money in Scotland, France and Ireland which have been on deposit since 1817 and are drawing compound interest, aggregating nearly $1,000,000; notes of H. P. Mast for $250,000, given for money he collected for the estate, and which were filed with the administrator.

ATTEMPT TO SWINDLE FAILS

Central City People, Profiting by Kenney's Experience, Refuse to Be Worked.

CENTRAL CITY, Neb., March 29.—(Special Telegram.)—Three Englishmen, presumably those who worked the residents of Kearney for over $400, came to town yesterday morning, rented the opera house and advertised a big free show in the evening.

When the crowd had assembled the men gave a few exhibitions and songs and then proceeded to sell jewelry to the audience. At first when a man bought an article they would give him the money back and also make him a handsome present. Finally they got the audience to hand over $5 and $10 bills in hopes of getting the money back together with a present. The Englishmen had not promised to return the money and consequently, when they had collected a considerable sum, they closed the show.

At this the crowd became excited; the opera house doors were closed and the sheriff sent for. He arrested the men and they remained in jail during the night. This morning they were released after returning the money.

URNS SOMERSACK IN WELL

Farmer Falls Forty Feet and Lands in Mud Without Injury.

WEEPING WATER, Neb., March 29.—(Special Telegram.)—Erza Whitaker, who works for C. E. Pierce, a farmer southwest of here, while helping out a curbing into a well, fell head first forty feet, turned completely over and struck the mud at the bottom of the well. The only injury was a bruised back, which is not thought to be serious.

Haguewood is Acquitted.

CHADRON, Neb., March 29.—(Special Telegram.)—The jury in the Haguewood murder trial this morning rendered a verdict of not guilty, after being out sixty hours. Haguewood was immediately released and returned to his home at Crawford this morning. He was tried on the charge of killing Little Bat, an Indian frontiersman in the employ of the government.

PRIZE DRILL YET TO COME

One of the Prize Features of the Exposition Saved for a Fatigued Night.

Just as the management of the Auditorium exposition had its neck bowed for the record-breaking evening's gait, its hopes were relentlessly dashed by the worst night of a whole month of bad weather. There were less than 300 in attendance last night and it was decided to postpone to a date yet to be selected the prize drill between the Thurston Rifles and the Omaha Guards, which is relied upon to bring out a great crowd on a more agreeable night.

Dimick's orchestra had donated its services for the occasion, and made good its tender. Owing to the failure of the chief attraction a dozen couples of young folks present devoted the greater part of the evening to dancing in the theaterium.

In the typewriter contest Fay Pardon is still in the lead, with 3,965 notes, Marian Reichardt has 3,916, Estelle Beecher 2,429, Edith Lohes 1,629, Grace Sheely 1,245 and a half-dozen others have numbers running from 100 to over 800.

Officer Osburn shot ahead in the policeman's race for the moor-champ pipe, scoring 345, to 155 for Officer Bloom, 135 for Officer Shoup, 110 for Officer Morrison and 55 for Sergeant Bebout.

In the popular teacher's contest for the bookcase, Miss Fried forged ahead to 195, leaving her but four votes behind Miss Whitmore.

George Lavidge, Jr., succeeded in wiping out Buck Keith's record at peg pool and put up a score of 2,800.

R. C. Jordan was present as a speller for the Buffalo wallow and was somewhat surprised when he was made the recipient of a quart of whisky, which was bestowed upon him as the most popular man present.

There was the usual distribution of presents, the value of which conformed to the size of the crowd. There are 100 unclaimed gifts awaiting claimants at the business office of the exposition. Today will be Children's day and the youngsters will be admitted for 5 cents each. Big bundles of childish presents have been provided for and every urchin will get something. In the afternoon Mrs. MacMurphy will serve pate cases, sweetbread fillets with tomato sauce, and deviled eggs cronstades. In the evening Kipling's Junior Military band will furnish music and a phonographic lecture will be given relating to the burning of the negro Smith in Texas. Invitations have been sent to dry goods dealers of Omaha, South Omaha and Lincoln for bids for the purchase of the Arlington mills exhibit, which carried off the gold medal at the Paris exposition, and which is calculated to bring the Auditorium fund something like $1,500 or $2,000 if it brings what it is worth. Bids will be opened April 12.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained fifty-eight pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Kuhn & Co.'s drug store.
