

WHIST OFFERS A VARIETY

Boston Transcript Gives an Essay on the Game—Other Notes of Interest.

The Boston Transcript says: "When one considers the endless variety of plays and opportunities for study presented by the game of whist, it is not surprising that human minds should differ so widely concerning the best methods. It is always beneficial, rather than detrimental, to any line of thought to have arguments presented and considered both in favor of and against any established method. Careful, conservative, clean play counts for more in the long run than speculation, inspiration or cunning invention. How often one hears of plays that gain two, three or four tricks, but does the reporter mention the single tricks that slip away in the meantime and which even aggregated several times the two, three or four? A man becomes a good player when he knows what the different leads mean according to the books, can keep run of the suits and play the game without violating certain fundamental rules. He does not become an expert by hunting for and finally making a coup. If he hopes to play on a champion team he need not be constantly striving to find difficult plays. It suffices if when those opportunities present themselves he is able to rise equal to the demands of the occasion."

Evidently local pride has been aroused and Omaha is holding its own with other cities in the United States in the matter of subscriptions taken for the Century Dictionary and Cyclopaedia and Atlas. In no way is a community more critically judged by the outside world than by its intellectual—which always means push and progress.

Easter Foot-wear for Men and Women. Many people do not realize the great difference of style, fit and finish between the ordinary shoes and those of really high grade manufacture. Some people do. They are the people whose feet you always notice, because they look so neat, stylish and well dressed. They are the people who buy the kind of shoes we sell—stylish, durable, well made shoes—that cost no more when bought from us than the ordinary shoes cost at other places. Let us fit you with your Easter footwear.

HON. LYMAN J. GAGE.

The Secretary of the Treasury Adds to His Library. Not long ago Secretary Gage added to his library a set of The Century Dictionary and Cyclopaedia and Atlas, and he thinks he made a wise investment. Mr. Gage is very fond of good books and it is said that he uses more than ordinary discrimination in selecting only the best and most useful volumes. In writing of his purchase of The Century, he stated: "I have found The Century Dictionary and Cyclopaedia and Atlas a very useful and efficient aid to my library. It is convenient and full of accurate information and is becoming more appreciated the longer I use it." There is only one Century Dictionary and Cyclopaedia and Atlas and if you make application to The Bee before the sets are all taken you may obtain one and save half its regular cost. A postal card addressed to The Bee will bring particulars of the offer.

Labor Leader Ill. PITTSBURG, March 30.—T. J. Shaffer, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Plate Workers, is reported seriously ill. He is suffering from a general breakdown, bordering on nervous prostration, brought on by worry and over-work, and may not be able to take up his duties for some time. President Shaffer has just returned from the east, where he had been closely following the situation ever since the formation of the big steel combine. It is claimed he was given assurance from a source near to the powers in the trade that the Amalgamated Association would receive recognition from the combine.

This noon, in the absence of Forde, Howie entered the saloon and called for a drink.
