The play is a very pretty southern heart story and while it has intense and exciting incidents it is not the usual melodrama, but natural and pastoral in its treatment. An impression seems to prevail that the show is composed of colored people. This is a great error and has probably arisen from the fact that it is a southern drama. The cast is made up of well-known actors and actresses, at the head of whom is the favorite soubrette star, Lizzle Evans.

Be Tried on Merits. The dismissal by the supreme court of the writ of certiorari in the school treasurer election contest case of George S. Davis

At the school election in 1900 Haverstock count. Mandamus proceedings were brought several ribs fractured, but the body was in the district court, which held that Haverstock, having been issued a certificate by the board, was prima facie treasurer. Davis then turned over the books of the office and the cash in his hands, but commenced quo warranto proceedings in the superior court to oust Haverstock.

Haverstock's attorneys questioned the jurisdiction of the superior court in such a case and went before Judge Given at Spirit Lake, who granted them a writ of certiorari to the supreme court. The dismissal of the writ means that the supreme court holds that the superior court has jurisdiction in the case. As Haverstock has held the office store March, 1900, and his term will expire next year, it is doubtful if Davis will proceed further with the suit. Attorney Wadsworth, Davis' counsel, said yesterday that Mr. Davis had not yet decided whether to continue the suit or not.

Supreme Court Passes on Case Between Iowa and Federal Authorities.

Senator Beveridge of Indiana to Speak Before Grant Club at Des Moines-Collections to Help Cedar Rapids Strikers.

DES MOINES, April 12 .- (Special.) - The supreme court of Iowa, in a decision placed on file this morning, discussed a question of the relation between the state and federal authorities in the matter of regulation of national banks and decided in favor of the authority of the state. The case was that of James H. Easton of Decorah, for a number of years president of the First National bank of Decorah and one of the wealthy men of northeastern lowa. In the summer of 1896 his bank became insolvent and November 10 of that year s receiver was appointed. Previously, on August 21, he had received a deposit of $100 from a patron, and he was indicted for having received this deposit after he knew the bank was insolvent, a crime under the Iowa laws. There was no doubt about the fact that the bank was insolvent, as shown by the bank books, at the time the deposit was received, and Easton was convicted and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

He appealed to the supreme court on the ground, chiefly, that the Iowa statute making it a crime to receive deposits for an insolvent bank do not refer to banks organized under national law, and even if it does so apply it is in conflict with the federal statutes. The lowa court decides that the law applies to all financial institutions in the state, whether national or state, and that the law is constitutional."

The court admits that the point has never een directly ruled on by the United States supreme court, but until it is so ruled on it will follow the precedents set in Iowa and elsewhere. It is probable, in view of this decision, that Easton will take the case to the United States supreme court for final determination.

Must Pay Fee Again.

Must Pay Fee Again. Some time ago the amendment to the articles of incorporation of the Union Pacific Railroad company, increasing the capital stock $100,000,000, were filed with the secretary of state, who refused to record the same unless paid the maximum fee under the lowa statutes of $2,000. The company declined to do this. When the company was incorporated the maximum fee for filing was exacted, which was at that time $350. Last year when an increase of stock was made the secretary of state made no charge of additional fee, on the of inch | ground that the company having once paid the maximum fee should not be required to pay any more. This was contrary to the verbal opinion of the attorney general. But since then there has come into office a new secretary of state and a new attorney general. The new secretary of state rules that the $2,000 fee must now be paid. The attorney general has decided that this is the correct interpretation of the law. The company will have to pay every time its capital stock is increased.
