

SHY ON KIDNAPING CASE

Henderson Cautions About Giving Details to County Attorney Shields.

TALKS FREELY OF OTHER OMAHA MATTERS

Douglas County Lawyer Thinks It Probable Mr. Cudahy and Son Will Go to Dallas to See the Prisoner.

DALLAS, Tex., April 14.—There was a meeting today between County Attorney Shields of Omaha and H. C. Henderson, who asserts that he is one of the Cudahy kidnapers. This meeting was arranged Saturday on a statement from Henderson to Shields that he would probably talk after having consulted his attorney.

Mr. Shields said tonight that Henderson still declined to make a detailed statement of his alleged connection with the kidnaping and that his talk was full of general items and had little of the details that are wanted. He also said that Henderson is cautious as to what he says about this case, though he will converse volubly on other subjects connected with Omaha. Mr. Shields said it was probable E. A. Cudahy and his son would come to Dallas within the next few days to see Henderson.

MR. CUDAHY IS SKEPTICAL

Wants Full Assurance from County Attorney Shields Before He Will Go to Texas.

The telegraphic reports received from Dallas, Tex., Saturday night regarding the partial identification of Henderson as one of the Cudahy kidnapers was received with interest by E. A. Cudahy, who is not, however, inclined to give them full credence.

Sunday afternoon Mr. Cudahy had a consultation with John C. Cowin, his attorney, on the subject and while that conference was in progress he said to a Bee reporter: "There is nothing decided about a visit to Dallas. I have seen the report, but I have seen so many reports since last December that I place little confidence in them. At this time I am waiting to hear from County Attorney Shields, who is in Dallas, and who will write me his impressions. If he thinks Henderson had anything to do with the kidnaping I will take Eddle and go down there and see if we can identify him. We will not go, however, on the reports published."

General Cowin said Sunday morning that County Attorney Shields had gone to Dallas to ascertain the facts in regard to Henderson and would probably be influenced in his action in the Callahan case by what he heard there.

In his solitary cell in the county jail Jim Callahan was with interest the report of the partial conversion of the county attorney to the view that Henderson was connected with the kidnaping. To a guard at the jail he said:

"I did not believe that Henderson had anything to do with it, and thought he was striving for a little notoriety, but if he can convince Judge Shields it will let me out. I don't know Henderson, and he doesn't know me. I never had anything to do with the case, as will be proved, and I hope that if Henderson did have something to do with it he can succeed in breaking into the Douglas county jail and in letting me get out."

NEBRASKA'S NEW SENATORS

Wabo and Baker of Kansas, which should make it easy for either Dietrich or Millard to secure a place thereon. It is understood that Giamble of South Dakota will try to pull wires to secure a seat around the Indian committee table, although it is not clearly seen how he can land the place, as Kyle of the same state is already on the committee. Burton of Kansas will be a candidate for one of the vacancies and as Nebraska is vitally interested in the Indian question it should not be without representation. A plea for appropriations, commerce or finance would of course be a great compliment to the Antelope state, but these places are fought over most strenuously and can hardly be expected to fall to any man.

In the geographical distribution of the committee chairmanships Nebraska cannot help but get its full share if the senators-elect go after places within reach and not aim too high.

Fiction of the Logan Senate.

The unveiling of the equestrian statue of General John A. Logan Tuesday in this city shows to what lengths artists will go to make a striking picture. On the east side of the pedestal there is a tablet showing Logan in the act of being sworn in as United States senator, the oath being administered by Vice President Chester A. Arthur. Now, as a matter of fact, the scene depicted is entirely fictitious. Mr. Arthur was elected vice president in 1880, taking his seat as such March 4, 1881. General Logan was at that time a senator, having taken his seat in 1879, when of course he was sworn in, the presiding officer of the senate at that time being Chief Justice William Marshall.

Morton and Daniel Voorhees of Indiana, John F. Miller of California and Allen G. Thurman of Ohio. These senators are represented in the looking on the east side of the pedestal. On the west side of the pedestal are three of the figures of the Cudahy kidnapers, who were present at the most interesting event in Logan's life. Cullom was not at the time (1881) a senator, being governor of Illinois. Everts did not come to the senate until several years later. Morton had been dead upwards of three years. Thurman retired with the end of the legislative day of March 3, and the only three men of the picture as all entitled to be there were Conkling, Voorhees, who succeeded Morton, and Miller.

"It is my earnest desire to meet the best boat that can be built in America under 20 feet in any event I am bound by my challenge to the New York Yacht club and must race against the best selected by them. I am confident that Shamrock II, with my crew and skill can give and will not fear to put it to the test with any of the boats I hope that Mr. Morgan as my guest at the trial races on the Long Island Sound, which will be held in the city of New York, and which will be the last of the season. I have invited 20 guests to be present at the launching, which will take place on Saturday.

Sir Thomas and Designer Watson visited England and after hastening the work, as unavoidable delays have so retarded the launching, that only by the greatest effort can it be ready by the date agreed upon. Between 30 and 40 men will be working on the boat. The fitting touches on its hull, repairs are finished, and the builders promise to have it ready within an hour after the launching.

New York Sporting Fraternity Expects Busy Days Hereafter.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(Special.)—In the Metropolitan district will begin tomorrow and continue until the snow flies. The occasion will be the spring meeting of the Queens County Jockey club at the Aqueduct track, and there is every prospect of a successful season. The career handspan will be called in the near future, for which the stakes will be larger than in any other season, and the class of horses which will be there in some years. Last year there were 100,000 spectators, and this year, which season such good ones as Commando, Belair, Beauvaliant, Water, Col. Barry, Hermit, Blue, Green and Bomber give promise. In the all-day races there are which will be ready early. Several (sixty) good youngsters have been shown at Washington and more will appear in the days, some astonishingly fast trials being shown from Sheepshead, Morris Park and Gravesend.

IOWA POLITICAL SITUATION

Contest for Governor Waits on Return of Minister Conger.

MANY WILL PETITION HIM TO RUN

His Consent May Result in Withdrawal of Present Candidates—State is Much Divided on the Question.

DES MOINES, April 14.—(Special.)—The political forces in Iowa have been so manipulated of late that a general political situation has developed. With six active candidates for the republican nomination for governor in the field, each a man conspicuous in the party, and all of unquestioned ability and fitness for the office, there is a hesitancy which plainly indicates a waiting attitude toward the return of the politician. All ordinary explanations of this fall to the ground, and it is practically conceded by all that the real reason for the hesitancy is the hope which many republicans cherish, that Minister Conger, when he returns home the latter part of the month, will consent to permit him to go before the convention as a candidate. In that case a great many of the delegates will prefer Conger over either of the six candidates now in the field.

On the other hand, if Conger definitely asks himself out of the race, many candidates, there will be at least two other candidates in the field and perhaps more. That some of the leading politicians of the state desire that Conger shall be nominated for governor is evident, although they are slow to commit themselves to any one view. It is now the general belief that what he will do. He is now on the ocean on his way home. Hundreds of letters and telegrams will be found waiting for him at San Francisco. In many of these will be urged to become a candidate.

It is claimed by those who ought to know that at least two-thirds of the delegates for governor now in the field have written Conger that they stand ready to withdraw from the race and support him if he will come out as a candidate. It has been claimed that Congressman Hill, who has returned from the Philippines, is waiting to meet Conger and talk over the situation in Iowa before he arrives. This is improbable, but indicates how ready the people are to accept any talk about Conger.

Several well known Iowa politicians are now on the coast and are said to be ready to meet and discuss the situation as he arrives and to urge him to be a candidate. He has said he would not be a candidate if he has to make a fight for the nomination. When he reaches home the situation may appear different to him.

State is Much Divided.

Reports from nearly every county in Iowa regarding the political situation indicate that the state was never more badly broken up in the preliminary campaign. There are several counties in the Seventh congressional district, the Des Moines district, ready to go to Conger on the slightest provocation. Among these are Dallas, Madison, Warren and Emmet. In Warren and Madison, Conger has a following of about 4000, and he is the only one of the six candidates who can hope to have his own congressional district undivided. Foster, who is a candidate in the same county with Conger, has a following of about 5000, and will hardly get a county in this district.

The primaries in this county will be held a week from Saturday and there is no doubt that Cummins will have a large majority in the county and get the delegation solid. Reports indicate that Cummins will have most of the counties of the Second district. Inasmuch as Cummins is regarded as in the lead in two or three counties each in the Fifth, Tenth and Eleventh districts, he will have support all through the northern part of the state. He is looked upon as unquestionably the strongest candidate before his party. However, the sentiment is all against him in the southern and southeastern part of the state.

The next strongest candidate unquestionably is George D. Perkins of Sioux City. He will have the support of a good portion of his district, which contains thirteen counties. It is reported there is some doubt about his ability to carry Sac, Ida and Sioux counties, but the others are for him. In addition, he will carry a following in Harrison, Carroll, Crawford and Van Ness. Perkins will have a following in some counties of the Third district and in the First district. Some of the counties of the Ninth district will prefer Perkins for second choice. Efforts have been made to divide Mr. Perkins' district among other candidates, but not much headway appears to have been made in that direction.

Candidacy of John Herriott.

Ex-Treasurer John Herriott is the candidate of the Ninth district, which includes Pottawattamie county. Although he has the extreme east end of the district, the district will be divided among any candidate for the district, and Herriott will have the entire district, unless it is Harrison county. The last week Mr. Herriott has been at work among the counties of southeastern Iowa, but it is probable he will not be able to carry at the start outside of his own district.

The other candidates, Senators Harriman and Trewin, live in the northeast part of the state. The former will have most of the Third district and the latter most of the Fourth district.

This leaves all the two southern tiers of counties without any candidate claiming them on account of geographical proximity and also the counties of southeastern Iowa. All this territory is an open field. Naturally it is nearly all opposed to Cummins and would favor the strongest candidate among the present candidates. But in this territory there is a strong desire that Conger should be a candidate. If he is not a candidate, then Colonel D. J. Palmer of Washington will be supported by many of the delegates from the southeastern part of the state. He will not be a candidate, because he is at present a state official and could not appropriately ask for the place. But the delegates from many of the counties of the southeastern part of the state will be old soldiers and favor an old soldier candidate above all others, and unless they can get Conger, will favor Palmer. The situation in regard to Major Samuel Mahon of Ottumwa is similar. He will not be a candidate if Conger can be induced to enter the race.

Southeastern Counties.

Specific reports from some of the southeastern Iowa counties show that the first consideration is to nominate John J. Towner for supreme judge. His own county, Adams, is enthusiastically for him. Taylor county is reported as favoring either Perkins or Foster for governor. Ringold reports that the delegates from Taylor county are ready to choose the governor. Taylor county will give its delegation to Towner for judge and Foster for governor. Decatur county is for Conger if he is a candidate, or might be for Foster. Fremont will support for Harriman or divided between him and Perkins for governor. Montgomery county is favorable to Cummins or Perkins, but will give its vote to Herriott, at least at the beginning. In Shelby, Herriott will be largely supported, but if it is necessary to have a second choice it is probably Towner. In Wayne, Wm. G. Atwater is reported as ready to give Herriott support as a district candidate, but willing to divide between Perkins and Cummins when a second choice is neces-

Mining in the Black Hills

Homestake Pays a Dividend of Three Hundred and Fifteen Thousand Dollars.

FAR SURPASSES ALL OTHER GOLD FIELDS

Promises Fifty Cents a Share Each Month Till Fall. When Decided to Increase is Expected—Omaha Capital Opens New Ledges.

DEADWOOD, S. D., April 14.—(Special.)—The Homestake company has paid a dividend of $315,000 for the first quarter of this year, ending March 31. This is the largest amount by nearly one-half paid by any of the gold producing mines of the world. One hundred and twenty-four mining companies in the United States paid a total of $23,900,012 in dividends for the first quarter of this year. The Homestake company will probably pay the 50 cents per share each month until next fall, when it is likely that a decided increase will be made. By that time all the old mills will be in operation and the new cyanide plant will be turning out bullion.

The Belt Development company's representative here has received instructions from headquarters at Colorado Springs to take up all stock in this city and Lead not sold and upon which options were held. The company has sold all the stock that will be offered for the present, which is 125,000 shares. This commission brought par value, or $1 per share. There have been a number of offers for the stock in Canada, New York, Boston, Milwaukee and other cities that were refused, for the reason that the parties wanted the control. It is one of a very few instances in the Black Hills where mining stock has sold for par value on a prospect. There seems to be a universal feeling that the Homestake ore body will be encountered with the shaft that is now being sunk.

Reopen Pluma Stamp Mill.

The Pluma Mining company is making preparations to open the stamp mill for work again. A large force of men has been at work in the old workings of the mine for several weeks and new ore bodies have been discovered. One show of silicious ore of great value has been discovered. Two of the officers of the company have been in the hills from Des Moines, Ia.

A big show of ore has been discovered in the Belle Eldridge mine, in Spruce gulch, which is owned by Aaron Dunn and associated with other producers in the district. It is expected that the mine will produce $20 per ton gold. Preparations are being made to ship the ore to the smelter.

Expect to Take Up Bond.

The Minneapolis parties who are buying the Gill Edge and Dakota Mail mines, in the Belle Eldridge mine, in Spruce gulch, are expected to take up the bond on the properties May 1, when due. This will call for about $200,000. Both mines have been thoroughly developed and they have produced considerable ore. The Gill Edge having been at one time one of the largest producers in the country. It is stated that as soon as the option is taken work on a large cyanide plant will begin.

Work is to be resumed at the mine of the Illinois-Dakota Mining company, at the head of Strawberry gulch. A ledge of ore has been encountered that assays about $65 in silver and $40 in lead. Eastern capitalists have put up money for the development of the property. W. J. McGoffin of Lead is president of the company.

The steel works is nearing completion at the Uncle Sam mine in the Elk creek district. As soon as it is finished all of the sixty stamps will be started up. Only twenty stamps are dropping on ore that is being hoisted through the old hoist. This mine now has a ledge of free-milling ore that will yield about $100 per ton. The mine is located about twelve miles, on the Homestake ore belt.

To Satisfy Detroit & Deadwood.

A Colorado mining expert will arrive in this city the latter part of this month for the purpose of settling some questions for the Detroit & Deadwood company, which is operating on Annie creek in the Ragged Top district. This company has been very fortunate in some of its mining enterprises in the Black Hills, due to the advice given by eastern so-called experts. A large property has been leased in the Ragged Top district and a 100-ton cyanide plant has been erected. The ore is of a high enough grade to pay a good profit when treated by this process. Frank C. Andrews of Detroit, who is heavily interested in Cripple Creek property, is now one of the principal owners of the Detroit & Deadwood company. It is believed that the proposition in the Ragged Top district can be worked successfully with proper management.

Cyanide Plant in Bear Gulch.

A cyanide plant is to be erected at the property of the Deadwood-Bear Gulch company, in the Bear gulch district. Ore bodies have been uncovered that have good value. This Bear gulch district is rapidly coming before the notice of mining men, owing to the rich placer gold in the gulches and the many deposits of iron ore, which are soon to be worked. The Gold Coin company will erect a steam hoisting plant in the district.

A stamp mill has been ordered by the Custer Peak Mining company, which will operate on ore about six miles south of Deadwood.

To Receive Pearl Titus.

Pearl Calvin Titus, the Iowa boy who distinguished himself by his gallantry in scaling the walls at Pekin in the face of the enemy, and who has been rewarded President McKinley with a commission to a cadetship at West Point for this year, is expected home from China soon. His home is in Vinton and he was a member of the local company of the Iowa National guard there. The company has made arrangements for a reception to young Titus on his return home and it will be participated in by the people of the county generally. Titus is a popular young man and the recognition of his bravery is highly pleasing in Iowa.

Omaha Man in Ditch Suit.

OMAHA, Ia., April 14.—(Special.)—Another ditch case has been filed in the Monona county district court by E. C. Smith of Omaha. W. L. Culbertson, a banker of Carroll, W. A. Blakely, M. A. Clark, J. E. Dew, E. H. Smith and W. A. Sleeper, asking that the assessment as to the land of the Woodbury Monona ditch case be canceled and set aside. These land owners represent about one-sixth of the total ditch tax. The tax of E. C. Smith is $2,100 and of William Sleeper $1,100.
