SHAMROCK READY TO LAUNCH

Challenger Receives Finishing Touches Under Watchful Eye of Designer.

LIPTON SAYS BOAT IS A MARVEL

No Radical Changes Are Observed in Latest Aspirant for America's Cup, but Several New Features Are Embodied.

GLASGOW, April 19.—All is ready for the launching of the Shamrock II, although this evening men were working at the yards of the Dennys under Mr. Watson's vigilant eye giving the final touches to the craft. Sir Thomas Lipton, when asked what he thought of his new boat, replied: "I can only tell you what John Henderson, who built the Meteor, Thistle and Valkyrie, remarked today after close inspection: 'It is the finest yacht ever built on this side of the Atlantic.'"

The notable people who will attend the launching ceremonies will arrive here tomorrow. Among those expected to be present will be Mr. Fife, the American who looks on with more critical eye the new craft than the designer of Shamrock I, and almost within a week—for

TO PASS THE CROWD. All Cannot Be Brilliant No Matter How Healthy.

It probably comes to every thoughtful person at times that there are plenty of common, mediocre people, and that if one determines to be, or she can press to the front, pass the crowd, and win position, fame and gold. It is largely a matter of determination and health. Many a determined character with brilliant possibilities, is held back by ill health. Some find that bright, keen thoughts refuse to come to their brains, and wonder why.

The kind of brain work that makes successful merchants, lawyers, doctors, authors, etc., etc., makes heavy draughts on the filling of the minute nerve cells of the body, said filling being composed of a greyish sort of material which must be replaced day by day, or the brain and other parts of the body will not act properly.

Coffee is a hidden, but powerful enemy to one's progress in life. Its subtle, narcotic poison weakens heart, interferes with digestion and has a definite and destructive effect on the nervous system. People who are content to load themselves with impediments to progress, who refuse to supply body with food and drink of the kind needed to make up for the daily disintegration of the nervous and tissue, must stand aside in the race for pre-eminence.

The ones who are properly fed will surely win the laurels. Postum Food Coffee furnishes the gluten and phosphate of grain needed by nature to nourish brain and nerves with food. It does not narcotize and tear down. It is frequently misjudged on first trial because of improper preparation, but it will be found to be a most delicious beverage if, after boiling commences it is allowed to continue boiling for fifteen minutes. This is necessary to extract the food value and flavor.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Sag Harbor." A play in four acts by James A. Herne. Produced for the first time in Omaha at Boyd's theater Friday night by Mr. Herne's own company, headed by George Woodward.

THE CAST. William Turner, formerly of Islip, Long Island, the hero of the drama, Frank Marston Ben Turner, his son, Forrest Robinson Frank Turner, Ben's younger brother, Wootton Ivan Captain Dan Marble, owns the sloop "Katy" George Woodward, George Woodward's brother, the painter and glazier, leads the choir of the church, Mrs. John Ruesch, the wife of Mrs. Sol Smith Elizabeth Ann Turner, William's maiden sister, Marion Abbott Francis Todd of Till, Wally Rees Miss Bailey of Groversville, N. Y. Susan Marbury, the young Florence Horstall

In "Sag Harbor" James A. Herne has, besides adding one more beautiful play to his dramatic effort, won additional praise as an author. As is characteristic of all of Mr. Herne's writings, he tells his story of the lives and love affairs of the homely-mannered folks who live in this little out-of-the-way village down east, in a manner that reaches the heart of every one without giving offense to any. His play is clean, wholesome, filled to the brim with heart interest and bubbles over with bright sparkling comedy that runs through it like the tiny globules that rise from the bottom of the glasses and force their way through the champagne that is drunk to the health of the newly betrothed couple in the first act. In writing it Mr. Herne has attempted to solve no problems, neither does he try to point any morals. He has simply made an effort to write a piece that would please and entertain everybody and that would disgust or offend no one, and he has succeeded much better than any of the many authors whose plays have been seen here this season.

"Sag Harbor" is one of the few real treats offered local patrons of the drama. Mr. Herne has used an old story, but has placed it in such a bright new setting that few if any think of ever having heard it before. His characters are human beings, not caricatures as are usually found in plays of this kind. They are people one might find living in any small town; people with little polish and nothing superfluous about them, but with whole souls and big hearts. Their peculiar mannerisms amuse us, make us laugh; their troubles touch us, play upon our sympathies, and they make us feel their emotions as only human and natural characters possibly could. They create an atmosphere about them of which the audience soon becomes a part. Living and breathing in it with that degree of enjoyment that is superlative.

As is the case with almost all good plays it would amount to but little if not in the hands of a company capable in every respect. In fact, the one seen at the Boyd Friday night was the same with the exception of one person as that which helped make "Sag Harbor" score such a big success in New York and Boston two years ago, and when this statement is made there is little else left to be said in praise of its work. It is hard to imagine anyone capable of giving a more satisfactory portrayal of the leading character, Captain Dan Marble, the gruff old sailor, than does George Woodward, and two sweeter or more accomplished actresses than Mr. Herne's two daughters, Crystal and Julia, have not appeared upon the local stage in many a day. The production is complete in every detail.

The engagement closes with two performances today, one this afternoon and another this evening.

General Land Commissioner Tells About Oklahoma Chances.

NO ONE HAS ANY SPECIAL KNOWLEDGE

Information About the Reservation is Free and the Law Regarding the Opening Will Be Rigidly Enforced. WASHINGTON, April 19.—The prospect for the opening of new lands in Oklahoma territory to settlement under the act of March 3 last, providing for the disposition of lands ceded by the Wichita, Kiowa, Comanche and Apache Indians, has had the effect of increasing the correspondence of the commissioner of the general land office until it has become to be of enormous dimensions. Most of the letters ask for information upon this subject. In January 2,228 letters were received; in February, 4,329; in March, 5,074, and thus far during the present month this mail has numbered 3,744. In view of the fact that the lands to be offered for settlement include only about 12,000 quarter sections, or an equal
