

ARTIFICIAL SUNLIGHT.

The Last Addition to Science to Popular Use.

BRILLIANCY AND SAFETY

This New Light is a Revelation in Economical Illumination for Homes, Hotels and All Classes of Buildings.

Acetylene, the new artificial light, three years ago known only to scientists, is today coming so rapidly into popular use that it promises to replace all the older means of lighting.

The great economy and convenience in producing the new illuminant, and the beauty and excellence of the light itself explain in a measure its marvelous growth in popularity.

Calcium carbide, the material from which each individual user produces his own acetylene, is a solid substance, hard as granite and is ordinarily crushed, like broken stone, to pieces about the size of eggs.

Enough acetylene gas can be made to light a large room for several hours by merely throwing a piece of carbide the size of one's thumb into a tumbler of water.

In that case, however, the gas is not controlled—the gas is all made in a few moments and lost. Machines called generators are made, which cause the carbide and water to be brought together just in proportion as the gas is needed for lighting.

Most of these machines are simply constructed and they do this automatically. If the light from one burner is needed, then the machine causes just enough gas to be made to supply one burner.

The cost of carbide has been steadily reduced, notwithstanding the early impressions of the great expense in its manufacture.

Such large quantities are now being consumed and such material reductions in price have actually been made that users can expect that lighting with acetylene will be as inexpensive as it has proved to be desirable in point of excellence and beauty.

Acetylene solves the lighting problem wherever city gas and electric light is not available, by the simple process of the acetylene plant. These can be placed in any dwelling or building by an ordinary mechanic, can be manipulated by any person of ordinary intelligence.

PASSES ON FINE LAW POINT

Judge Slabaugh Says Nebraska is Not Strict on "Look and Listen" Rule.

Judge Slabaugh yesterday overruled the demurrer to the petition in the case of Laura Gieske against the Omaha Street Railway company, and in doing so passed upon a delicate question of law.

The street railway company demurred to the petition on the ground that it did not state that the plaintiff looked or listened for an approaching car as she crossed the track upon which she was injured.

Judge Slabaugh declared that Nebraska had not adopted the strict rule of law that obtains in other states—that a person in all cases must have looked and listened for approaching cars or have been guilty of contributory negligence.

Neither the government nor the Equitable promise impossibilities—but what they do promise they perform.

The Equitable's promises are backed by over $60,000,000 of surplus. In any business, if the assets are no greater than the liabilities, there can be no profits, no dividends, for two from two leaves nothing.

Take the assets and liabilities of the Equitable Society. Two hundred and thirty-eight millions from three hundred and four millions leaves sixty-six millions of surplus, and it is from surplus only the dividends are paid.

Promises Are Not Everything

If they were, neither government bonds nor Equitable policies would find a very ready market.

A government bond-bearing 3 per cent interest—sells at a premium, while many other bonds promising twice as much—will not sell, even at par.

Promises are cheap—and it doesn't cost much to print them. It isn't the promises—the contracts—that count, it is all in who makes the promise.

Neither the government nor the Equitable promise impossibilities—but what they do promise they perform.

The Equitable's promises are backed by over $60,000,000 of surplus. In any business, if the assets are no greater than the liabilities, there can be no profits, no dividends, for two from two leaves nothing.

HAYDEN'S "A miss is as good as a mile."

A true saying as applied to many things but never more than when applied to clothing. If it just misses a good fit or just misses good style, you will never be satisfied with it.

That is why you always run a risk in ordering from your custom-tailor. A slight mistake may be made in the cutting that will spoil the whole effect to you, and yet cannot be remedied. You accept the suit because the tailor cannot afford to lose it, and you have a tender heart. Such a thing cannot happen if you buy a STEIN-BLOCK READY TAILORED SUIT OR TOP COAT.

You see just how they look at once. No chance of a miss. Worth investigating, isn't it? Suit $15 to $25, top coats, $15 to $35, and your money back for the asking. We show a beautiful range of 50 different styles of bright nobby, absolutely all wool cassimeres and chevrons. These suits are cut to the very latest ideas. We want you to see these garments, at $3.75, $5.00 and $6.75.
