ONE DRY SUNDAY IN OMAHA

Jag Stores Closed Tight and Drinks Are Hard to Obtain.

THEATERS AND BALL TEAMS COME NEXT

Mayor's Order is to Be Extended to Include Amusement Pentures and Chief of Police Will Enforce It.

That which moistens the whistle and sometimes affects the head was decidedly tacking in Omaha yesterday. The appetites for this mixture consequently grew enormously as the day went by. In place of the usual supply of this beverage, which its lovers were wont to find behind the curtained windows of the saloon, the tipplers found a genuine Sunday quiet reigning, and the saloon men could take a vacation without feeling that their customers would take offense because they were not doing business. The vacation was enforced and close tab was kept all day by the police lest some of the self-sacrificing saloon men should forego the pleasures of the day in the parks or at home for the sake of the thirsty mankind.

Next Sunday the theater-going and base ball loving part of the population will be given some of the same heroic treatment, according to the statement of Chief Dona-

"The saloons are closed," said Chic? Donahue yesterday afternoon, "and they will stay closed until 4 c'clock tomorrow morning. We are not fooling in this maiter. Some of these people want a tight Sunday and they will get it. We started with the saloons and next Sunday it will be the amusements, the theaters and the ball games, and possibly a few other things. When we say they will close we mean it and no side-door racket will go if we get onto them. So far as I have been able to find out the saloons have remained

"This morning the cleaners were found in one or two places, but I do not believe they were there to sell and when the case was investigated the men left at once.

The first arrest came about 4 o'clock to the afternoon and it landed Fred Dahlmann behind the bars on a charge of being drunk. the use of loud and profane language or the street and carrying concealed weapons. One of the Riverview Brains Creates a Mild Sensation by Exemping.

The park season was ushered in some what premature at Riverview Saturday afternoon by the escape of a black bear cub months old. It is not known exactly how Master Bruin managed to climb out of the pit which he shared with his five brothers and sisters, but the fact remains that when discovered by the keeper about 5 o'clock in the afternoon he was strolling leisurely through the park, seemingly oblivious to the sensation he was creating.

A crowd gathered to watch the keeper and his assistants in their attempts to lure bruin back to his lair. The situation was at once fascinating and dangerous. The beast was not so old as to have lost his sense of discrimination in food stuffs, but still old enough to command respect, so the crowd, conscious of its gustability, maintained a safe distance. It was observed that he was about the size of a full-grown Newfoundland dog and built on ample lines. The adjective "cute" no longer applied to him

One of the keepers brought a lariat and was swinging it over his head when his bearship suddenly doubled on his course and scampered up a tree, disclosing at the same time an arsenal of teeth and claws indication that the price of cattle will go that caused a flurry among the spectators. Several exemplified the strenous life by withdrawing from the scene rather hurriedly. No one present except the keepers seemed to have lost any bears. The quarry once up a tree the lariat became useless, and it was necessary to resort to other means. One of the keepers brought a lump of sugar and tried to coax him down some who thought it was all a bluff and with it. On the top of the post which projected from the center of the bear pit thirty yards away two of bruin's little sixters sat and smiled at him. And bruin would have been asked in Texas. Within the next few minutes they had the satisfaction of seeing the cub climb down and begin to work his way toward the cage along the line of sugar lumps. Then, with the air of one who has had his own way and is proud of it, he climbed into the cage and was soon in the pit, where, probably, he related the bare facts of the adventure to his companions.

The cattle are yearlings and will be taken to Montana, where they will be kept until three years old and then brought to the
