Batting Habits Possess Every Player in the Omaha Team and a Splendid Exhibition is

The second game with St. Joseph Saturday afternoon reminded the big crowd of biffed and banged the circumlocutions fans which witnessed it of the opening game | which McDenald sent over the plate, and of the season. It was so different. "Dusty" when the fusiliade was ended McKibben Coops pitched the game of his life. He scurried off to a park in the north end of was touched up for four hits only and with town, where an amateur game was in the assistance of a fine working field he progress, for the purpose of hiring a was able to shut out the Saints without a pitcher or two. Score: Before the game was ended the locals succeeded in amassing a total of six

It was a great game. Any real enthusiastic, dyed-in-the-wool baseball fanatic who missed it will ever have cause for regret. But the crowded grandstand and bleachers indicated that most of the fans were in attendance, and the way they did enjoy themselves. They rooted and rooted and then rooted some more and all the way through they had a root coming. For the Omahas played ball.

Every man in the team had his batting habits on. Wiggs, a sparsely built young man whom Manager McKibben picked up down in the Missouri pines, was sent to the tall timbers early in the struggle and Willie McDonald, who followed him in the box, didn't do much better. Twelve hits was the sum total of the Rourkeites' stick operations. Thomas Letcher was the star of the occasion in the manipulation of the St. Joseph ash. In four times up he made three hits, two of them two-baggers, and the encomjums of praise heaped upon him made the old warrior feel mighty kittenish.

their performance. In the beginning they started out with a rush and kept it up all the way through. "Dusty" Coons was in fine fettle. In the first inning Hall socked out a double-cushion drive, but it didn't develop into anything. In the second Clark singled, but he died on first. After that the visitors went out in one, two, three order and along about the fifth inning the fans began to think that it was to be a Each inning when the visitors were tired without crossing the plate a mighty shout of approval went up from the big crowd and the inspiration urged Coons and his supporters to their best efforts. While the Saints were being led to the slaughter the Rourke family were getting their work in in great shape. In six of the eight innings played someone of Captain Stewart's crew scored, and as each man crossed the plate there was great recrossed the plate there was great rejoicing and glad acclaim in the spectators' stand. Thomas Letcher had the honor of making the winning run. It was the first one, and came in the very first inning. Carter started off and went out at first "Old Hoss" Letcher followed and rapped out a two-bagger. Buckley flew out to Flood and Stewart trotted down to first on four wide ones. Pitcher Wiggs threw a thundering bender past Calhoun and it went away by Dooin. In the scrimmage that resulted before the leather was captured Letcher pranced clear around from second base to the home plate, and the first tally was chalked up.

In the second Toman drove a hot grounder down to Wiggs, and that young gentleman threw it far beyond Ira Davis. While the chief comedian was searching for it in the bleachers Toman skirted the bags and scored. In the third Letcher descended upon Mr. Wiggs for a two-bagger, and it was all off with the tow-headed pitcher. Manager McKibben called him in and sent McDonald out as his successor.

Cakewatk Goes On and On It continued to be a cakewalk until the end. The Omahas swatted and soaked and

Omaha's Popular Tailor

We believed at the outset that we could place our tailoring business above the evils of high prices for credit and shoddy at deceptive cheapness.

We believed in the intelligence of the public, and have lived to see the confidence of our judgment verified, and gained to ourselves, upon a substantial basis, the largest tailoring business the world has known.

We are going in for more trade every day. Thousands of intelligent buyers have yet to hear of our novel prices for superior made-to-order garments, and see our generous assortment and samples of our make on the dressy men.

We would as soon try to sift dollars through a ladder and save them, as to offer our large and increasing trade a mean style, poor quality, imperfect work, or an unfair price.

It requires a tremendous stock to supply 50 stores. The cloth markers of the world offer us flattering inducements to purchase in large quantities. We in turn offer them to you. Any wonder that we are able to offer you the most tempting values?

You can't draw the line too sharply in placing your order for dressy attire. The tailors must be in active practice, the fabrics up-to-date, and the price moderate. We offer those inducements.

Trousers, $5-$6-$7-$8-$9. Suits, $20-$25-$30-$35.

We put the best tailoring in the country at your service at easy prices. Samples mailed upon request.
