"Strict, rigid economy will be exercised in the management of this institution, as in all others. While at the home I carefully scrutinized the payroll, but could find so items which could be eliminated or any superfluous names that could be lopped off. Consolidate Raral Schools.

Consolidation and centralization of rural advantages of the proposed system, which he declares is made to sible by a law pars of by the last legislature. The letter, in part.

This department urges upon you the importance of studying and observing the school law in the transaction of your official business. Were the district meeting, the district board, the director, the moderator, and the treasurer to comply with all the requirements of the business calendar, many petty quarrels and much of the perious trouble that usually follows the annual meeting, often working a detriment to the schools throughout the year, might be avoided.

The new school laws impose new duties. The new school laws impose new duties. The annual meeting must vote on the question of the establishment of an admet district in the county for free high school privileges, in all districts not approved by this department as free public high school districts. There is a new law on tracher's contract; a new compulsory attendance law, requiring a new data in the census report; a new law which removes the six-mile limit in ne formation of school districts; a new law which makes it the duty of school officers to attend business meetings called by the county superintendent; and a new law compelling teachers to attend institutes. These new laws increase the duties, the responsibilities, and the opportunities of school officers.

Textbooks and Supplies.

Under our present free textbook law, this subject is one of great importance. Ex-perience proves that, where proper care is exercised by the school board and the teacher, this law is popular and satisfacexercised by the school board and the teacher, this law is popular and satisfactory; but it becomes a detriment and a nuisance whenever pupils carelessly soil, mark, deface, or destroy the books. See that teachers appeal to the pride of their pupils; that they insist on habits of neatness and cleanliness; that they make a regular mapection of books, at least once a month-no other agency is more effective than a regular book inspection. We urge upon school officers the importance of furnishing their schools with up-to-date textbooks. You should no more expect pupils and teachers to work with textbooks that are You should no more expect pupils and leachers to work with textbooks that are behind the times than you should think of throwing aside the self-binder or checkrower to return to the implements used by your fathers. Modern textbooks are as necessary as modern farming implements. See that your school is properly furnished with natural slate blackboards, charts, maps, globes, dictionaries, and two or three magazines and periodicals. The slate blackboard is the best and cheapest in the end. board is the best and cheapest in the end. But we warn you not to purchase any sup-plies, charts, or apparatus from agents without a meeting of your board; and then sot at $47.50 a chart, nor half that amount.

To overcome Disadvantages.

To overcome the many disadvantages in the present rural school system in Nerraska, and for the purpose of giving every larmer's girl and boy in this noble commonwealth opportunities equal to those of the firls and boys of the village and city, we recommend to the careful consideration of every rural school board and to the fathers and nothers in these rural districts the consolidation of schools and the transportation of pupils. Consolidate, or centralize, the weak districts into a common central school, conveying the pupils from every part of the greater district or the congressional township to and from theteentral school by means of covered vans and wagnes, in charge of clean, capable, careful drivers. Such a plan would be legal for the coming year, as house roll No. 223 removes the six-mile limit in the formation of school districts. And we already have the transportation law. This idea of contolidation and transportation is not original with us. It has proven a success in many states east of Nebraska.

We are in the midst of an industrial revolution. The principle of concentration has touched our farming, our manufacturing, our mining, and our commerce. There are those who greatly fear the outcome. There are those who prophesied disaster and even the destruction of society on the introduction of labor-saving machinery. We have adjusted ourselves to the new conditions thus introduced. Most of us believe that we shall again adjust ourselves to the new industrial conditions. The change in industrial conditions. To Overcome Disadvantages.
