MAXWELL TALKS IRRIGATION

Secretary of National Association Addresses Omaha Business Men.

HE URGES CONCERTEED MOVEMENT

Reviews at Length the Various Differences of Opinion Which Exist on the Question of How to Reclaim Arid Lands.

George H. Maxwell, secretary of the National Irrigation association, met with the executive committee of the Omaha Commercial club at noon yesterday for the purpose of organizing a branch of that society. After luncheon Mr. Maxwell addressed the members at length. He took up the questions which divide the champions of government construction and control of irrigation systems and those who favor the cession of the lands to the state. He said that his experience with bills in recent sessions of congress showed him that the representatives from the eastern states would favor the plan of the association if it could be shown that actual settlers were to derive benefit, but that they would be opposed to any scheme which would permit large corporations to get control of the land and monopolize the water after it had been stored by the government.

He said that certain western representatives, who did not have the courage to openly oppose irrigation bills, would kill them by tacking on amendments which congress would accept, and that the men who favor government control of irrigation cannot afford to compromise with the advocates of state cession of lands.

Takes Issue with Richards. Mr. Maxwell disagreed with Governor Richards of Wyoming as to the success that state is having with the land secured from the government, saying that in that state, under the state regulations, land was being secured by "sprinkling" water, which control the water in practically every stream of any consequence in the state and that the same condition is true of the state of Nevada.

Toucing upon the methods to be pursued by the local branches of the National Irrigation association, he said it was the desire of the officers that such societies had been formed in Phoenix, Ariz., Los Angeles, Cal., and Denver, Colo., and that the members in these states would use every effort to convince the business men of the east that the increase of their western business depended upon the adoption of the irrigation association's plan for the development of the west. He charged the large owners of cattle and sheep in the western states with having successfully opposed previous bills in congress and said that they would do all in their power to keep settlers from the lands.

Mercer is There. Congressman Mercer was present and was called upon to express his opinion on the subject. In response he said he had paid little attention to the question, but that he had heard expressions from the friends of both government and state control and that by the time the bill was presented he thought he would have made up his mind which plan to support. General Henderson was called upon to express his opinion of the question.

STOCK YARDS GROW BIGGER

Extensive Improvements in Trackage Facilities Are Proposed.

Extensive improvements will immediately be inaugurated by the Union Stock Yards company at South Omaha which will be of special benefit to the Cudahy Packing company. The sidetrack now furnished the Cudahy Packing company has been inadequate to the demands for some time, and upon the urgent requests of officials of that company new sidings will be put in.

The new trackage will represent an outlay of approximately $10,000. The trackage for the present will be limited to two additional sidings, but other sidetracks will probably be built in a short time.

"We are glad that the stock yards company has decided to build this additional sidetrack," said an official of the Cudahy company yesterday. "It will facilitate the handling of our cars immensely in that it will give us direct rail connection with certain parts of our establishment which have been removed from trackage by a considerable distance heretofore. The stock yards company will also be benefited by the reason that we will be enabled to unload our cars more rapidly, and it will do away with the tying up of equipment."

Fought for His Life. "My father and sister both died of consumption," writes J. T. "Weatherwax" of Wyandotte, Mich., "and I was saved from the same frightful fate only by Dr. King's New Discovery. An attack of pneumonia left an obstinate cough and very severe lung trouble, which an excellent doctor could not help, but a few months' use of this wonderful medicine made me as well as ever and I gained much in weight." Infalible for coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. Trial bottles free. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00 at Kuhn & Co.

MILK IS OF FAIR QUALITY

Inspector Hutton Has Not Yet Found Evidence of Adulteration.

"The milk which is being offered for sale in Omaha is of very good quality. Within the last week I have tested samples of milk taken from the wagons of twenty-six dairies. All the milk showed 3 per cent butter fat and no trace was found of any sort of preservatives," Milk Inspector L. K. Hutton remarked. "With the approach of hot weather the temptation to doctor milk so it will stay sweet increases, but so far Omaha dairymen have not put chemicals into their milk."

Old Soldier's Experience. M. M. Austin, a civil war veteran of Winchester, Ind., writes: "My wife was sick a long time in spite of good doctor's treatment, but was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Life Pills, which worked wonders for her health." They always do. Try them. Only 25c at Kuhn & Co.'s drug store.

PARK BOARD REORGANIZES

Official Roster Remains Same as it Was Last Year.

J. H. EVANS IS RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT

North Omaha Improvement Club Appears Before Board to Agitate in Favor of a Park-Budget of Routine Business.

The Board of Park Commissioners reorganized at its meeting Thursday afternoon. No changes were made in the officers of the board, however. J. H. Evans was re-elected to the presidency and the committees will be just the same as in the past. George W. Lininger, who was recently appointed to succeed himself as member of the board, was present at the meeting for the first time in many months.

A delegation from the North Omaha Improvement club, headed by J. J. Smith, appeared before the board and requested that Fontaine park be turned into an athletic park and given over to the use of the public. It was suggested that golf links, tennis courts, polo grounds and croquet grounds be prepared. The board took no action, as the park is leased until next spring and no steps to comply with the request can be taken at present.

H. W. Barnum notified the board that it will be impossible for him to continue the work of moving a large iron bridge from Kountze park to Miller park. He contracted to move the structure for $471 and has it about half way to its new location. The work has been so expensive and he has already lost so much money that he feels that he cannot complete the contract. The board decided to have the bridge taken to its new location under the direction of the superintendent of parks.

The bridge is one that spanned the lagoon in the Court of Honor at the exposition grounds. The board has another bridge over the lagoon which it desires to have taken to Miller park, but no arrangements have been made for its removal.

FUNERAL OF GENERAL WILSON

Deceased Warrior is Remembered by Many Old-Timers in Omaha.

The funeral of the late General Thomas H. Wilson, U. S. A., retired, will take place in Washington, Sunday, interment to be in the National cemetery at Arlington.

General Wilson was one of the officers of the old army who made an enviable record during the civil war. He was graduated from the Military academy in 1853 and assigned to the Sixth Infantry. At the breaking out of the civil war he was transferred to the staff, becoming assistant commissary of subsistence with rank of captain. In that capacity he served with the Army of the Potomac and was brevetted brigadier general of volunteers after having been promoted to the position of colonel. In the reorganization of the regular army he received the rank of major and assistant commissary and later was promoted to lieutenant colonel. While holding this rank, about 1878, he was transferred to Omaha, where he became commissary of subsistence of the Department of the Platte. He remained here for several years and was then transferred to the Department of the East. He was retired under the age limit in 1896. While he was stationed in Omaha his daughter became the wife of Warren Switzer. Mr. and Mrs. Switzer were in New York at the bedside of the general at the time of his death. They will return to

CONSOLIDATION IS DENIED

Street Railway Manager Talks of Rumored Community of Incorporated Interests.

General Manager Smith of the Omaha Street Railway Company Denies All Rumors relating to the consolidation of the electric power companies of the city. Yesterday morning he said:

"The rumors which are now current are but a repetition of those which have been heard from time to time for the last ten years and have the same amount of foundation. There are a number of persons in New York who make a comfortable living by consolidating corporations. They try to secure options on several located in a community and when they have accomplished this they look around for persons with money who will invest. "Ever since the Omaha and Council Bluffs line has been operated some of these persons have tried to get options on the properties for the purpose of consolidating them. Other promoters have endeavored to interest capital in the consolidation of all corporations of the city, but so far they have failed in every particular. A short time ago some of these people attempted to renew the old propositions, but they have done nothing more than what has been done a dozen times before and there is really little probability of any realization of their wishes."

MANY DEMANDS UPON CITY

Flood of Claims Grow Out of the Smallpox Quarantine.

"We are continually bothered by people who have claims against the city which physicians have led them to believe can be collected. Families which have had smallpox come here with grocery bills contracted during their quarantine period and insist that the city should pay them. All sorts of bills of expense for the care of smallpox patients are presented here for our approval," remarked City Health Commissioner Coffman. "Doctors have no right to lead people to think that the city physician will care for patients who refuse to go to the emergency hospital. "In cases of diphtheria and scarlet fever the city is not asked to pay the grocery bills during the period of quarantine. It is unreasonable to expect the health department to provide for patients who employ their family physician and remain at home while they are sick."

RUSHING THE CAN BUSINESS

Proposed Increase in Cudahy Establishments Adds to Demand for Labor.

The proposed increase in the capacity of the can factory at the Cudahy packing house in South Omaha is interesting the machinists of Omaha, who are preparing to submit figures for the construction of the machinery for the new plant, which will be added to the one at present in operation. The capacity of the can factory at this time is 125,000 cans each day, and the product of the factory is consumed in the packing houses of the company in the immediate vicinity. The company now proposes to manufacture at South Omaha the cans to be used by its houses in South Omaha, Sioux City, Kansas City, Milwaukee and Los Angeles. The new plant will have a capacity of 200,000 cans per day and will increase the number of persons employed in this department over 100 per cent.

LAUNDRY BRAND STARTS IT

Just Because He Made Those Pencils Marks There is Trouble.

WORSE THAN HANDWRITING ON THE WALL

Name on a Young Woman's Cup Plunges into Combat Her "Steady Company" and Another Admirer.

One evening three months ago George Van Cleve, while chatting with a young woman at a club hop, idly scribbled his last name upon her cuff.

This seems like a very trivial incident, yet it set in motion a train of circumstances which culminated yesterday in a rough and tumble fight, in the arrest of Van Cleve and his erstwhile friend, R. H. Lester, in their being booked for a hearing in the police court and in the possibility of the young woman being called upon to testify in a very awkward case.

All would have been well if she had taken the pains to erase that name from her cuff, but this she neglected. In any event, how could she foresee that the laundry people would put that name "Van Cleve" upon every article of her apparel? But that was what they did. There was no use telling the man who drove the laundry wagon that "Van Cleve" was her name. It stared at her twice a day, from every item of her wash goods wardrobe.

Young Woman is Embarrassed.

The situation was especially embarrassing because Van Cleve, the man, had never been anything to her but a friend, and scarcely that. Mr. R. H. Lester being her steady company.

The possibility of Mr. Lester ever knowing of her family situation seemed to her a very remote possibility. Of course, if they were ever married she could explain it to him, but otherwise it would be unnecessary. Here, again, the fates conspired against her.

She is one of those young women bowlers. Thursday night she and Mr. Lester and another young couple went down to a Park street alley to break a few frames, and for the sake of comfort and freedom of movement she removed her cuffs and collar and placed them, with her hat, in the place provided for such things behind the screen.

Of course Mr. Lester saw the telltale marks and, of course, he placed a very uncompromising construction upon them. He and the young woman quarreled and yesterday morning, when he overtook Van Cleve on the Tenth street viaduct, bitter words were followed by fierce blows.

At 10 o'clock this morning they will be required to answer to a charge of disturbing the peace by fighting, and they may learn the whole ridiculous truth concerning the marks on the laundry.

How to Avoid Trouble.

Now is the time to provide yourself and family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over, and if procured now may save you a trip to town in the night or in your busiest season. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful medicine in use for bowel complaints, both for children and adults. No family can afford to be without it. For sale by all druggists.

Another fellow got some other varnish; it was so thick it would not spread. He went back and kicked. "Put turpentine in it," they said. He did. Still it wouldn't work.
