

PUTTING THE HOUSE IN ORDER

A Time that Tests the Energy and Patience of Housekeepers.

SEASONABLE TIPS ON A HOME TOPIC

Annual Cleaning Time and What It Entails—Dress Reform—Come Time to Do It—The Curtain Problem.

The good word for house cleaning is—make haste slowly. Better one clean room a day and comfort therewith than an epidemic of brooms, buckets, scrubbing brushes, sponges and everybody's temper on edge.

A woman needs a distinctive costume for house cleaning even more than for presentation at court. Wear undergarments, with a short flannel petticoat, sewed to a loose, low-necked waist with straps across the shoulders and over that a sweater and overall.

than in skirts, without feeling half so fagged out.

A house can be cleaned with nothing more than soap, water and good will. But the cleaning will be easier if these are supplemented with borax, washing soda, ammonia, scouring soap, scouring sand, powdered whiting, powdered pumice stone, alcohol, turpentine, benzine and kerosene.

Steel wool, otherwise fine steel shavings, which may be bought at paint shops, has many uses where there is hardwood to look after. For too rubbing pad get a cube of hardwood, six inches wide, nine inches long and at least five inches deep.

For the frames get clean, stout deals, one by two inch bolts four inches apart for two feet from each end. Have also some half-inch wooden pegs long enough to go through two of the deals at once.

MODERN IDEA OF CULTIVATION

Nature of Soil and Climatic Conditions Are Important Factors.

EXPERIMENTS FAVOR SHALLOW CULTURE

Conservation of Moisture, the Destruction of Weeds and Aeration of the Soil the Three-Fold Purpose of the Cultivator.

The amount and distribution of the rainfall throughout the corn belt is so sufficient to carry the corn crop through the average season. Indeed, it is the comparatively light rainfall, together with a certain amount of sunshine and a given temperature, that creates this, the great corn belt in the world.

The amount and distribution of the rainfall throughout the corn belt is so sufficient to carry the corn crop through the average season. Indeed, it is the comparatively light rainfall, together with a certain amount of sunshine and a given temperature, that creates this, the great corn belt in the world.

When the modern idea concerning the corn cultivator, or corn plow, as it is more correctly called, attributes to the implement a threefold purpose, namely, the conservation of moisture, the destruction of weeds and the aeration of the soil, concerning the first factor mentioned, that of conserving moisture, there is no longer any dispute as to the great value of cultivation in this respect.

But there is less controversy over the importance of frequent cultivation than there is on the subject of depth to which corn should be plowed. In the west, here in Iowa, the custom is to plow to a depth of four or five inches, whereas in the east, where the climatic conditions are very important factors.

For a morning nip a bottle of Cook's Imperial Extra Dry Champagne is the thing. It will make a winner of you.

The west, like all maturing countries, has grown away from its childish habit of horseplay and its delight in violence; eastern people are often surprised to find that they can, with perfect safety, walk the streets of these towns at any hour of the night.

There is no place in the United States where a woman is safer than in a western mining camp. When one considers in connection with this fact the openness and the commonness of vice, one sees the contradictions of the civilization of this interesting section of the globe.

Great frankness, contempt for anything underhanded or deceitful, independence of thought and action, have always been the most notable characteristics of western people and civilization, and are still the keynote to its original development.

Good judges of live stock are a scarce article and are in constant demand, says the Chicago Inter-Ocean. The prosperity of the firms engaged in the tremendous live stock business of the country depends almost absolutely upon the ability of their buyers to select the best animals.

The showing of Illinois at the December contests was considered most remarkable by the professional judges employed at the show. Eight universities, whose representatives aggregated fifty-one men, entered the contest and out of the $1,135 offered as prizes Illinois won $48.50, which is three times as much as all the other institutions combined.

Competitors: University of Illinois $48.50; University of Wisconsin $25.00; Ontario Agricultural College $15.00; University of Iowa $15.00; University of Indiana $15.00; University of North Dakota $10.00; University of Michigan $10.00; University of Missouri $10.00.

Illinois secured first place in eight out of the twelve events. Worthen of the Illinois team won the distinction of two perfects in cattle judging, an unusual occurrence. The judges who examined the students' work were twelve of the most prominent stockmen in America, and as none of the competing colleges was known to them favoritism was impossible.

The students who were responsible for the State university winning the trophy are: George M. Richardson, Williamsville, Ill.; George R. Camp, Harrisonville, Ill.; E. T. Higgins, Payson, Ill.; E. J. Raht, Mendota, Ill.; E. L. Wurthen, Waverly, Ill.; Mr. Wurthen, whose individual record was the best made at the meet, is a sophomore and at the time of the contest had received less than six months' training in stock judging work.

As soon as a student has a fixed idea of the ideal type the score card is dispensed with and all judging is thereafter done by comparison, four or five animals being compared at one time, their merits and defects being judged on a basis of 100 points for the ideal conformation. In this work a printed form, divided into four parts, is used.

The interest in education is increasing rapidly, as the mental superiority of the educated man, and his better fitness for his work, gradually and quietly but persistently wins its way to the hearts of the general public, and liberal endowment by all the states of universities and technical schools has done much to quicken the intellectual life.

These conditions are probably transitional. Twenty years more and the picturesque and dramatic features of the west will have sobered into prosaic and utilitarian characteristics.

A Type of Western Life

Observations in the Black Hills

There is no tendency to flaunt vice; no inclination whatever to attempt to lure men or boys into gambling houses.

The west, like all maturing countries, has grown away from its childish habit of horseplay and its delight in violence; eastern people are often surprised to find that they can, with perfect safety, walk the streets of these towns at any hour of the night.

The evidence of the transitional state of the west, and therefore of its culture, is its crudeness, its immaturity and childishness, and all the inconsistencies that mark its course.
