G. West and a peace at Grand Island. Owing to the fact that the present site is at the extreme east end of the buniness portion of the city. those in the central and western portions. excepting one or two alleged to be interested financially in the present site, have been much opposed to having the postoffice remain where it is and bence a bitter struggle has been on. W. R. Michael of Washingion, who owns some property in the ensiern portion, has been working untiringly in favor of the present site.

The building new occupied by the postoffice is the property of the Grand Army of the Republic post. It is mortgaged and the post members have also left pothing undone to retain the rental. However, the appearances, locally, are that the fight is by no means ended, and it has been made more bitter by the threat that the old soldiers would carry the matter to the polls this fall if they did not get the lease.
