Marie Laurent, Idolized Actress, Impoverishes Herself for the Needy

(Copyright, 1901, by Press Publishing Co.) PARIS, June 8.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Adeline Patti returned to Paris to sing at Marie Laurent's benefit at the Grand Opera last Thursday. It was the most superb affair of its kind remembered here.

Marie Laurent has long been an idolized actress, because of her talent, and, especially because of her conduct during the Franco-Prussian war and the siege of Paris. She was the heroine of the "Fleur de la Patrie" and "The Nightingale of France."

Patti also telegraphed to Jean de Lusky, at Warsaw, that since he has been so lucky at the races, she had captured the imperial prize. He had captured two other big prizes. The four horses were bred on the De Reszke estate, near Warsaw.

IS HER MOTHER'S PRISONER

Mlle. Monnier Rescued After Twenty-Five Years' Detention

PARIS, June 8.—The sensation of the week has been the arrest of Madame Monnier, a rich, miserly landowner of the neighborhood of Poitiers, and her son, a former sub-prefect of the Department of Vienne and a leader of Poitiers society, on the charge of incarcerating Mlle. Blanche Monnier, daughter of Mme. Monnier, for twenty-five years in a room of Mme. Monnier's house.

The police were anonymously notified of the woman's detention, entered the house and found Mlle. Monnier shut up in a room, in darkness, lying on a mattress, stark naked, and so emaciated that she appeared to be a living skeleton. The room was covered with filth, bones, refuse, food, worms, rats and half-kinds of vermin.

KING DELIGHTS MR. BLISS

Ex-Secretary Tells What a Great Compliment Edward Pays the Americans

(Copyright, 1901, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, June 8.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Ex-Secretary Bliss is staying at Charlizes with his daughter. They return today on the St. Paul. He said to the World correspondent that he greatly regretted going back, but his arrangements admitted of no alteration. He said he had enjoyed his stay immensely. He was especially pleased by the reception at Windsor, saying: "Every sort of formality was dispensed with by the king and queen, who received us just as any private friends would. This seems natural enough to us Americans, but I can understand what a compliment it is from the point of view of monarchical people. We appreciate it deeply. The queen was charming, while the king moved about among us with a kindly welcoming word for all."

John T. Terry was especially welcomed by the king, who formed his acquaintance at a compliment it is from the point of view of monarchical people. We appreciate it deeply. The queen was charming, while the king moved about among us with a kindly welcoming word for all.

General Russell A. Alger is at Clarendon, where Coleman Drayton, W. D. Slowe, W. C. Whittier, Jr., Mr. Terry and Isidor Strauss are also staying. He leaves shortly for London on his boat, as he has been ordered to take the cure. Most of the other New York millionaires will leave London next week for different parts of the continent.

Senator Lodge is expected soon in London and it is believed his visit has a direct bearing on the resumed negotiations between Washington and the British government over a Nicaraguan canal. He would act as consultant with the American ambassador, coming in full possession of Secretary Hay's views of the latest aspect of the controversy.

An official dog-catcher threw his net over the canine pet. Instantly the women fell upon the poor fellow and kicked, scratched and pounded him, while the dog attacked the netter limbs. The affray attracted an amused crowd, which called out jesting words of three to one on the women, until a policeman ended the fight by taking the disheveled party to the commissariat. It will be settled in court next week.

Grand Chief F. P. Sargent Assures the Delegates at Toronto that His Association Will Give Every Assistance Possible

TORONTO, Ont., June 8.—The International Association of Machinists today adopted a resolution to the effect that "after due consideration we accept the challenge of the National Metal Trades Association and in accepting this declaration of war we cheerfully pick up the gauntlet and hurl back defiance. We never will accept any modification of our demands or resume labor until the cause for which we struggle is triumphant and a shorter workday is an accomplished fact."

President O'Connell claims that the international association did all it could to get a satisfactory adjustment by pacific measures, offering to accept any decision reached by arbitration that would cover the question nationally, but he says the employers refuse every effort of conciliation.

F. P. Sargent, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, assured the delegates that his order will assist them by all means in its power.

TO REDUCE MAN'S INTERIOR

Patient Professor Advances Cutting Out a Few of the Human Tubulin System

(Copyright, 1901, by Press Publishing Co.) PARIS, June 8.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Prof. Metchnikoff of the Pasteur institute delivered a sensational lecture upon some recent operations in a Paris hospital, in which he asserted that the large intestine is not only entirely useless, but absolutely harmful. He said that observation had demonstrated that not less than forty-five species of dangerous microbes were there domiciled and that to most of our diseases were due. Besides, he said, the small intestine was much too long, a yard and a half being amply sufficient, as was proved in cases where, after trials, patients had been reduced to that allowance without discomfort thereafter. Lately, said the lecturer, Dr. Ruggi, the celebrated Italian surgeon, was compelled to open an 8-year-old boy's large intestine, removing long pieces of the intestine, and the child, who was three years and a half were subtracted, and today the child was growing robustly. A severed intestine can be spliced easily. Prof. Metchnikoff also cited the case of a woman recently deprived of her stomach by Dr. Pozzi and now healthy and growing fat.

HE HAS LAND IN NEBRASKA

Indian Chief Whiteboy Finds Balm for Wounded Pride and Affection

(Copyright, 1901, by Press Publishing Co.) ST. PAUL, Minn., June 8.—A La Crosse (Wis.) special says: Whiteboy, an Indian chief, who mysteriously disappeared from this place some days ago and who was feared to have been foully dealt with, has turned up in Nebraska, where he has allied himself to a large ranch, making him a wealthy resident. There is a bitter feud between Chief Whiteboy and the Waukon brothers of the same tribe, enlivened recently by a love romance, culminating in the abduction of the chief's pretty daughter by one of the Waukons, who wanted to take her to Chicago. The chief caught the pair here and took the girl away from her lover by force, and the latter swore vengeance at that time. They had subsequent trouble over ponies. Years ago when the United States settled with some of the Indians in Nebraska Whiteboy's parents took a large tract of land in Nebraska, where they have lived and grown wealthy. They have both died recently and Whiteboy wished to acquire his new property unknown to his enemies, to whom his added power is a bitter pill. The ranch is worth thousands of dollars.

NO CHANCE TO JUMP CLAIMS

Judge Scott Defends Accuracy and Fairness of International Boundary Resurvey

(Copyright, 1901, by Press Publishing Co.) WHATCOM, Wash., June 8.—Elmer Scott, ex-chief justice of the Washington supreme court, who is heavily interested in the Mount Baker mining district and who started the agitation which resulted in both the American and Canadian governments sending commissions to resurvey and relocate the international boundary line on the western slope of the Cascade mountains, was today shown the dispatch relative to claim-jumping in that district, also one from Ottawa denying that the survey could have been completed by this time. He said: "I went into the district with the American party, which in reality consists of two parties, one from the geodetic survey and the other from the geological department. They commenced working on May 25, and on that date the following night perfect observations were obtained which enabled the party to locate all of the old remaining marks. The monument popularly supposed to designate the line was discovered to have been an observation post, the line really passing some 4,000 feet south. The only claims affected by this discovery were the Golden Star and Golden Chariot groups. "When the question was first raised as to where the line runs all the officers of the claims taken under American laws relocated them under the laws of Canada, and absolutely no chance for claim-jumping."

RAIN AND HAIL PARTLY RESPONSIBLE

Accompany the Tornado, but Spread Over Broader Area—Lightning Strikes a Carpenter Dead at Blackwell

WICHITA, Kan., June 8.—The most disastrous storm which has visited Oklahoma prevailed in Kay county last night. A tornado struck Billings, Eddy and Tonkawa, and its trail covered a strip of country ten miles wide and thirty miles long, destroying homes and crops. The financial loss will exceed $100,000.

At Eddy three persons were killed. They were: MRS. MAUDE M'GATHEY, LOUIS M'GATHEY, ROBERT M'GATHEY.

Injured: Charles Goldsmith, skull fractured. John McElrain, leg broken. Hugh Prather, nose broken. Jud McWilliams, head crushed. Howard Hamagan, head badly crushed. Ruby Higginbotham, face crushed and internal injuries. A. D. Evans, leg broken.

It was reported that two persons were killed at Billings, but this cannot be verified.

GUTHRIE, Okla., June 8.—A telephone message from Billings states that there were no casualties at that place during the progress of the storm of last night and not a house was moved. All reports of loss of life or property in that location were without foundation.

Farms Near Kansas Line

PERRY, Okla., June 8.—The storm which passed over eastern Oklahoma last night was one of the most severe since the opening of the strip. A feature of the storm was the extent of the territory covered. Sweeping down from the Kansas state line and covering about fifty miles in width, the rain, wind and hail swept over the country as far south as mid Oklahoma. The rain simply fell in torrents from early evening until midnight. The fury of the storm centered in a tornado at about 6:30 p. m., which formed at a point near the Kansas state line and just on the county lines of Kay and Grant, Oklahoma. It took a southerly course and was most disastrous on a belt of ten miles square in eastern Kay county. The little town of Eddy was struck and of the twelve or fifteen buildings in the place all were leveled to the ground except the railroad station and elevator. Flying lumber was scattered for miles. The people of the town sought places of safety early. One unknown man was killed and several persons slightly injured by flying debris.

The track of the tornado between this point and Tonkawa, a distance of about eight miles, was laid waste. Five farm houses, with barns and outbuildings, were blown away, but the occupants all escaped without injury. Fine fields of wheat in the midst of harvest were laid waste. The tallness of the towers of a territorial force upon Tonkawa. Thirty dwellings and business houses were scattered like so much loose lumber. The citizens of the town had been watching the advance of the cyclone and had sought shelter in caves and cellars. No fatalities are reported at this point and only a few persons received scratches, which is almost miraculous, considering the devastation.

A few miles from this point the cyclone seemed to go up in the air and the country below did not suffer much from the storm, except by way of a stiff wind, with hail in spots, which did some damage to fruit and the wheat crop.

At Blackwell, a few miles north of Tonkawa, F. H. Crawford, a carpenter, who was working on a house, was struck by lightning during the storm and instantly killed.

Learning of his capture today fifty infuriated men crossed the river, intending to lynch him. News of their coming caused the authorities at Mount Carmel to abruptly stop his preliminary hearing and he was hurriedly sent to Princeton under guard of the sheriff and a posse. Extra precautions have been made to protect the prisoner from further attempts at lynching.
