WASHINGTON, June 8.—The United States is surpassed only by Great Brita n in the matter of Japanese imports of machinery, locomotives and other engines, according to a communication received at the Stat department from United States Consul General Bellows at Yokohama. Great Britain, he says, continues to receive more than half the money sent out of Japan for these manufactures, while the United States received a little more than one-fourth last year. The total amount invested in this lass of manufactures by the Japanese last rear was $5.564.576, about one-fifth being for locomotive engines. The total mileage of Japanese railway lines equal 7,313 miles, but it has been estimated, says Consul Bellows, that 7,000 miles of railroad would not be sufficient for the needs of the empire.

A Japanese expert who has la ely traveled n the leading countries of the world to study their railroad construction and management is reported to have said that the United States surpasses all other countries in traveling equipment, except with regard to the locomotives, which he objected to because of their greater consumption of America, says Consul General Bellows, furnishes more than two-thirds of the rails used in Japan, having surpassed in low prices and prompt delivery both England and Germany, which countries formerly controlled this trade.

They were the ruling spirits in three great departments of life in England's metropolis, the West End, the City and the race track. department today telegraphed the collector There was a graceful departure from the Chamber of Commerce representatives at Windsor. It read:

"Their malesties, the king and queen, received this afternoon several representatives of the Chamber of Commerce of New majesties." The Circular omitted the usual intimation that an honor was conferred upon the visitors by the royal reception. With Englishmen the case is altered. "Lord Brassey," the Circular continued had the honor of being presented to their majesties." There were three notable absentees from him to do so, either in London or at Clive-Choate's reception for the visitors Tuesday night.

The duke of Marlborough, though in Lonion, was not among the company on that occasion, though several peers having no connection with America or its dollars, were glad to honor the American visitors. Mr. Croker's absence was probably attributable to other reasons. He has never been on the ambassador's visiting list, never finding it necessary or desirable to have any communication with the embassy on his visits to this side. No royalty has ever been sought after with such eagerness as J. Pierpont Morgan social relaxations. He dined with Lord Rothschild Monday, and as a matter of duty religiously attended all entertainments for the New York Chamber of Commerce,

Andrew Carnegie confined himself altogether to the Chamber of Commerce hospitalities during the week and taking a considerable section of the delegation back with him to Skibo castle for a short visit.
