

CHILD IS FATALLY BURNED

Eight-Year-Old Hilda Jacobson Victim of Coal Oil.

SHE POURS IT ON COOK STOVE FIRE

Usual Distressing Results of Such Experiments Exploded Burns Her from Head to Foot.

Eight-year-old Hilda Jacobson was fatally burned by an explosion of coal oil which she poured on the cook stove fire at the home of her parents, 2113 Franklin street, at 2:45 yesterday afternoon. It was thought early this morning she could not live until daylight.

The little girl, her mother and a two-week-old baby were alone. The mother told Hilda to start a fire in the stove and tried to do so with the oil. An explosion resulted, which burned the girl from head to foot and set fire to the house. She was taken to a neighbor's home and attended by Dr. Weir and Dr. McClanahan, who said she could not live. Mrs. Jacobson was prostrated by the shock and is seriously ill.

The fire department extinguished the blaze, with a loss of $29 to the house and contents.

SALVATION ARMY'S PICNIC

Nearly Two Hundred Children Have a Delightful Day at Hanscom Park.

Nearly 200 children enjoyed the picnic given by the Salvation army at Hanscom park yesterday. Nothing occurred to mar the day except a little shower and an accident to one of the eight wagons carrying the children. At Nineteenth and Farnam streets a wheel ran off the vehicle and spilled the children on the pavement. Fortunately no one was hurt and the children were squeezed into the other wagon. The children met at the Salvation Army hall on Davenport street, where the wagons were waiting. At the appointed hour they moved in ceremonial procession with music and banners, through the principal downtown business sections and out Farnam on Twenty-sixth, where they crossed to Leavenworth and passed on to Thirty-second street, down which they moved to Hanscom park. At 11 o'clock luncheon was served for them, after which games and a hand concert consumed the time until 3:30, when luncheon was served again. The closing event was a distribution of prizes and the return in procession to the city.

Captain Glasgow and Captain Day had charge of the boys at the park and Captain Cunningham and Walker looked after the girls. Ensign Harrington and Captain Pennell had charge of the commissary equipment, which was ample and appetizing. For days the young women of the local corps have stood upon the front corners with small contribution boxes strapped at the top of standards asking for contributions for the poor children's picnic and met with quite a generous response from the public.

Brigadier James Toft has issued a card on behalf of the Salvation army, thanking the citizens for their generous contributions and the mayor, the park commissioners, the principals of the schools and the Board of Education for special favors. He also announced that arrangements have almost been completed for the free-air camp and it is hoped to have the first relay of ten families comfortably fitted up by June 25.

EACH MAN HAS HIS NIGHT

Auditorium Project Will Be Promoted by Concerts Dedicated to Various Organizations.

The coming week, the third of the Omaha musical festival, promises to be one of the most interesting. Two women's souvenir matinees are announced, one for Wednesday and one for Thursday, and four fraternal organizations will each have a night at the concert. The fraternal Union of America has Tuesday night, the Bankers Union, Wednesday night, the Red Men Saturday night.

Arrangements were completed at the Elks' meeting on Friday evening for a special program, which was fully arranged yesterday with Prof. Bellstedt, an Elk of several years membership in Cincinnati. The special feature of the evening will be the rendering of the Omaha Elks' march, composed by Prof. Emil Reichard, the veteran bandmaster of the Twenty-second infantry and one of the Omaha lodge. Bellstedt and Reichard met Friday evening for the first time and the former highly complimented the latter upon the excellence of his composition. Additional interest will be added to the evening by the attendance of a large number of Council Bluffs Elks.

Tomorrow night will be governor's night, on which occasion Governor E. P. Savage.

Banker's Union of the World Grand Lodge Meeting.

The Grand Lodge of the Bankers Union of the World will be organized in Myrtle hall, Continental building, corner Fifteenth and Douglas streets, Omaha, Wednesday, June 13. The first session will be held at 11 o'clock a. m. Major Moore will welcome the delegates to the best city in the west and Judge E. P. Holmes of Lincoln will respond.

Delegates and visitors will be present from every lodge in the state. All members of the order will be cordially welcomed to the meetings and many prominent men and women will be present from all over Nebraska. A ride over the city in the afternoon for all members of the Bankers Union, and a banquet later at the Millard hotel constitute a part of the entertainment provided. It will be "Bankers Union Night" at the Bellstedt concert. Admission, 25 cents, including reserved seat, but tickets must be purchased Monday at the Bankers' Union office, 205 to 211 Farnam street. Dr. E. C. Spinney, supreme president, will use about ten minutes in explaining the plans of the Bankers Union—the best on earth. The Bellstedt band will play its sweetest music, including the B. U. W. ode, and the entertainment will be enjoyed by thousands.

The Bankers Union is the great fraternal organization in Nebraska, having more members in this state than any other Nebraska association, and June 12 will be a great day with them. All Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs members are expected to come out and stay all day, to become acquainted with their brothers and sisters from other places and to assist in making everything as pleasant as possible. The greatest satisfaction will be to see the B. U. W. attempts to always a success.

"Rah-rah-rah—Where are we?"

"Don't you see?"

CLOSE ON TRACK OF BRUTE

Police Trail Mary Marks' Assailant as Far as the Irvington Bridge.

The brutal assault of little Mary Marks has been traced as far as the Irvington bridge, twelve miles northwest of Omaha, and there he and his big dropped out of sight as completely as if the earth had swallowed them. The fellow was seen to cross the bridge an hour after the assault occurred, but no further trace was found.

Shaw, Power and Deputy Flynn, who spent all of Saturday scouring the northwestern part of the county, returned last night from their trip with but little to show for their exertions. They trailed the buggy from the place where the assault occurred to the bridge and along this route found many people who had seen the fellow.

An important witness was found in a girl, who was at the Irvington grocery store when the fellow crossed the bridge. She described him and the rig minutely, and as far as known at the present time was the last person to see him in the buggy. She is not positive whether he turned north on the Bennington road or south on the Military road. The sheriff and deputy drove up the Bennington road as far as the post-office and blacksmith shop, where they found that he had not passed there. The blacksmith said it would have been impossible for the fellow to have come that way without being seen. The officers then followed the Military road to Elk City, twenty-two miles from Omaha, without finding a clue. Every clump of trees or bushes, which might afford shelter for a horse and buggy was searched and inquiries made at all farmhouses.

The search has not been abandoned and the hope is still strong that the fellow will be speedily captured. A description has been sent to every town and village within the radius of fifty miles and it is not thought possible that he can escape. Many have the opinion that the fellow returned to Omaha at night after abandoning his rig. A clue which points in this direction is in the hands of police detectives, who are investigating it. The police are making a thorough search of the city for persons answering the description.

A suspect giving the name of John Colony was arrested at an early hour yesterday morning at Forty-second and Hamilton streets by Sergeant Hudson and Patrolman Nelson. He talked with the description in nearly every detail, but was not the one wanted. As the girl failed to identify him he was released. No other arrests have been made.

All of those who have seen little Mary's assailant agree upon this description of him: A man a trifle above medium height, perhaps five feet eleven inches in stature, weight 150 pounds, between 25 and 28 years of age, brown hair, small brown mustache, stubble of beard on his face evidently several days old. He wore a soft black hat, blue diamond shirt, black and white-striped trousers and medium heavy black shoes. He had on neither coat nor vest, but his coat, the little girl says, lay beside him on the seat of the buggy. He was driving a little black pony in very poor condition that carried its head low. Both vehicle and harness were old and much the worse for wear. The former was a top buggy, the top of which had been broken from the box and wired in place. The left hind wheel was dished. In the box of the buggy was a jelly pail with some food in it, and a dinner bucket. When last seen the top of the vehicle was up and the curtains drawn.

Brigadier James Toft has issued a card on behalf of the Salvation army, thanking the citizens for their generous contributions and the mayor, the park commissioners, the principals of the schools and the Board of Education for special favors. He also announced that arrangements have almost been completed for the free-air camp and it is hoped to have the first relay of ten families comfortably fitted up by June 25.

NEW FOUNTAIN DEDICATED

Fuller Pharmacy Receives Its Friends at Opening of Twentieth Century Marvel.

There was no brighter place in Omaha last night than the Fuller pharmacy, at the corner of Fourteenth and Douglas streets. The store was illuminated with scores of electric light, which shone from among the palms and cut flowers that were backed against the walls and hid all merchandise from sight.

The occasion was the formal opening of the new twentieth century soda fountain which has been installed by the Fuller company. The fountain is a handsome affair of rosewood and oyster and is equipped with all the latest improvements. Instead of having cans from which the syrups are drawn through faucets, it is equipped with glass bottles which sit out in plain view of patrons and are free from the refuse which is sometimes allowed to accumulate in the old-fashioned fountain.

The store had the appearance of a drawing room, decorated for a society affair. All the attendants were dressed in spotless white and during the entire evening an orchestra played. For more than three hours the store was crowded with hand-somely-gowned women. Above the fountain was a large placard bearing the inscription, "Ask for any drink you want. We mix them all." The fountain was laden with flowers and the marble counters surrounding it were heaped high with all the fruits necessary to the preparation of drinks offered by up-to-date caterers.

CHILDREN AND OLD FOLKS

They Especially Enjoy the Bellstedt Concert of Tuesday Afternoon.

The Bellstedt concert yesterday afternoon was given over to children and old folks. The opening number was "Young America" and then came "Listen to the Mocking Bird" and other old-time favorites. A chorus of 800 school children, under the direction of Miss Fannie Arnold, sang "Decoration Hymn" to the accompaniment of the entire band. Following a piccolo solo, "Birdie" in the "Blue Bird" by Emile Chevre, the entire band played a medley of popular songs, including "Goo-Goo Eyes," and a number of other popular selections, which found favor with the youngsters.

The children's chorus sang "America" and "Marching Through Georgia." The program closed with the old-time favorite, "Friendly Greeting."

The band gave a ragtime concert last night. Every alternate number was rag time and the audience was so enthusiastic that twenty numbers in all were played. The concert Monday evening will make a brief address and the opening hour has been made earlier than the concert was held at the usual time.

FARMERS HAVE THE MONEY

Able to Discharge Their Debts and Pay for Permanent Improvements.

Alfred B. Christian of York was in the city yesterday on business. In conversing concerning conditions in his home county, Mr. Christian said he never saw a finer outlook for crops than that at present. "The farmers in York county," said Mr. Christian, "are paying off from $25,000 to $40,000 a month more than they are borrowing and are spending fully $100,000 a month in making permanent improvements on their farms. What is true of York county is also true of all the large counties around us."

SHAW ENDORSES ALLISON

Governor of Iowa Urges Him to Run for President.

"Let Iowa and the Nation Rally to You as Never Before," He Telegraphs. "Do Not Say No."

MORE THAN GLAD TO AID HIM

DES MOINES, Ia., June 15.—Governor Shaw, whose name has frequently been mentioned in connection with the republican nomination for president in 1904, tonight took notice of recent suggestions that Senator Allison be a candidate by sending the following telegram:

DES MOINES, June 15.—W. B. Allison, Washington: I notice with much satisfaction that you are a candidate for the presidency. I hope you will encourage its use. I will be more than glad to aid to the best of my ability. Let Iowa and the nation rally to you as never before. Do not say no. L. M. SHAW.
