Jebbers Find it Necessary to Figure on Much Higher Prices.

HOUSES ARE WELL STOCKED

Representative of a New York Prin House Makes Explanation of the Skyward Tendency

Omaha jobbers find themselves in good shape for the advance, as their stocks are rather larger at this time of the year on the staple articles than usual. This result was brought about by the heavy sales of last spring, which drew so heavily upon their stocks that they found it necessary to lay in a new supply later in the season and as the goods were staple and the prices low they purchased heavily.

C. L. Wilson of New York, representing the Arnold Print company, is in the city and discussed the causes of the advance freely. He said:

"The principal cause of the advance is the price of raw cotton. Every manager of mills in the country expected to see the price of cotton go down; 5-cent cotton was prophesied, and sales were being made on that basis. When the mills started to buy they found that they would be compelled to pay on an average of 8 cents a pound for stock, so prices had to advance. At the same time the export trade of the country increased. During the state of war in China that country imported practically no American cotton mills had previously done a large business in China, and when the war paralyzed the trade they found themselves with large stocks on hand intended for that country. This they sold in this country at lower prices, the increased supply tending to lower prices. Now the war is over the mills find that China is not only calling for its usual amount of goods, but is anxious to buy in larger quantities to make up for the dearth business during the war.

But probably one of the prime causes to the combination recently effected covering country. When the price of cotton goods was high a short time ago every mill in the country, and especially those in the south, ran full time, piling up a surplus of manufactured goods. The milis were operated are appropriate. The regulation box fronts night and day, with the result that more extend well under the arms to meet the goods were made than could be sold.

Finally the manufacturers got together and the first thing they did was to limit the working hours of the mills. All night work

Today it is about 4% cents. Other goods have advanced, but not at so large a rate. From present conditions dealers believe the advance is permanent, or that it will prevail until there is a reduction in the price of raw cotton."
