

BEE'S VACATION CONTEST

Remarkably Liberal Offer Causes Favorable Comment Everywhere.

STILL ROOM FOR OTHERS TO ENTER

Sunday's Mail, Which Will Be Opened This Morning, May Add Much to the Status of the Contest.

Yesterday being Sunday there is no change to announce this morning in the standing of the various candidates for the first summer vacation offered by The Bee to young women who earn their own livings.

Despite the fact that no votes were recorded Sunday the clerks in The Bee's business office being off duty and at church, it is safe to guess that the candidates and their friends were not idle.

Interest is increasing. Now that The Bee's remarkably liberal offer is becoming more generally understood interest in the contest is increasing and some really spirited work will be done before the end is reached.

South Omaha News

There will be a meeting of the Board of Education tonight. Regular business will be transacted and in case the examining board makes a report seventeen teachers will be elected.

Success is Assured. In connection with the rules governing the contest The Bee also publishes from day to day explicit information concerning the twelve trips which are offered.

The Bee takes off its hat in respect to the young woman who is independent and industrious enough to earn her own way in the world and it is a source of genuine gratification to the management to be able to offer a summer outing for twelve representatives of this highly commendable class.

Watch the papers closely, for each day is likely to bring forth announcements of interest.

KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Modern science has discovered that dandruff is caused by a germ that digs up the scalp in scales, as it burrows down to the roots of the hair, where it destroys the hair's vitality, causing falling hair, and, ultimately, baldness.

Without dandruff hair grows luxuriantly. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."

Democratic Discard.

There is an interesting fight on among local democrats in regard to the nomination for county commissioner.

Another democrat who is prominent in Jacksonian circles is that if Hector secured the nomination for the third term he proposed supporting the republican nominee.

Hammond Reopening.

Again there are rumors of the reopening of the Hammond packing house. What lends color to these rumors is the fact that the Union Stock Yards company has refused to permit the Omaha Packing company to lease the now idle Hammond plant.

It is understood that the Omaha people wanted to enter into a lease for the Hammond property and make their own repairs. This proposition was, it is asserted, turned down by the management of the stock yards.

Now G. R. Hammond, jr., proposes to open the house on or about October 1. The repairs necessary to put the plant in good shape will cost, it is estimated, $150,000.

Of this sum, the reporter says, the stock yards will subscribe $100,000.

Tax Commissioner Carley.

J. C. Carley has, as was noted yesterday, been appointed tax commissioner by the council to succeed James J. Fitzgerald.

The appointment of Carley will come up before Judge Baker on Thursday of this week.

Mr. Carley will, however, finish up the work of Mr. Fitzgerald as a member of the Board of Review and hold the office until there is a decision of the court in case the council issues an order permanently suspending Mr. Fitzgerald.

It was stated yesterday that Mr. Carley was eminently fitted for the position, inasmuch as he held a responsible position with the Hammond Packing company for a number of years and is therefore conversant with the value of corporation property here.

Street Fair Excursions. Managers of the Street Fair association are arranging for a series of excursions from near-by cities about the middle of next week.

Electricians will commence wiring the streets today for the electrical display. Business men are already placing their stores in shape and it is expected that by the end of next week a large number of booths and the two arches will be placed in position.

Quo Warranto Cases Today. The proceedings brought in the court by John C. Troutan, engineer at the United States postoffice, some time ago to stop W. B. Vansant and Ed Johnson from their positions as councilmen from the Sixth and Fifth wards, respectively, will come up in the district court today.

One week from today the city council will meet the annual levy. The police had an easy time of it last night as only three vagrants were arrested.

OFF COME THEIR HATS

COMPARATIVELY FEW FAIL TO PAY HEED

Resolutions Adopted by Omelal Board of Dr. Hirst's Church Meet with General Approval—May Become Popular.

At the Sunday morning service in the pretentious First Methodist church the curtain was effectively rung down upon the lofty Parisian pattern hat, whose towering folds and mass of wavy and abstruse construction are so well calculated to afford seclusion from observation to those who want to sleep.

It was at this service that the new rule established by the executive board of the church requesting women to remove their hats was inaugurated with a measure of success that is gratifying to the church authorities.

No sermon and gaudy old aristocrat whose ear is not attuned to the words and does not respond to the force and eloquence of the most striking sermon will be able to find a screen behind which to nod.

Request is Heeded. Sunday morning's congregation filled about two-thirds of the auditorium and as usual women largely predominated.

The recent resolution of the officials of the church, suggesting that the wearing of hats during the services by the women greatly obstructs the view, causing others inconvenience and annoyance, and greatly detracting from the enjoyment of the exercises and asking that at all public services the women remove their hats after entering the pews, had been published, and it was evident that most of the women present Sunday morning either read it or had heard of them in some way for a large majority were seen to remove their headgear, most of it dainty in texture but sublime in power of obstruction and volume of displacement, as soon as they reached their seats.

Many of the women held their hats upon their laps, while here and there a vacant place in the pews was smothered in piles of millinery not unlike those displayed in the enticing show windows of the big stores.

There was quite a number of women, however, who, for reasons not apparent, did not conform to the expressed wish of the directory of the church and soon after the services began the pastor, Rev. A. C. Hirst, read the resolutions from the pulpit. He stated, however, that there was nothing mandatory about them, and generally gave those women who did not exercise a readiness to expose their coiffure without preliminary furbishing to understand that they were not required to do so.

More Hats Come Off.

The announcement was followed by some additional doffing of millinery, but the movement was not by any means universal for when the sermon was half completed not less than eighteen women were counted sitting serenely with hats of varying proportions scattered through the three or four corners of the congregation occupying seats in that part of the church. Down in the body of the congregation the prevalence of the ostrich tip was less marked, although there were a number of women with hats of generous proportions occupying seats in the pews near the very front. Just under the pulpit, there were also a few elderly women scattered through the congregation whose modest bonnets were not calculated to annoy any one or shield him from the full sweep of the preacher's vision and oratory.

It is probable that in the body of the congregation not more than one woman out of four or five failed to comply with the resolution. However, it was noticed that when those who wished to unite with the church were invited to come forward, the two women who responded did not leave their hats behind them in their pews, but instead wore them just as if they had not heard the subject of women's hats mentioned.

Everybody is Satisfied. "We are thoroughly satisfied with the unanimity with which the request of the board has been complied with," said Dr. Hipple at the close of the service. "There has been some apprehension that some women might consider the resolutions an unwarranted presumption upon the part of the officiating and might consider the suggestion an invasion of their rights. There was some thought that it might not meet with favor and compliance in all quarters, but as a result the women of the church have approved the action of the board and all seem ready to adopt the suggestion with something of enthusiasm. There were a number of women who did not remove their hats, but I think that they were nearly all strangers in the congregation who had not heard of the movement before their arrival and whose hair, probably, had not been put up just as they would wish to be if they removed their hats. I think that the movement will grow in churches as it has in other public gatherings, becoming more general as it becomes known to everyone. I think that other churches will adopt the same suggestion. Next Sunday fewer hats will be worn in church than we have seen today, and each succeeding Sabbath will witness a shrinkage in the number of hats worn at the services until it will be as fixed a practice for women to take off their hats in church as it is now for men to do so."

No Reference to Easter.

It is denied that this suggestion on the part of the board is prompted by any concerted desire to cut down the expenses that invariably are attendant upon the Easter season. It is declared to be an effort simply to place the pastor within view of his listening congregation, and vice versa, for mutual benefit. To his comparatively hatless congregation Rev. Hirst preached an eloquent sermon on character-building, abounding in wholesome suggestions for the father and mother who seek to rear a family of strong, self-reliant and honorable children. Hereafter the congregations at this church will be hatless, as not a single adverse criticism has been heard, and it is considered likely that the leading church societies will adopt the suggestion.

Quick Relief for Asthma. Miss Maude Dickens, Parsons, Kan., writes: "I suffered eight years with asthma in its worst form. I had several attacks during the last year and was not expected to live through them. I began using Foley's Honey and Tar and it has never failed to give immediate relief."

The Same Old Story.

J. A. Kelly relates an experience similar to that which has happened in almost every neighborhood in the United States and has been told and re-told by thousands of people. He says: "Last summer I had an attack of dysentery and purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I used according to directions and with entirely satisfactory results. The trouble was controlled much quicker than former attacks which I used other remedies." Mr. Kelly is a well known citizen of Henderson, N. C. For sale by all druggists.

There is something about a running race which seems to stir popular enthusiasm wherever harness racing is held. It is a very respectful recognition. It is pronounced that there will be from sixty to eighty horses on hand to take part in the four to five races given each day. There will be altogether not less than twenty-one fine races, for each of which a substantial purse is hung up big enough to encourage some bursts of speed and the participation of horses of a class not seen here for years.

A lot of new box stalls have been put in at the track for the accommodation of the strings which have already registered in and those now enroute to this city. Every appearance of the modern successful harness race has been promised and will be in active operation on Tuesday, which has been christened Derby day at the Omaha Driving park. If the quarter stretch is not lined with the finest equipages of the city and their drivers, masculine and feminine, the promoters of the races, who are making a herculean effort to revive local interest in the turf, will be sorely disappointed.
