CORPORATIONS MUST APPEAR

Beard of Equalisation Will Tolerate No More Delay.

Reviewing Assessments of Bridge, Packing, Stock Yards, Street Rallway, Water, Gas and Other Big Companies Here.

At 10 o'clock this morning all minor meeting will be considered as unable or anwilling to make a showing and their assessments will be raised.

Such was the declaration of Chairman board had decided to postpone the corporamorning. There are about thirty minor cases set for hearing Thursday forenoon and as this is to be the last day of the important business, according to the statement of Chairman Connolly.

Connolly's Plain Talk.

"You may publish in The Bee," said the chairman, "that I will call up the corporation cases at 19 o'clock and insist upon their immediate consideration. We will take up the assessments of the water, gas, street railway, electric light, telephone, bridge, stock yards and packing companies at that hour and if any of them are not represented at the meeting we will take it for granted that they have no showing to make and we will proceed to raise their assessments. There will be no further de-

The corporation cases were set for hearing yesterday, but there was such a rush of other business that the board, after partly hearing the case of the Omaha Bridge and Railway Terminal company, decided to postpone further hearing to Thurs-

Sutton, representing the Hammond Packing company, were about the board months. rooms all day. The representatives of the street railway, water, gas, electric light and telephone companies did not appear, but action in their cases will be taken this morning whether they appear or not. East Omaha Bridge.

The case of the Omaha Bridge and Railway Terminal company was taken up yes-terday and Messrs. Wharton and Daniels sleep alone and should not be allowed to undertook to explain to the board why the lie on feathers. Nebraska half of the East Omaha bridge should not be assessed higher than $4,000, summoned. It is dangerous to drug chilalthough the lowa half is assessed at $17,- dren. Where people are not able to hire 500. They said the big draw span con-structed of steel and by far the costliest called. All that has been said of young structed of steel and by far the coatlest children applies equally well to older part of the bridge is in Iowa, while the children. Meats, pastry and cake should and were of little or no value.

Talks of the Future.

"We have already ordered the steel for rebuilding the Nebraska end of the bridge." sald Mr. Wharton, "and the work will be done next summer.

Commissioner Ostrom said that Douglas county is entitled to assess one-half of the total value of the bridge, no matter if one end is more valuable than the other. "Onehalf of the bridge isn't worth a continental without the other half," remarked the commissioner, "and for the purpose for wheh the bridge is used the Nebraska half is just as valuable as the Iowa half."

"But," interposed Mr. Daniels, "the Nebraska end of the bridge is nothing more than a temporary scaffold. You couldn't tax a scaffold for a house in course of construction?"

"No," replied the commissioner, "nor would I hve on a scaffold until the house is completed. Your company is living on its scaffold."

In reply to questions Mr. Daniels said the whole bridge cost about $175,000, but it is not worth near that amount now on account of depreciation. The lowa assessor had placed the actual value of the eastern half of the bridge at $70,000 and assessed it at one-fourth, or $17,500.

Commissioners Express Ideas. "I think," said Chairman Connolly to the bridge people, "that if we raise your assessment to $20,000 you will be getting off

"I think our assessment," said Commissioner Hofeldt, "ought to be at least $17,-500, the same as the Iowa assessment." Commissioner Ostrom suggested that the bridge company present a statement in writing of the cost of the property. "Then." said he, "I am in favor of the board determining the actual value of the bridge and assessing it at 16 per cent, as other property is assessed. But I do not think this assessment ought to be raised until we have reviewed the assessments of the other corporations. We can hear what they all have to say and then we will be in a position to treat them all alike."

The other members of the board agreed with Mr. Ostrom and therefore the East Omaha bridge assessment will not be raised until the assessments of the other corporations are acted upon.

TO SAVE THE LITTLE ONES

Health Commissioner Issnes Rules for Care of Children in Summer.

One-sixth of the children born in Omaha each year die before they are a year old. The death rate among children is highest during the hot weather and the city health commissioner is making an effort to better the condition of little folks during the summer. Much sickness is caused by the ignorance of parents. The health officers have issued a pamphlet instructing momers how to avoid the complaints so common to children during the warm

"Cleanliness, plenty of fresh air, proper feeding and suitable clothing are necessary to the health of children," said the health commissioner. "In feeding infants great care must be exercised in securing fresh milk. The little folks should be bathed twice a day and provided with light, clean clothes. As much fresh air should
