Preliminary steps have been taken for the incorporation of a construction company to build the line. The capital stock of this company probably will be $100,000. Yale Makes Its Play.

It was not until the three-and-a-half-Chittenden, the Yale coxewain, called on his men for a mighty effort. Up went the Yale stroke and up crept the Yale shell. Harvard tried to respond and its men answered the call herolcally, but the sons of Elf tore along in a style that was maddening for Harvard supporters.

Minor Events.

The freshmen race and the four-oar contest preceded the big event of the day. freshmen eights were sent off up the river for their two-mile row just after 5 o'clock. Yale was at the ratiroad bridge at 4:45; the Harvard youngsters were five minutes behind time. It required nearly fifteen minutes for the crews to take their places in the shells. Yale took the lead at the start and was never headed. Rounding the far turn O'Connor gave Gold Heels his head and he rushed into the lead.
