TWO GIRLS ARE MISSING

Parents and Police Expect a Double Elopement.

FLORENCE BARTLETT, RETTA DOOLITTLE

They Are Only Stateen, but Seem to Have Serious Love Affairs-Mother is Injured While Prosecuting Search.

The police force of this city is actively engaged searching for two young girls who have disappeared from their homes and whose anxious parents have sought the assistance of the authorities in trying to find them. The missing girls are Florence Bartlett, who lived with her parents on Little Benton street, and Retta Doolittle, daughter of J. A. Doolittle, a farmer of Carson, this county. The Bartlett girl left her home Sunday and although she has been seen several times since the police yesterwere unable to place their hands on her. Miss Doolittle is supposed to have eloped Wednesday from the parental roof with a youth named Trice and was thought to be in this city yesterday, but the police were unable to find any trace of her.
