"So this sentiment has, of course, increased to a tenfold intensity the strong feeling in favor of the national irrigation scheme, by vast reservoirs in the guiches and canyons and valleys, the government being the owner and operator of the entire plant. It is remarkable what a demand their is for such a system, and how the plan has grown in popular favor. This feeling has been especially noticeable since that open letter of J. J. 'Again, the drouth has shown the people for the first time the real extent and value of the great cattle ranges in Wyoming. They had not realized before what those pastures really amounted to, or what chances were there. The fact that thousands of head of Nebraska cattle are now feeding up there has awakened them to a realization of this fact.

This year's drouth is to have a vast influence on summer travel next year. This season 50,000 travelers visited the mountains of Colorado. Next year there will be 100,000. The terrible heat which has been suffered through the central west will cause the increase. By going to the mountains one can keep cool and comfort able. People know this and those who did DEATH OF REV. GEORGE GUE not go have been sorry they did not. They will get out early next year and in unprecedented crowds. Mrs. Karr and her daughter went up to Lake Okoboji a few days ago. The day they left Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wilson, a newlymarried couple of Rising City, came to Omaha on their honeymoon. They are friends of the president of the council and came to his home. Omaha councilmen are nothing if not versatile. Mr. Karr was taking his meals out, but didn't want to expose the bride and groom to the scrutinizing eyes of a boarding-house table. He 'phoned to the grocer, the butcher and the baker and announced to his guests that dinner would be served shortly.

And dinner was served. The young couple liked the councilman's cooking so well that they stayed with him for a day and a half. The neighbor women say the Karr kitchen is slightly disorganized, but Mr. and Mrs. Wilson declared Mr. Karr a capital cook.

Investigation is Now On to Locate the Mysteriously Missing Man, Who is Reported to Be in This City-Alleged Bogus Corpse.

The disappearance and supposed suicidal frowning of Chris Harm, a Ute (la.) merchant, a few weeks ago, promises to reveal an interesting story, with an Omaha chapter for a climax.

It has been strongly intimated that Harm did not drown himself-in fact, that he still lives and that back of it all is an effort to realize on an insurance policy. Telegraphic advices from Sioux City are to the effect that Harm is now believed Several thousand dollars are involved. The Harm case has numerous ramifications, some of which are exceedingly sensational Harm's Mysterious End.

Chris Harm is under suspicion of having fled from Ute, In , with the double motive of securing $4,000 life insurance and of avoiding suits now pending for $20,000. The suicide theory is supported by the finding of a body supposed to be that of the federal building September 4 contains Harm in Soldier creek. IS HOME AGAIN ELBOURN Clerk and Family Return from Extended Outing on the Atlantic Const.

City Clerk W. H. Elbourn and family have returned from a three weeks' visit in Maryland. They were at Swan Point, Tolchester Beach and other summer resorts and spent some time in cruising along Chesapeake bay. Mr. Elbourn and his family spent several days at the Buffalo exposition and met the Omaha people who are connected with the big show.

"The attendance at the exposition is disappointing," said Mr. Elbourn. "It seldom crawls above 40,000 a day and the concessionaires are complaining of the small crowds. Omaha men have the best shows treatments. The Bathery, 216-220 Bee Bld. on the Midway, but are not doing the business their attractions merit."

Mr. Elbourn went to Buffalo by way of Kansas City and returned over the same route. He says the crops in Kansas, Missourt and Illinois looked fine three weeks ago, but the drouth has gotten in its work and damaged them to an alarming extent. "Kansas crops are in a bad condition parts of Missouri have fared badly. In diana corn looks bad and Illinois corn shows the effects of the dry weather. Saturday and Sunday we passed through good rains Illinois will fare pretty well in spite of the drouth and parts of Missouri will come out all right, but corn in Kansas looks as though it were too far gone to be helped,' said Mr. Elbourn.
