

HOW THE BASE BALL GOES

Omaha Team is Still an Active Candidate for the Pennant. FORTY-THREE GAMES YET TO COME. Suggestion that All Others Should Stand Out of the Way and Allow Omaha and Kansas City to Fight It Out.

With forty-three games of baseball yet before it, the Omaha team is still strongly in the race for the pennant. Though Minneapolis skates right along side by side with it, the Omaha team is still strongly in the race for the pennant.

St. Joseph has a lead in the percentage column that really does not amount to anything at all, for when the Omahans strike the bats for which their armers are patiently waiting forty or fifty points of difference will vanish like chaff before the wind.

Kansas City is really the only huge stumbling block. With its lead of more than 100 percentage points it looks far and away to the house to go, but it is not yet a stone wall.

The great pity, in the opinion of most people, is that Omaha and Kansas City cannot play it out for the pennant against each other from now on. Since away from the first of the season the locals have never had any trouble in defeating the Blues, taking either all three or anyway two of the different series.

Now it is generally conceded both in Omaha and Kansas City that the two teams representing those cities are easily the best in the league.

Back to Omaha. The team comes back home tomorrow afternoon and plays here, beginning Tuesday, for six days.

Then the boys leave again after the Sunday game and begin work abroad once more, playing first at St. Paul and next at Minneapolis.

The team comes back home tomorrow afternoon and plays here, beginning Tuesday, for six days. St. Paul stickers will follow. That should by all the rules of precedent and merit mean at least four victories.

Then the boys leave again after the Sunday game and begin work abroad once more, playing first at St. Paul and next at Minneapolis.

DENVER MEN OUT OF THE GAME

Pitcher Butler in Bad Repute and Center Fielder McHale Disabled with a Broken Head. Pitcher Butler, who has been twirling for Denver, has probably done his last day's work in the box this season.

McHale, Denver's center fielder, is out of the game for this season. His skull was badly fractured by a thrown ball a week ago Saturday and his condition now, after a week in the Denver hospital, is such that he promises no recovery that will permit his playing this year.

Recent base ball rumors is to the effect that Jimmy Ryan, owner of the St. Paul club, is now desirous of selling out all his interest in the Polar Bear organization and taking up the Denver franchise.

GOLF GAME IS BAROMETER

Certain Class of Players Serve as an Index to the Weather. Another Class, the Enthusiasts, Hunt the Links on Any Kind of Day, No Matter What the Temperature, and Play Industriosly.

A certain class of golf players act as an accurate indicator of the condition of the weather. It is comprised of the people who are not in the same especially hard for the club members to be derived, for the purpose of becoming marvelous at it, but who simply play for amusement, society and entertainment.

These golfers naturally do not discommodate themselves any for the game, and that is why they possess such peculiar barometrical properties. When the weather is nice and cool and in every way propitious for an easy, comfortable game they are out in force.

After the weeks and weeks of wearisome watching for pleasant days the sudden fulfillment of the weather forecast is hailed as a triumph. Whether he had been on the grill during that time in a sturdy determination to stick to the game or loafing around the cool, shady corners laying away frigid drinks it was all the same.

Regardless of Weather. Although the actual coolness only lasted really about three days, that did not make any difference. People got started, and although it became much hotter Thursday and later, they kept right on playing during the afternoons.

While going up this rapid gait he stands on the upper side of his machine, pedaling with his feet on the pedals of the frame. Then he sits sideways, pedaling with his left foot on the right pedal.

After this Jones dons a shirt collar and waistcoat, coat and hat, and starts riding at full speed around the track.

The increased favor with which American bicycles are being received abroad each year is emphasized by more liberal orders from the leading European dealers during the past season.

With more courses this would be avoided and thus the sole objectionable feature of the game in Omaha eliminated.

IN THE WHEELING WORLD

The 'bicycle face' which haunted the highways and horrified the doctors a few years ago, has given place to the real thing—the bicycle race. This is no pipe-dream.

So there is no reason why Omaha should not have still another golf course. There is ample room and many satisfactory places are open where it might be built, game people will not stop at a matter of distance.

Old-Time Custom. It was then the custom to string all contest racquets with a much lighter gauge of gut than is now used.

In all other lines tennis equipment surpasses what it was when the game was last at its height in popularity.

GREAT REVIVAL OF TENNIS

Good Old Game is Once More Becoming Popular in Omaha. CHANGES IN RULES AND CONSTRUCTION. Now Comes a Comparison Between the Old and the New Ways of Handling the Racquet—Memories of Tournaments of Other Days.

The seven days' wonder among the tennis players just now is the great improvement in the construction of all the paraphernalia in the game over what it formerly was.

Difference in expense, alterations in style, rules and grounds are all discussed, but the greatest of interest is in the means by which the contest is conducted.
