

NEW YARDS FOR ELKHORN

Work is Under Way on Fourteen Tracks in South Omaha.

FIRST TASK IS DIMINISHMENT OF GRADE

Several New Buildings Will Be Constructed, Chief Among Which is Engine House Containing Twelve Stalls.

By the middle of next February the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad will be operating through and over its new yards in South Omaha, now in process of construction.

The building of this yard with its connections has involved many features of railway construction. It is to be a fourteen-track diagonal yard and is just this side of the city.

Besides that extra grade work several new buildings and equipment appliances will be constructed. Chief will be a twelve-stall engine house. A coal house, turntable and water tank will complete the yard.

Another important feature will be the Northwestern connecting track. In order to let this line into the yards it will be necessary to build a track from them to the Union Pacific road.

The construction of this connection alone will involve several important pieces of railroad work. The connection will be made at a point so high above the grade that it will be necessary to bridge across Thirty-sixth street, the main line of the Elkhorn road itself, the Belt line and the boulevard on steel viaduct work.

CALVERT'S REPORT ON CROPS

Too Early Yet to Give an Accurate Idea as to Wheat.

In his weekly crop report to General Manager Holdrege, Superintendent Calvert of the Burlington road says there has scarcely been sufficient fall plowing yet to indicate the probable acreage of winter wheat in Nebraska this year.

Another interesting statement is that pastures everywhere are improving every day. Either general or local rains have covered the state entire and the open air feeding is becoming high class.

A salient feature of the report is that disclosing the contradictory condition of the potato crop in different sections of the state. Along the northern division there will not be enough of the "Murphies" to satisfy home consumption, while out west the crop is good.

The hay is abundant between Alliance and Broken Bow and out toward Denver alfalfa is being cut for feed or will be soon. In some places late corn is yielding from ten to twenty-five bushels.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT COMES HERE

Force of Twenty Burlington Employees Transferred from Plattsmouth.

On Monday next the supply department of the Burlington road will move up from Plattsmouth, bag and baggage and employees, to new quarters in the headquarters building at Tenth and Farnam streets in Omaha.

This change has been contemplated for some time and was recently definitely determined upon. The department has always been located at Plattsmouth, but it was desired by the management to concentrate localities of all departments as much as possible in one place to expedite business arrangements in connection with the railroad.

Supply Agent Joseelyn will bring with him to Omaha his entire working force of twenty men. The department will have quarters on the third floor of the headquarters building, comprising three large rooms on the west side.

HINKLES RESORT TO PRAYER

Colored Burglar and His Wife Create a Scene at Police Station.

Revelations Continue to Come

Detective Takes Hinkle About Town in a Buggy So He May Point Out the Houses He Has Looted.

"Pray, Charlie! Pray till the blood comes!" sobbed Mrs. Oella Hinkle as she thrust her hand to her husband's feet and begged his knees.

This little scene was witnessed by several officers in the sweatbox at the police station yesterday morning when Charles T. Hinkle and his wife, both colored, were undergoing "quizz" relative to the whereabouts of several caches of stolen goods.

The police are still busy gathering the fruits of Hinkle's forays, and since Tuesday have collected several hundred dollars' worth of goods, and the end is not yet. It seems that his house on Twenty-fifth street was not the only hiding place for his plunder.

Since his arrest Hinkle has confessed to several burglaries in addition to those already published, and among these is the looting of J. A. Doe's residence, 316 North Twenty-third street, which occurred December 9 of last year.

Wing B. Allen has gone into the district court in search of an elaborate and radiant wardrobe which, through the harsh machinations of the law, escaped from his quarters at the Her Grand some weeks ago.

URNS ON GAS AND DIES

Stranger Supposed to Be J. W. McBride is Found Dead in Room at Midland Hotel.

A man apparently about 55 years old, who signed the name of J. W. McBride to the Midland hotel register shortly after midnight Tuesday, was found dead in his bed at 9:30 yesterday morning.

McBride, if that is his name, appears to have taken precautions to conceal his identity and address. In signing the register he left blank the space in which is usually written the guest's home town.

At the inquest today a young woman employed as chambermaid at the hotel will testify and it is her story that the coroner thinks adds a peculiar feature to the case.

We Experiment In Our Shoe Dept. We do lots of experimenting, not with our customers but among ourselves. We put them on the feet of our salespeople, they look for all the defects, and if they find a single fault it's rectified. That's one reason why
