PIE FOR THE FUSIONISTS COMES HIGH

Cost of Maintaining the Auditor's Of-See, the Court House Janitors and the Poor Agent Grows Amazingly.

There is no law for the office of county auditor. The work comes within the pur-view of the county clerk. But Douglas county was given an auditor by the demoeratic Board of County Commissioners in 1889, when one man was set to work checking up records. This office has thrived, apparently, until it has come to be a most contly affair.

Court House.

The courthouse is no larger, nor is it any better kept than it was five years ago. but it requires $1,980 more a year for janitor service than it did in 1896. Up to the beginning of the year 1900 the courthouse force consisted of an engineer, who also served as chief janitor, at $1,080 a year, and three assistants at $600 a year each, making the total of the annual salaries $2,880. In 1900 the county board put on a fourth assistant janitor at $600 and indulged in the luxury of a groundkeeper at a cost of $600, thus adding $1,200 to the yearly expense without improving the service.

In 1961 the office of superintendent of the courthouse was created, especially for the benefit of Ed Dee, and the salary was fixed at $1,080 a year. As $300 was cut off the salary of the engineer the net increase in the annual payroll was $780.

Seven men are employed to do the same work that was satisfactorily performed by four men up to two years ago, and the amount of the annual salaries has increased from $2.880 in 1899 to $4,860 in 1901. The groundkeeper, Henry Beal, who happens to be a relative of Commissioner Hoctor, draws his monthly stipend the year round and when there is any snow to shovel in the winter time a colored man is hired by the day to do the work. Superintendent Dec may be found at Superintendent Dee may be found at to be in proper shape by next Wednesday, almost any hour of the day with his feet the opening day. The alley leading from perched upon a desk in his office swapping Nineteenth to Eighteenth street, between stories with a select company of popoeratic Farnam and Douglas, is to be included in in killing time.

Poor Agent.

The best index to the amount of work done by the county agent's office is found in the record of amounts spent each year for outside poor relief. The expenditures on this account have been as follows:

In 1896, when $18,626 was spent for the relief of the poor, the county agent, at a salary of $900, attended to the work alone. In 1897, when the work was less, the force included, the county agent and three assistants, each of whom received a salary of $600 a year. Then for three years the work was done by the agent and one assistant. For the year 1901 the force consists of the agent and two assistants, although the work will be considerably less than it was last year.

The two assistants were allowed by the county board as temporary employes last winter, but they have remained on the payroll ail summer. The relief work during the summer months is very light, not being sufficient to keep even one man busy.

The large trade is due to a considerable degree to the failures of the gardens of the territory covered by the Omaha jobbers, as much preserved vegetables are used in lieu ings. The increase in this department was of the fresh produce. This condition continues and will have no slight bearing upon September trade. There is a change, although slight, in the condition of the canned goods market, which brings relief to the jobbers. Since the middie of August there has been a great increase in the amount of corn which can be canned in the west. Several canning factories which had sent word that they could only fill part of their orders have notified the houses that they can make full deliveries, but that aside from the advance sales they can supply no goods.

The condition of tomatoes has changed slightly for the better, but not so much as corn. Other vegetables remain the same as at the middle of August, all being scarce, with the probability of an advance in price as soon as the fresh stock is entirely off the market.
