An original melodrama of absorbing interest. "The Convict's Daughter." will be offered at the Dohany theater tonight. It portrays phases of human nature encountered every day. The stupendous scenic features, sensational realism and heart interest are its dominant elements. Five acts are required to develop the story. The first is a southern homestead, the second Colonel Gould's drawing room, the third a shabby home in the quarries, the fourth a jail and the fifth is a repetition of the first scene. The principal characters are true to southern life.

The wide range of society covered by the plot of the new Russo-Siberian play, "For Her Sake," which is to be seen at the Dohany soon, ought to furnish exceptional opportunity for scenic effect, and it is said that the Carpenter company which produced the piece did not fall to profit by their chance. The company is is stated, carries a carboad of special scenery, all of which was painted by artists who made a study of the scenes which it was aimed to reproduce. The place is in four acts. The last act depicts the sulphur mines in Kara. Siberia, with the accompaniment of some thrilling dramatic action. The company is an exceptionally large one, even for the spectacular sort of play of which "For Her Sake" is one of the notable examples.
